General Denies [illegible]laim He Sought to Borrow $50,000 From Hughes

Gen. Meyers, Signer Of XF-11 Contract, Terms Charge at Hearing Ludricrous

By Mary Spargo
Post Reporter

Maj. Gen. Bennett E. Meyers yesterday denied charges that he had made vain attempts to get a $50,000 loan or "advance" from Howard Hughes before he signed a 22-million-dollar wartime contract for the millionaire plane designer's FX-11 photo-reconnaissance plane.

The wartime chief of the Air Forces Materiel Command, now retired, twisted angrily in the witness chair before the Senate War Investigating Committee when he heard a sworn statement that Hughes had refused the loan as "improper."

The charges were read into the record from sworn testimony, given in executive session by Neil S. McCarthy, Los Angeles attorney and former vice president of the Hughes Aircraft Co.

"Asked More Than Once"

According to McCarthy, Meyers asked first for an advance on a $50,000-a-year postwar job Hughes had offered him, and subsequently, more than once, for a loan to use as a down payment on war bonds.

McCarthy stated in his testimony, as read into the record by Francis D. Flanagan, chief assistant committee counsel:

"I said to him that one reason we could not (make the advance) was because he had to do with the F-11, and that, since he had to do with it as a representative of the Government, would prevent our having any kind of a business transaction with him.

"He stated that didn't make any difference because he was going to approve the F-11, the purchasing of it by the Government, that the Government should have it, as he expressed it, and he was going to approve it whether we made any deal with him or not."

Returns to Stand

Meyers, who only half an hour before had denied accepting $673.70 free lodging and transportation from Johnny Meyer, Hughes' night-clubbing public relations expert, popped back in the witness chair as soon as the testimony had been read.

"It's ludicrous, absolutely ridiculous, to think that I in any way, shape or manner solicited one nickel from Mr. Hughes, the Hughes Aircraft Co. or any of its representatives," he snapped.

Earlier Meyers had acknowledged that he had tried only a few months ago, after the committee investigation started, to get Hughes to invest $50,000 in a business enterprise for him. Hughes refused, he said.

Meyers testified that he remembered telling McCarthy he was considering buying some bonds and asking for his advice.

Just 'Wanted Opinion'

"He (McCarthy) asked if there wasn't some way that Mr. Hughes could help me on it and I told him 'no,' that I just wanted his opinion," Meyers said.

Pressed by Senator Herbert O'Conor (D., Md.) as to why he had brought up the matter of his proposed bond purchase at all, Meyers replied that it was "just conversation."

Under questioning earlier, Mey-

2 Safeway Worker Units Vote for Union

Warehouse Men, Drivers Support Proposal, 495-4

Warehouse employes and drivers of Safeway Stores, Inc., yesterday voted overwhelmingly for the union shop in the District's first consent election under the new Taft-Hartley law. It was one of the first such cases in the Nation.

The vote, 495 to 4, authorized the Teamsters Union (AFL) to bargain with the company for a union shop agreement. The union shop provides that employes must become members of the union within 30 days after their employment.

Safeway and the Teamsters Union, representing warehousemen and drivers, have had contractual relations 10 years and have had a closed shop agreement for several years. The closed shop was outlawed in the Taft-Hartley measure.

Elections are scheduled in four other departments of the Safeway system here on Monday.

William Humphreys, field examiner of the National Labor Relations Board, Baltimore office, who conducted the elections yesterday, said the warehouse employes vote was 299 for the union shop to 4 against it. The 196 drivers voted unanimously, the NLRB announced.

Boston Printers Win $11.76 Raise

Boston, Nov. 7 (AP).—The Boston Newspaper Publishers Association announced today it had "reached a settlement with the Boston Typographical Union on the basis of an increase of $11.76 per week."

P. J. Flaherty, secretary of the association, who made the announcement, made no mention of a contract and individual publishers declined comment.

The union's Boston office also had no immedate comment.

Woman, Man Die in Area Auto Crashes

Children Shaken When School Bus And Auto Collide

A Washington woman motorist and an aged Alexandria man were killed in automobile accidents in Greater Washington yesterday.

Six children were shaken up when their school bus collided with a car in the District; two drivers and a pedestrian were hurt in a freak crash; a woman was injured when a driveless car crashed into her house.

Killed were:

Mrs. Elaine Anna Brooks, 24, of 1736 Benning rd. ne., died when her car left the road and overturned on Central ave in nearby Prince Georges County, Md.

John F. Robey, 74, of 113 Clifford ave, Alexandria, Va., was injured fatally when hit by a car on Commonwealth ave near Mount Vernon ave, Alexandria, at 6 p. m.

School Bus in Crash

The school children, ranging from 4 to 8 years, were riding in a bus owned by the Parsons Countryside Day and Boarding School, 9401 Georgia ave., when it struck a car halted by traffic. Driver of the bus was Robert G. Jackson, 29, of 6401 Walker Hill rd., Oakland, Md., who was charged with failing to give full time and attention to driving.

None of the children was injured seriously, and all attended morning classes, according to Harry Parsons, owner of the school. All the 11 children were taken to Casualty Hospital. Those slightly hurt were:

Richard M. Curtain, 8, of 3926 E. Capitol st.; Spencer Poore, 5, of 3423 Eads st. ne.; Myron P. Berger, 8, of 3538 A st. se.; Marcia Bailey, 4, of 126 34th st. se.; Joan Cassell, 7, of 3501 E. Capitol st., and David Faulconer, 5, of 1510 Isherwood pl. ne.

14c Sales Tax Exemption Voted for Md.

Bill Goes to Lane; Plan to Have State Yield Funds Above 21 Millions Killed

By N. S. Haseltine
Post Reporter

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 7.—Maryland delegates tonight passed and sent unchanged to Governor Lane his own measure raising the minimum base for State sales tax collections from 9 to 14 cents.

The bill was passed over strong-voiced opposition which was led by Montgomery County Republicans.

House approval of the Senate passed bill prefaced a final crumbling of antiadministration forces. From then on, the delegates strove only to clear the calendar for final adjournment, possibly by early tomorrow.

Return Move Killed

The telling vote that assured Lane of eventual victory came at 6 p. m. when the delegates voted 82 to 32 to reject an amandment that all sales tax revenues over 21 million dollars be prorrated back to city, county and political subdivision treasuries.

Administration leaders warned the delegates from the floor that Lane would veto the bill if amended, which would mean keeping the present system of taxing all retail purchases over 9 cents.

Four amendments, including one asking outright repeal of the sales tax on July 1, 1948, were offered in turn by Delegate John R. Reeves (R., Montgomery County) Bethesda lawyer, but each with diminishing support. The Lane bill was finally voted approved by a roll call vote of 111 to 9, ending a three-hour fight.

Base Also Broadened

The measure, effective on the Governor's signature, will mean that no sales tax will be collected on articles sold for less than 15 cents. It also broadened the base of the original tax bill to include food sold for off-premise but not home consumption.

After settling the sales tax problem, the House took up the most important remaining bill, that to give Baltimore City more taxing powers—the main reason the special session was called.

The measure passed the Senate last night over administration opposition with a clause which will permit the city to tax gross receipts of buses and streetcars. Under an agreement, the bill was passed in the House with four amendments, one of which will prohibit taxing of buses coming coming into Baltimore from outside the city.

Montgomery For It

Earlier, when the House voted on the sales tax amendment to cut off sales tax revenue at 21 million dollars, all six members of the Montgomery County delegation voted for the amendment. The six delegates from Prince Georges County voted just as solidly against it.

Majority Leader LeRoy Pumphrey (D., Prince Georges County), of Marlboro, Md., pointing out that his county's delegates were "administration men" and at the same time opponents of the sales tax, spoke against the amendment.

"I have no quarrel with the amendment," he said, "but I do believe it is ill-timed."

Pumphrey said the sales tax was

Poultryless Thursday Suspended

Canceling Depends On Results From Substitute Plan; Egg 'Ban' Stays

By Sam Zagoria
Post Reporter

Paultryless Thursday was suspended last night by the President's Citizens Food Committee.

The action was taken after the committee accepted a five-point substitute grain-saving program, advanced by poultry producers. Complete abandonment of the much protested measure was made conditional on the success of the industry plan.

The campaign had given the Nation five poultryless Thursdays.

The moratorium on the poultryless Thursday will result in Thursday being known as eggless Thursday. The committee decided to continue the campaign for lower egg consumption.

Yesterday's action was the culmination of three weeks of almost continuous negotiations between the committee, the Agriculture Department, the four major farm groups and the poultrymen.

Probably Hastened Action

Bruce Catton, information chief for the committee, vigorously denied that the "Hens for Harry" and "Leghorns for Luckman" shipments of poultry to President Truman and Committee Chairman Charles Luckman by irate chicken raisers forced the decision.

He declared, "The committee was practically ready to button up the moratorium at the time the first chickens arrived." However, he admitted, the poultry arrivals "probably hastened it."

The program agreed upon to replace poultryless Thursday pledges the poultry producers and the farm groups to:

1. Reduce the number of broiler chicks by one third below normal seasonal levels by January 31.
2. Make a reduction of 7 per cent in the production of baby chicks for all purposes between February 1 and June 30.
3. Make a cut of 12 per cent in turkey poults as compared with 1947 levels.
4. Reduce duck production by 15 per cent below 1947 levels.
5. Reduce the poultry population, through careful culling of flocks, by 136 million chickens by January 1.

Grain Savings Figured

The conferees estimated the cuts in the number of broiler and baby chicks would save 21 million bushels of grain. The reduction in turkey poults would add 4,700,000 bushels; in ducks, 350,000 bushels, and in cutting poultry flocks, 30 million bushels.

This would save a total of 56 million bushels of grain during the current year—the largest saving from any single part of the drive thus far, committee officials said.

Thursday, when the live chicken shipments began arriving at the State Department headquarters of the committee, Luckman commented that "anytime the Poultrymen's Association or anyone else can show us a better way to save grain than by having poultryless Thursdays, we will be glad to adopt it."

Yesterday Luckman, who was in Los Angeles, said he was "happy to accept this program not only because it is the greatest single

Committee Proposes 8-Man Corporation To Run European Aid

Bipartisan Agency Would Be Set Up To Direct Buying, Screen Requests

(Text on Page 2)

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

A special House committee on foreign aid last night unanimously recommended creation of an eight-man bipartisan Government corporation to run the emergency and long-range foreign assistance programs.

The proposed agency would direct purchasing of food, fuel and fertilizers, screen requests for aid, allocate supplies for export, and determine the price recipient countries would pay.

Representative Christian A. Herter (R., Mass.), acting head of the House group, said Governments aided would be expected to pay for the supplies either in their own local currencies or in dollars.

Stockpiles to United States

"Since their problem is exchange, most of them would pay in local currencies," he said.

Local administrative boards would set up in each of the recipient countries, with United States citizens in majority control. These would manage the proceeds to rebuild the wealth of the recipient country and produce some critical materials for stockpiling in the United States.

Programs launched by the new corporation would be coordinated through a Foreign Aid Council, presided over by the Secretary of State, and including top officials of all Government agencies concerned with foreign aid.

Banks' Use Proposed

To meet other "genuine requirements for foreign aid in capital goods, equipment and raw materials," the Herter Committee recommended use of the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development and the Export-Import Bank.

It recommended the Export-Import Bank be strengthened and provided with additional resources.

Reaching full agreement on all but one major point, the so-called Herter Committee released its conclusions on European recovery in summary form, but delayed textual release of its formal report.

Eighteen members of the 19-man committee, including several prewar isolationists, backed the findings. The nineteenth, Representative Francis Case (R., S. Dak.), was not present, and may sign too.

Political Angle Unsettled

Previously agreed that "gravely threatened" western Europe urgently needs help, the special group yesterday resolved its main controversy over how the program should be run.

Still unsettled were its findings on whether "political strings" should be tied to the aid. Representative Christian A. Herter (R., Mass.), who led the group to Europe, has recommended that the United States not intervene in the internal affairs of any nation helped.

The bipartisan Government corporation, proposed to run most of the program, marked a compromise from the original proposal to put Republican-nominated directors in majority control. Only restriction on the President's appointments

Succeeds Ousted Tatarescu

Anna Pauker, Belligerent Red, Takes Romanian Cabinet Post

Bucharest, Romania, Nov. 7 (AP). Anna Pauker, woman Communist leader and one of the architects of the new International Communist Information Bureau, became Romanian Foreign Minister today in a cabinet reorganization which considerably tightened leftist control of the government.

[She is believed to be the first woman ever to head a foreign ministry.]

Mme. Pauker succeeds Gheorghe Tatarescu, who resigned yesterday with three other non-Communist national Liberal Party ministers, after Parliament had voted no confidence in Tatarescu.

This development was a direct result of testimony at the treason trial of Peasant Party Leader Juliu Maniu and 18 others, to the effect that some of the defendants obtained secret documents from Tatarescu's ministry, and allegedly passed them along to American officials. The trial, which started October 29, is in recess.

Mme. Pauker was sworn into office with three other new ministers and four undersecretaries in the presence of King Mihai I.

Other ministers inducted are Vasile Luca, a Communist, Minister of Finance; Theodor Iordachescu, Socialist, Public Works; and Stancu Stoian, Ploughman's Front, Minister of Cults (religion).

The new undersecretaries are George Vasilichi, Communist, National Education; Ion Popescu, Labor and Social Party, Insurance;

Bishops Warn Of Hysterical Fear of Reds

Episcopal Leaders Assail Inquisitions Into Men's Beliefs

Winston Salem, N. C. Nov. 7 (NYHT).—The House of Bishops of the Protestant Episcopal Church at its final session today; unanimously adopted a resolution which affirmed that "an inquisitorial investigation of men's personal beliefs is a threat to freedom of conscience."

It also warned against an "hysterical fear of communism" that shall "lead us to fight that danger with weapons destructive of the treasures we seek to guard."

Introduced by Biship Dun

The Right Rev. Angus Dun, Bishop of Washington, D. C., introduced the resolution.

The full text, accepted without any discussion follows:

"Resolved as bishops in the Church of God we call upon the people of our churches to be on their guard lest an hysterical fear of communism shall lead us to fight that danger with weapons destructive of the treasures we seek to guard. The surest way to fight communism is to work unceasingly at home and abroad for a society in which justice and the dignity of free men are in truth guaranteed to men of every race and condition.

"An inquisitorial investigation of men's personal beliefs is a threat to freedom of conscience. The casting of public suspicion on fellow citizens under the protection of congressional immunity can readily become an offense against God's commandment, thou shall not bear false witness against thy neighbor.

Knutson Bill To Cut Taxes To Be Held Up

GOP High Command Decides to Shelve It Until January

The Republican high command yesterday persuaded House Ways and Means Chairman Harold Knutson to lay aside tax cutting until the January session of Congress.

The decision, only tentative before, was reached in a "hair-down" talk between Knutson and Speaker Joseph W. Martin, jr. (R., Mass.).

Later Martin told newsmen:

"I feel we should do this out of common courtesy and fairness to the President. He has called this session to consider emergency aid to Europe and possibly price action here. We are putting emergency aid first."

Halleck Concurs

The Speaker said he still stands by his advocacy of a four-billion-dollar tax cut but there is a limit to "partisanship" at this time.

"If we passed a tax bill in the special session, certainly some people would call it obstructionist," he said.

Following the conference, Knutson said: "I rather expect the bill will go over until January."

House Republican Leader Charles A. Halleck (Ind.) issued a formal statement saying there is no slackening in Republican determination to effect tax relief. But he added:

"However, there appears to be no demand that it come up in the special session."

Plan Jan. 1 Effective Date

Speaker Martin said a bill to cut taxes will be brought up at the "propitious" time in the next regular session, probably early in January. In that event, he said, tax cuts to January 1 would be made retroactive.

"I don't mean I am retreating one bit from my advocacy of tax reduction," Martin said. "I think it is a vital and essential part of

Rogge Predicts New U.S Drive On Communists

Los Angeles, Nov. 7 (U.P.).—A wave of arrests of Communists and fellow travelers on the eve of the special session of Congress was predicted tonight by O. John Rogge, former assistant to the United States Attorney General.

Rogge said the mass roundup within the next 10 days was intended to whip up anti-Soviet hysteria" before Congress goes into session.

The former prosecutor of wartime seditionists said that "phony passport cases will be blown up into a hugh Soviet scare story."

Rogge said the development will come from indictments voted by a special Federal grand jury which has been in session in New York City since June.

"The grand jurors, I understand, wouldn't go for trumped-up stuff. So the FBI and the Justice Department now . . . have prepared instead a list of cases involving alleged passport frauds, cases where known Communists and others allegedly made misstatements."

Church-Boycotted Amishman Is Awarded $5000 Damages

Wooster, Ohio, Nov. 7 (AP).—A jury today awarded a 33-year-old Amish farmer $5000 in damages after he contended four church officials had imposed an Amish "mite" or boycott against him and that he had been socially ostracized for five years.

In addition, Judge Walter J. Mougey granted an injunction restraining the four churchmen from imposing any boycotts against Andrew J. Yoder which would deny him the right of religious liberty or cut him off from any social or business relations with his fellow church members.

Judge Mougey ordered the four officials of the Helmuth District Church to withdraw any order instructing their congregation to boycott Yoder for alleged violation of church rules.

He testified the boycott was imposed after he transferred his membership from the Helmuth District Church to the more liberal Bunker Hill District congregation. He explained he made the transfer because he wanted to buy an automobile to transport his invalid daughter for medical treatment. Regulations of the Helmuth Church forbid ownership or operation of an automobile.

His neighbors refused to have any dealings with him after the ban was announced, he added.

The defendant churchmen were Bishop John W. Helmuth of Beach City, Minister Isaac I. Miller of Apple Creek and John J. Nisley of Fredericksburg, and Deacon Emmanuel Wengerd of Beach City.

They testified the boycott was imposed because Yoder broke his church regulations when he transferred to another congregation. They contended that the matter was "between him and God."

"The court believes this is an individual matter of religious freedom," the judge declared.

Afterward, Yoder said, "I am satisfied. I think they (the churchmen) will think some time before they put on any more bans."

Yoder had asked for $40,000 damages for impairment of his health and interference with his means of making a living.

Inside Track Seen for Mason On 3d Term as Commissioner

By Edward F. Ryan
Post Reporter

Commissioner Guy Mason now has a firm inside track to continue in office after his present term expires November 29.

That President Truman will renominate him for a new three-year term is the present belief of informed officials at the District Building, the Capitol and the White House.

Mason, 67, is rounding out his second three-year term as a District Commissioner.

Mason's formal commission is dated November 29, 1944. He was sworn in December 11, 1944. Although this raises a question about when his term expires, officials point out that he is commissioned for three years and until a successor is qualified.

Often a storm-center of civic disputes, Mason has ridden safely through a congressional demand for his removal, and through frequent criticism by various Washington groups.

Gains Strong Supporters

He also has gained strong supporters in the city and in Congress who are warm in their praise of his official performance.

In recent months, Mason has come through a serious illness, fighting off the after-effects by putting in full work-days at his office.

He wants to continue on the job. Some individuals listed as prospective candidates for the job are strong supporters of Mason in his wish to continue as a Commissioner.

These include James E. Colliflower, prominent Washington businessman and chairman of the District Citizens Food Conservation Committee, and Renah F. Camalier, attorney and former counsel of the Senate District Committee.

Each said he would rather see Mason have the job than get it himself.

Wouldn't Think of It

When Colliflower was asked about a report he wanted the job he said "No sir, Guy Mason is one of my best friends, and I wouldn't think of it."

Said Camalier: "Mason has made a good Commissioner. He has rendered honest service. I think he's entitled to reappointment if he wants it. I have never been and am not a candidate for the job."

William E. Leahy, attorney and wartime head of the District Selective Service setup, has also been mentioned as a candidate, but he said "I wouldn't take the job under any circumstances."

The same went for Edgar Morris, chairman of the District Board of Public Welfare. Said Morris: "I've never aspired to the job and have no idea of ever aspiring to it."

C. Melvin Sharpe, retired Pepco official, and now a member of the District Education and Recreation Boards, said the report that he was a candidate for the Commissioner's job "is brand new to me." He added "Russ Young (Commissioner John Russell Young) and Guy

Judge Rules Negro Teachers Are Due Same Pay as Whites

New Orleans, Nov. 7 (AP).—Federal Judge Wayne G. Borah ruled today that Negro school teachers must be paid the same salaries as white teachers of equal qualifications.

He said that Negroes are denied equal protection of the law as guaranteed by the Constitution when they are paid under a dual system which provides higher salaries for white teachers.

Judge Borah's decision came in a 3-year-old case against the Iberville Parish, La., school board. Wiley Butler McMilon, Negro principal, set forth that as principal of the school at White Castle he received an annual salary of $505.50, while a white teacher of similar qualifications was paid $1474.20.

6 Police Fatally Shoot Youth After Threats

Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 7 (AP).—The police commissioner today promised a "thorough investigation" of the fatal police shooting of a 19-year-old former soldier last night as a crowd of about 300 watched.

The Negro youth, Roland T. Price, formerly of Greensboro, N. C., was shot seven times by a squad of six patrolmen after, police said, he threatened to pull a gun.

The police had been called to a downtown restaurant where Price, wearing the Army uniform his family said he had donned for a visit to the Freedom Train, had claimed he was shortchanged $4.

Dr. Charles T. Lunsford, former president of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, protested that early evidence indicated the shooting was "completely unjustified."

Police Chief Henry T. Copenhagen said Price with his hand in a pocket, warned, "Don't come near me, copper. I've got a gun," when a patrolman approached him in the restaurant.

Policeman William Hammil pulled a revolver and backed the youth out of the restaurant and 250 feet along the street.

American Loan Exhausted, Says Turkish Envoy

Paris, Nov. 7 (INS).—Numan Menemencioglu, Turkish Ambassador to France, declared today that his country already has exhausted the 100-million-dollar "Truman Doctrine" loan for strengthening Turkey's defenses.

In an interview, Menemencioglu said:

"Although our army still remains about a million men strong, the American loan has permitted us to streamline and modernize our military installations and equipment.

"We are more certain than ever that no foreign power will dare to invade Turkey's soil as long as it is convinced the Turkish people are determined to fight to the end."

He said that Turkey is devoting about half of her national budget to military preparedness.

Herter Group Text On Aid Principles

The summary of its agreements issued last night by the Herter Committee on Foreign Aid follows:

AGREED POINTS ON PRINCIPLES OF FOREIGN AID REACHED BY THE SELECT COMMITTEE ON FOREIGN AID IN PREPARATION OF ITS PRELIMINARY REPORT.

THE committee has agreed upon certain points to be more fully covered in its preliminary report on proposed principles and organization for any program of foreign aid. Since issuance of this report with the statistical material to support its conclusions will not be made for several days, it was thought by the committee to be worth summarizing its conclusions to date. It must be emphasized that these are in the nature of provisional conclusions which may be subject to revision as its studies of the materials collected abroad and the availabilities at home proceed and are subjected to further checks.

As previously reported, the committee is in agreement on the following points:

1. Emergency aid presents the same problems as does any general European aid program and the Congress should bear this in mind in setting up any emergency aid program.

2. Should Congress, through its responsible legislative committees, find that as a practical matter it will not be able to set in motion other machinery of foreign aid by the end of the special session, the committee recommends that action should be taken prior to that time to authorize funds for the purchase of supplies through the Export-Import Bank and the Commodity Credit Corporation for any aid for France and Italy found necessary to assist those countries through March 31.

3. The emergency, though aggravated this year by crop failure, is not a temporary one. This fact must be faced and, if remedial action is to be taken, plans must be formulated accordingly.

The committee wishes to report further agreement on the following points:

4. Additional governmental machinery for foreign aid should be limited to that necessary to provide efficient coordination of existing Government agencies and to fill gaps of authorities which may exist. The administration of any foreign-aid program requires the setting up of a new authority in a corporate form over which congressional control would be maintained by the regular review of its funds and operation. This authority should have a bipartisan board of directors appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate. The corporation should

(a) Have direction of the purchasing of foodstuffs, fuel and fertilizers;

(b) Screen all requests for foreign aid;

(c) Exercise whatever legal controls are deemed necessary for protecting the economy of the United States and for the equitable and efficient allocation of United States supplies shipped abroad, paricularly to see that the aid reaches those for whom it is intended.

(d) This corporation should be authroized to enter into arrangements with countries in need of and under which food, fuel and fertilizer would be made available to them, and to determine the form of consideration to be obtained on the basis of its best estimate of the recipient country's capacity to pay.

THE corporation should hold and administer the consideration received by it for any supplies delivered where such consideration is not in the form of United States currency. Receipts in dollars would be credited to the corporation's capital account. When the consideration is in the form of local currency funds of the recipient countries, the corporation should appoint, with respect to each such fund, a board of administrators of not less than three nor more than five individuals. A majority should be citizens of the United States designated by the corporation with the approval of the Secretary of State and acceptable to the recipient country; and the balance should be designated by such recipient country. Each such local fund should be utilized and invested for the primary purpose of contributing to the recovery of the recipient country and to the development of any new sources of wealth therein. As much as practicable, the creation of new wealth should include increased facilities for the production of strategic and critical materials. Agreements for such increased facilities should provide, on the other hand, that a portion of the increased production should accrue to the producing country and thereby aid in providing exchange and, on the other, that the remainder should be delivered to the United States for sterilized stockpiles which would be held out of competition with normal commercial markets.

5. The committee believes that the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development and the Export-Import Bank can be utilized to meet the remaining genuine requirements for foreign aid in capital goods, equipment and raw materials. The Export-Import Bank should be strengthened and provided with such additional resources as may be necessary to carry out these functions.

In order to protect the economy of the United States and to be effective in accomplishing its objectives, the corporation should take into account in the handling of any foreign aid programs the following points:

a. The recipient countries should make vigorous efforts, individually and jointly, to increase the production of food and materials needed to meet not only their essential internal needs but the needs of other countries. Increased local production to assure decreasing deficits should be sought, so as to limit the requirements from abroad to a minimum consistent with a sound economic balance.

b. The recipient countries should, through mutual help and cooperation, facilitate the economic interchange of goods and services among themselves, provide effective distribution and use of their own resources, as well as of the resources received from outside, and work toward the elimination of exchange controls, quota restrictions, and other obstacles to trade. (The progress already made by Belgium, the Netherlands, and Luxembourg toward a customs union seems to the committee a step in the right direction.)

c. Certain countries other than the United States which are in a position to supplement a program of aid, which have the same incentive as we to do so and which enjoy access to United States supplies, should be expected to cooperate each in relation to its respective capacity.

d. Every encouragement should be given and every facility extended to private initiative to assume, as conditions permit, the activities which have devolved on governments in the present crisis.

e. The recipient countries should adopt fiscal, financial, and monetary programs designed to arrest inflation, to correct existing monetary weaknesses, to accomplish stabilization of exchanges, and generally to restore confidence in their currencies.

6. Any programs formulated by the corporation should coordinate policies through a foreign aid council presided over by the Secretary of State, and including all the top officials of government agencies concerned with matters relating to foreing aid.

7. The committee is agreed that there should be a retention of the existing controls as necessary to protect our domestic economy in a period of serious shortages. In particular, export controls are needed to prevent an excessive flow of these short items abroad.

8. No estimates for the capitalization of the new authority recommended can be justified until availabilities of commodities in short supply both in the United States and in the world can be more carefully studied.

The immediate problem is as much one of the availability of commodities as of dollars.

the fight to prevent inflation. It is necessary to provide the incentives to continue the high productive capacity that we now have. But this is not the time to do it."

Martin disclosed there will be no meeting of the House Republican Steering Committee until after the emergency session convenes, November 17. When it meets, he said it will concern itself chiefly with foreign aid problems.

Set Mid-June Windup

Senate Republican Steersman Robert A. Taft (Ohio) has called a meeting of the Senate GOP steering group for November 14. Taft has sai donly taht a tax-cut bill should get "started" in the special session.

The House Speaker meanwhile set mid-June as the adjournment goal of the regular session convening in January. He said he hopes to wind up legislative business by that time so members can attend party conventions.

To this end, he said the House Appropriations Committee will get started on 1949 fiscal year appropriation bills late this month, and the House will consider the first money measure more than a month ahead of schedule, probably early in January.

May Be Vetoed Again

Mr. Truman, by use of his veto power, twice this year killed Republican-backed bills to cut taxes by four billion dollars a year.

The third attempt of the Republican majority in January may encounter another veto. The President has contended that while business activity is high, the Nation should put debt reduction ahead of tax reduction. There also have been arguments that heavy outlays for foreign relief would require continued high taxes.

Thieves Loot Airplane Of Golf Equipment

Waukesha, Wis. (U.P.).—Police here had something new on their books when Maurice F. Holahan, Kankakee, Ill., reported that someone had stolen $132 in golfing equipment from his parked airplane.

He said thieves forced open a window to get into the monoplane, bent the air speed indicator, damaged the radio and stole 11 golf clubs, a golf bag and 10 golf balls.

End of Educational Segregation Foreseen

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 7 (AP).—Dr. Mordecai W. Johnson, president of Howard University, Washington, D. C., predicted today the system of racial segregation in higher education in the South would be breached "in principle and in fact" within the next 10 years.

The Negro educator, a native Tennessean, was a speaker participating in a seminar of education at Fisk University in connection with the inauguration of Dr. Charles W. Johnson as the sixth president of Fisk.

In Washington, he said, the Roman Catholic Church already has done away with segregation in departments of the university there and that the same thing is being done by the Catholic Church in Missouri.

"Southern Protestantism is already outflanked," he said. "On the right by the Roman Catholic Church and on the left by Communism, both of which have crossed the line to establish brotherhood . . . Communism, the brotherhood of labor and the flesh, and the Roman Catholic Church, the brotherhood of the spirit.

"I predict that if Southern Protestantism tried to hold to its position of segregation, that they will be so outflanked moral initiative will be taken away from this hemisphere for the next 100 years.

Mexico, U. S. Discuss Luxury Import Ban

Mexico City, Nov. 7 (U.P.).—Mexican and United States officials here are carrying on "explanatory" talks with a view to amending the commercial treaty of December, 1942, between the countries, Government sources said today. Last July, Mexico established a virtual embargo on imports of "luxury goods" as a means of saving its dollar reserves.

Doctor's Dilemma

Cleveland (U.P.).—Dr. Maxwell Harbin, like many other folks, has automobile problems these days, but his are of a different nature.

Dr. Harbin has a car, but he says it creates so much curiosity that he can't use it. People insist on stopping him and asking about it.

The auto is a 1914 Cadillac touring car.

Eight-Man, Bipartisan Body Planned to Run Aid Program

was the usual requirement of Senate confirmation.

Would Screen Requests

The new corporation, if Congress decides to write it into law, would:

1. Direct purchasing of foodstuffs, fuel and fertilizers.

2. Screen all requests for foreign aid.

3. Exercise any legal controls needed to protect our economy and assure "equitable and efficient" allocation of supplies shipped abroad, "particularly to see that the aid reaches those for whom it is intended."

4. Enter into arrangements to make food, fuel and fertilizer available to countries needing aid and "determine the form of consideration to be obtained on the basis of its best estimate of the recipient country's capacity to pay."

New Funds Proposal

An entirely new proposal was advanced for handling funds received in local currencies in payment for supplies. A 3-to-5-man board of administrators would be set up by the corporation in each recipient country to manage these funds "for the primary purpose of contributing to the recovery of the recipient country and to the development of any new sources of wealth therein."

Increased facilities for the production of strategic and critical materials would be developed under this clause. Agreements would be entered to deliver a portion of these materials to the United States for "sterilized stockpiles." Another portion would go to the producing country "and thereby aid in providing exchange."

United States citizens, approved by the Secretary of State and acceptable to the recipient country, would be named by the corporation to majority control of local administrative board. The recipient country would name minority members.

Any dollars paid for goods would flow directly into the new corporation's capital account. Only payments made in local currencies would flow into the locally administrated rehabilitation funds.

5 Points of Policy

Five policy points were laid down to guide the corporation in accomplishing foreign aid objectives:

1. Increased local production of food and materials to assure decreasing shortages should be sought, so as to limit requirements from outside to a minimum.

2. Recipient countries should cooperate to facilitate exchange of goods and services among themselves, provide effective distribution and use of their own resources as well as help received from outside, and work toward elimination of exchange controls, quota restrictions and other trade obstacles.

3. "Certain countries other than the United States," which have the same incentive we do to supply aid and are in a position to do so, should cooperate in the program.

4. "Every encouragement should be given and every facility extended to private initiative to assume, as conditions permit, activities which have devolved on governments in the present crisis."

5. Countries aided should adopt fiscal, financial and monetary programs designed to check inflation, correct monetary weakness, stabilize exchanges, "and generally to restore confidence in their currencies."

No Cost Estimates

The committee said it could not estimate the capitalization of the new agency until it has made a more careful study of the availability of commodities in short supply here and elsewhere. It said the immediate problem "is as much one of the availability of commodities as of dollars."

Nor were there any estimates laid down on stopgap aid or the ultimate cost of the Marshall Plan. Herter said the committee will be prepared later, however, to present specific interim aid estimates.

The group agreed any of our own existing controls needed to protect our domestic economy should be retained in the period of shortages. It particularly stressed need of continued export controls.

Report Next Week

Herter said the committee's textual report will not be ready until early next week. It will contain statistics and addenda to back up the group's findings. The group subsequently will testify before both House Foreign Affairs and Senate Foreign Relations Committee hearings next week on interim aid.

Additional detailed reports will be prepared on various aspects of the foreign aid problem. Herter said findings released last night "are in the nature of provisional conclusions which may be subject to revision as its studies of the materials collected abroad and availabilities at home proceed."

Ambassador Douglas To Fly to Washington

London, Nov. 7 (AP).—United States Ambassador Lewis W. Douglas prepared to fly to Washington tomorrow. There was speculation he would be consulted by officials about plans for European aid to be laid before the special session of Congress starting November 17.

The United States Embassy, which announced Douglas' pending trip only two weeks after his arrival here from previous Washington conferences, did not disclose the nature of the forthcoming talks. The announcement said the Ambassador will be gone about 10 days.

Douglas took an active part in the Marshall Plan negotiations in Paris, however, and it was considered likely Secretary of State Marshall may want his advice prior to testifying next week before meetings of House and Senate committees.

An unofficial source said Douglas also may be called before the committees.

Snow and Gale Close Schools In Minnesota

Minneapolis, Nov. 7 (AP).—Minnesota's first taste of 1947-1948 winter weather came today in a large helping of blinding snow and high wind which slowed traffic, closed some schools and disrupted communications.

Winds ranging up to 45 miles an hour drove the storm in a northeasterly direction across the eastern half of the State. Snow ranged in depth from 4 to 6 inches. Drifting was reported at numerous points.

In Minneapolis and St. Paul the storm struck at 8 a. m. (CST) and so increased in fury that within an hour visibility was reduced to 150 yards. It began to pass into the Lake Superior region shortly after noon and by midafternoon the snow had diminished to flurries. Similar conditions prevailed all along the 100-mile swath the storm cut across the State from the Iowa line to the Canadian border.

Air and bus lines halted operations during the height of the storm.

In St. Paul, pupils were sent home from school during the morning, and at least one person died.

The Weather Bureau reported that the storm had left snow over northeastern Colorado, Nebraska, parts of South Dakota and northwestern Iowa. The latter region had up to 6 inches of snow.

The day's lowest temperatures, 5 above, were reported at Big Piney and Laramie, Wyo. Amarillo, Tex., had a reading of 18. The range was 8 to 18 in Nebraska, 13 to 32 in Kansas, aand 17 to 25 in the Dakotas.

U. S. Offer to Waive Veto Coldly Received

By Robert Bruskin
Post Reporter

Lake Success, N. Y., Nov. 7.—The United States today offered to give up its big-power veto permanently on all applications from any country to membership in the United Nations, but the offer was cold-shouldered by Russia.

No matter what the other four veto powers do, Adlai Stevenson declared it was the American intention to abide by a majority rule on the rejected membership applications of 11 nations if they are resubmitted to the Security Council.

Stevenson made his offer in the Political Committee to give up one small portion of American rights. It marked the first declaration of American intentions since Secretary of State George C. Marshall called upon the Assembly last September 17 to revise the veto power which has stalemated the Security Council.

"The United States will not presume to act as the sole judge of a state's qualifications," said Stevenson.

Addressed to Russia

Stevenson openly addressed his statement to Russia, which is the only nation that has used the veto in rejecting applications for membership. The United States and the other powers have been able to summon majorities, without needing the veto, in rejecting applications from Soviet satellites, such as Albania, Romania and Bulgaria. No American veto has yet been cast in the Security Council on any matter.

The United States, Stevenson declared, agreed with an Australian proposal to resubmit to the Council the applications of Eire, Portugal, Italy, Finland and Trans-Jordan, all blackballed by Russia. The resolutions declare those states are "entitled" to membership. Sevenson asked only that Austria be included.

Andrei Gromyko of Russia imperturbably rejected all those applications as part "of a political game being carried on principally by the United States."

theoo"td. oe

The best criterion for admission of those states," said Gromyko, "is their behavior during the war." He refused the applications of Portugal and Eire because they had no part in the conflict and retained diplomatic relations with Franco Spain. Eire, he said, had "maintained cordial relations with the Axis."

Trans-Jordan's application he rejected because it received only "fictional" independence from the United Kingdom.

Arabs Plan New Drive

The Soviets will agree to the entry of four former enemy states, Romania, Hungary and Italy, all at once, he said.

On another U. N. front, it was reported that the Arab League would soon ask the General Assembly to submit the question of Palestine's partition to the International Court of Justice. That would cause a delay of a year or more in partitioning. But in order to achieve their end, the proposal would need the support of two thirds of the 57 nations and this is not likely to be given.

The social, humanitarian and cultural committee established a 13-nation subcommittee to work out agreement on Soviet, British and Indian proposals dealing with prevention of immigration likely to disturb friendly relations between nations. It was aimed at displaced persons in German camps and efforts to provide that each country take a fair share of the DPs.

Hurricans Too Strong To Bust, Expert Says

New Orleans (U.P.).—A veteran meteorologist doesn't give the Army Air Forces or any other "hurricane-busting" force even an outside chance to break up a major blow at sea.

Dr. Isaac Monroe Cline, who for 35 years was the chief United States forecaster at New Orleans, said a first-class hurricane was too big to freeze with dry ice.

Cline, author of "Tropical Cyclones," said he didn't believe enough moisture could be precipitated by sowing dry ice to break up a storm "because the area is too big, often 15,000 square miles."

Cline said that unless the entire area feeding the storm could be coped with, the hurricane would remain potent.

N. Y. Police Maintain Own Gambling Den

New York (U.P.).—The New York Police Academy maintains what perhaps is the only police-sponsored gambling den in the world.

It has a roulette wheel, an expensive craps table, a quarter slot machine, a penny slot machine, a dice "bird cage," a bingo table, a wheel of fortune and just about every other known device used for separating suckers from their money.

But the policemen do not use it for gambling. The devices are employed in giving instructions to rookie policemen on obtaining evidence against gamblers.

U.S. to Buy Mexican Canned Meat Pack

50-Million Pounds, Banned by Disease Law, To Be Sold for Export and Relief Areas

By Marshall Andrews
Post Reporter

The Agriculture Department will buy 50 million pounds of canned Mexican meat to further the fight against foot and mouth disease, Secretary Anderson said yesterday.

None of the meat, which will be purchased between now and next July 1, is to be sold in the United States. All of it will be sold in the export market or sent to relief areas overseas.

"The objective of this program," Anderson said, "is to provide a market for cattle in northern Mexico and thereby to assist in the program for the control and eradication of the foot and mouth disease now being conducted in the central and southern states of Mexico. The program also will make available a supply of meat products which the Department of Agriculture will resell for export commercially or for relief feeding of foreign countries."

Market Hard Hit

Shipment of Mexican cattle, hogs, sheep and goats and chilled or frozen meats to this country has been prohibited on account of foot and mouth disease in parts of Mexico. This has deprived that country of one of its most important markets and has resulted in overstocked ranges outside the infested area.

Anderson said officials of both countries had agreed that thinning out of herds in northern Mexico, where the canned meat is to come from, will help prevent spread of the disease to that section. The department will provide technical assistance in establishing plants for slaughter and canning operations.

Senator Flanders (D., Vt.), chairman of a committee which investigated living costs in the East, declared at Springfield, Vt., that meat rationing at home was the only way to combat rising prices. He termed meat the "keystone to the whole food structure," and said:

"Rationing of meat to my mind can be effective without price controls. It will keep demand in line."

Still Opposes Price Controls

Flanders reiterated previous opposition to price controls and denied reports he was leaning toward producer price fixing. He added that he didn't like rationing either and would "welcome a chance to hear from any smarter man who has a more pleasant and workable solution."

He was quoted by the Associated Press as reporting the inquiry by his committee failed to uncover any widespread profiteering in food. Flanders added that while relief shipments abroad undoubtedly had affected the price of wheat, there was no reason to believe exports had any effect on meat prices.

"Meat," he declared, "has become a luxury so far as price is concerned. The higher income groups have increased their meat demands and bid up the prices, working a hardship on those in the lower income bracket."

On commodity markets, meanwhile, the upward trend of prices continued, except for hogs, which fell slightly. At Chicago, all grains trended upward, as did most butter and egg futures.

Retail sales of commodities, in response to holiday buying and cooler weather, were moderately higher in the week ended Wednesday compared with the previous week, Dun and Bradstreet reported.

Poultryless Day Dropped To Try Substitute Plan

stride we have yet made toward our immediate goal, but also because of its vast importance in connection with the long-range food problem."

With Truman's Approval

The program was accepted with the approval of President Truman and his Cabinet Food Committee and was announced jointly by Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson and Luckman.

Signed pledges of support for the substitute program were given by representatives of the National Poultry Producers Federation, the American Farm Bureau Federation, the National Grange, the National Council of Farmers Cooperatives and the National Farmers Union.

Luckman traced the development of the substitute program back to three weeks ago when officials of the poultry federation offered a proposal in place of poultryless Thursday. This was rejected as "insufficiently specific."

Another meeting followed at which the poultrymen offered to cut broiler chick production by one fourth and reduce the total number of chickens on farms by 100 million. This was turned back as not offering "sufficient additional savings" of grain.

Discussions between the committee's agriculture subcommittee headed by Dr. William I. Myers of Cornell University and staff members of the Food Committee followed and those led to meetings this week with the poultrymen.

On Thursday, the Citizens Food Committee and Agriculture Department officials held an all-day meeting with representatives of the poultry federation and the leaders of the four major farm groups.

More Effective, Speedier

The result of the conference was the program, which Luckman said "will give us a substantially more effective and speedy method of saving grain than the poultryless Thursday program."

"Because it does offer such a substantial, tangible saving of grain, I feel that poultryless Thursday, having served its purpose, is no longer needed and it is accordingly being suspended while we determine in actual practice whether the new program is as effective as it promises to be.

"It is essential, however, to continue to forgo eggs on Thursday. This was the unanimous judgment of all of the farm leaders at the Thursday meeting, who felt that such a reduction is vitally needed to conserve grain. Consequently we are asking the people of the United States to continue to observe eggless Thursday," Luckman explained.

Success of the program is dependent on the poultry and farm groups, committee attaches emphasized. Since it is voluntary, the officials said it will be up to a coordinating committee of the groups to "undertake to obtain full performance under the new program by the Nation's farmers, working with the Citizens Food Committee."

The decision to drop poultryless Thursday was a victory for the poultry raisers who have argued that it was a poor grain-saving measure. They said the longer the poultry market is curtailed, the longer raisers had to continue feeding grain to their fowl while waiting for a price rise.

In East Amherst, N. Y., Henry J. Kreher, who also took part in the "Hens-for-Harry" campaign, conceded that the "moratorium" would aid poultry growers generally, but said it would do nothing to combat the local problem of Canadian competition.

Niagara frontier growers had asked for a moratorium on Canadian imports until the market cleared, as well as for an end to poultryless Thursdays.

By Millions of Pounds

"The birds are coming in from Canada by the millions of pounds," Kreher said. "We can't compete with them (Canadian growers) when they only pay about half the price for feed that we do."

Niagara County Farm Bureau said earlier this week that October receipts on the Buffalo poultry market were 46 per cent Canadian.

Monroe Babcock, Ithaca, N. Y., poultryman who called up 25 colleagues in three States urging them to send chickeus to the Capital, issued this statement:

"The calling off of poultryless Thursday is very gratifying. Under that system poultrymen were stymied in any attempt to save grain. Our job now is to educate the public to the idea that chickens must be eaten. I believe the farmers of the United States will do everything in their power to save grain for the starving people of the world."

Many poultrymen, faced with a decision whether to sell at below production cost or to hold their birds off the market in hopes of a rise, took the latter step. As a result, wholesale markets showed a jump in prices.

In Washington, poultry rose 5 cents a pound from Friday to yesterday, wholesalers reported. An additional 2 to 3 cent rise was expected to hit retail levels today or early next week as the wholesale jump is felt, they said.

French Waterworks Employes Strike, Curbing Paris Supply

Paris, Nov. 7 (U.P.).—French waterworks employes joined sanitation men today in a strike for higher wages and cut the flow of drinking water to the capital's faucets so low that some high dwellers were completely deprived of water.

The strike of municipal workers also spread to 1,200 sewer maintenance men, 2,000 workers of the municipal trucking service, personnel of the city's sygiene and disinfection service, hospital and laundry workers and municipal funeral service personnel.

Gravediggers will vote to decide whether to join undertakers in the walkout, aimed at winning 15 to 20 per cent wage boosts for the strikers.

Meanwhile, the dead were still being buried but with a minimum of ceremony. Hearses whisked bodies to cemeteries by the shortest route, with no funeral processions. Simple religious ceremonies accompanied burials.

The government today mollilized troops to haul away the piles of decaying food which had accumulated in the streets surrounding Les Halles, Paris' leading produce market.

Meanwhile, the government inaugurated the profit ceiling which is its latest measure against inflation. All retail merchants were required to post publicly both the wholesale and the retail pirces of their product.

The mark-up could not exceed the prescribed limits.

Reds Pooh-Poohed As Vodka Drinkers

Olyphant, Pa. (U.P.).—Herewith an apparently authoritative pooh-pooh of reports that Russian soldiers can put away a lot of vodka.

"One or two drinks and they're stopped," according to Michael Burda, former Army officer who witnessed the rise and fall of the United States-Soviet "liaison house" in the Seventh Army area.

"They're supposed to be able to handle a lot of vodka," says 30-year-old Burda, "but I haven't seen one yet who can outlast an American."

Farmer Has Come Far In Last 125 Years

Chicago (U.P.).—The farmer has made wide strides forward toward efficiency during the last century and a quarter.

In 1787, the surplus food produced by 19 farmers was needed to feed one city dweller. But today, according to the World Book Encyclopedia, 19 farmers can feed 56 city folks in this country and export enough to feed 10 people in other countries.

3 Diamonds Are Sought in Dual Slaying

Beckley, W. Va., Nov. 7 (AP).—Three diamond rings today were sought by police trying to unravel the slaying of a Beckley businessman and the wife of a dentist.

State Police Sergt. Anthony Scalise said he had questioned Dr. Kenneth K. Rand, 46, and learned the dentist's pretty blonde wife always wore three rings.

Investigators did not find the rings when they examined the bodies of Mrs. Nellie Mae Rand, 39, and E. Ray Bailey, 50, after they were spotted Wednesday by passersby at the foot of a 20-foot embankment along a lonely road 9 miles from town.

They had been shot through the head and their bodies apparently rolled down the hill.

Their cars were discovered 7 miles away but half a mile apart near the Black Knight Country Club. Scalise said blood on the ground around Mrs. Rand's car led him to theory they were slain while the cars were parked together at that spot and the bodies driven away in Bailey's machine.

Two coats found in the car were identified by police as those of Mrs. Rand and Bailey.

The Rands were married in 1929. They have two daughters, 11 and 13.

The hardware and supply store executive is survived by his widow and two daughters.

Cost of Raising Child Put at $10,000

Detroit (U.P.).—The home economics department of Wayne University has come up with a disquieting statistic—that it costs $10,000 to raise a child to the age of 18.

After surveys, the department found that to be the cost of raising a boy or girl in a family of five with an income of $2500 a year.

The outlay starts with birth expenses of $250. From then on the major items are $2755 for food for 18 years, $3333 for clothing, $1150 for education, $570 for incidentals and $413 for health and recreation.

Clothes for a teen-age boy cost less than for a girl, but on the other hand he eats more.

The department doesn't include the value of the mother's services, which it admits are considerable.

Gets Breaks—Bad Ones

Fort Wayne, Ind. (U.P.).—William Wehr, 15, was glad to get out of the hospital where he had been for four months with a leg fracture near his hip. Two days later he fell down the stairs and broke the same leg—this time in two places.

Faultless Ride

Mexico Wins First Leg in Jump Event

New York, Nov. 7 (AP).—Mexico won its first leg on the international low score challenge trophy for military jumping today with a faultless ride over eight hurdles by Lieut. Col. Humberto Mariles, Capt. Victor Saucedo and Capt. Ruben Uriza on their talented horses, Arete, Poblano and Malinche.

Going into the final stages of the three-day competition for the handsome silver trophy at the Madison Square Garden Horse Show, the Mexicans were challenged only by the Irish army team. The other contestants, the Canadians and United States Army, had been guilty of too many faults in the earlier divisions.

The Irish appeared on their way to a perfect ride until Enniskerry ridden by Comdr. Frederick A. Aherne, crashed into the picket fence at the second jump. That was all the Mexicans needed for they cleared the barriers without nicking a timber to take home the coveted cup.

Army Team Trailing

Lieut. Col. Charles Symroski, Lieut. Col. Frank Henry and Capt. Jonathan Burton of the United States Army team finished second with only four faults in today's finals but their final point total of 79¾ left them trailing in fourth place. They won the event last year.

Although they tied for third with the Canadians in the third event, the Irish took the reserve medal in the trophy competition with 30 points and the Canadians finished third with 56¾.

Portmaker, the 7-year-old brown gelding which won the hunter championship a year ago for Dr. and Mrs. Alvin I. Kay of Washington, D. C., moved another step toward a repeat performance when he took the William F. Wharton Memorial challenge trophy.

Ridden by Jane Pohl, the defending champion was placed ahead of Substitution, owned by Mr. and Mrs. John T. Maloney of Warrenton, Va., after a lengthy deliberation by the judges.

The win gave Portmaker 15 points on three firsts in the competition which will be concluded Tuesday night. His nearest competitor was Mrs. Hank Greenberg's My Bill, which was first in the middleweight and heavyweight green hunters. My Bill had 7½ points.

General Denies He Asked Hughes for Loan

ers had testified that Hughes made him an offer of a postwar job in October, 1943, while the photo plan negotiations were boiling. He said the multimillionaire pilot-designer had told him he could "write my own ticket." Later he said a salary of $50,000 a year might have been discussed. He said he hadn't paid much attention to the offer at the time. He had offers from other war contractors, too.

"Felt It Improper"

McCarthy testified that Hughes had told him of the job offer and said that Meyers wanted a down payment on the contract.

"Howard felt that it was an improper kind of an arrangement to make and asked me for my opinion, and I told him that it was; it was something that could not be done because since General Meyers was an officer of the Government and we were doing business with the Government, we could not make any contract with him or pay him any money while he was in the Government service."

Hughes asked McCarthy to notify Meyers of the decision, according to the former Hughes Aircraft official.

"I told General Meyers that because he was connected with the Government and we were doing business with the Government that we could not make any kind of a deal with him."

Ferguson Questions

Subcommittee chairman Homer Ferguson (R., Mich.) asked:

"Did he tell you what he wanted to do with the down payment—so-called down payment—on this contract?"

"It is my recollection that he wanted to use it to buy some liberty bonds and use it as a down payment on the liberty bonds."

"Did he explain to you," queried Ferguson, "that you could buy bonds and the rate of interest was so high compared to what you had to pay the bank you could finally pay for the bonds?"

McCarthy said he thought that was the way Meyers was going to handle the deal.

"After you had discussed this business deal with him and had refused to enter into any such contract, did he then ask you whether Hughes' organization or Hughes personally could make a loan to him?" McCarthy was asked.

"Yes," replied McCarthy.

"Well, that is what he asked and I told him we could not."

Warned of Inquiries

McCarthy told the committee that Meyers was convinced it would be a perfectly proper thing to do, that his superior officers had approved it.

The Hughes company spokesman warned the general, he said, that when the war was over "everything was going to be investigated," and that someone might "distort" the situation.

After he had refused the $50,000 at a meeting in Washington in Meyers' apartment, the general subsequently telephoned him, McCarthy said, and "wanted to know if the company would not or Howard would not still go along and lend him the money to make the down payment."

Hughes Made Call

Later Hughes telephoned Meyer and flatly refused the loan or advance, McCarthy said.

"I know Meyers telephoned me and was very upset that Hughes would not do it."

"Did Hughes think it was a proper request on the part of Meyers?" McCarthy was asked.

"No."

"Did he think it was an indication of corruption in the part of the general?"

"No, I did not say that he thought it was an indication of corruption. As I say, if you had talked to Meyers, he didn't think he was doing anything corrupt, but I knew it was wrong."

McCarthy specified that he meant "legally wrong."

Hughes to Take Stand

Representatives of the Department of Justice have been sitting in the hearing room following the testimony.

Hughes, who flew into Washington early yesterday morning, was scheduled to appear as a witness today and answer questions concerning the attempts reported by McCarthy.

But the committee agreed last night to put on the witness stand the first thing today a group of nine witnesses whose testimony Hughes wants to have in the record. Hughes said the witnesses, some of whom are flying from the coast, would be here early this morning.

Meyers has not yet completed his testimony so it is likely the West Coast planebuilder will not testify in his own behalf until Monday.

Entertainment Bill Cited

Ferguson told Myers that the Hughes Aircraft records showed the company had spent $1472.64 in lodging, entertainment and transportation for him, his wife, and Col. Deering Howe, one of Meyers' assistants, and his wife, on a visit to California in April, 1944.

Meyers said he attempted to pay the bill at the Town House in Los Angeles but the hotel said Hughes was paying for it and refused to accept his money. He couldn't get in touch with Hughes, as he was leaving, he testified.

Therefore, he said, since his wife and Mrs. Howe were staying on for a day after he and the colonel flew back, he asked her to be sure to pay the bill. Meyers testified he went over the bill and removed from it one or two items he felt weren't chargable to him or Colonel Howe and the balance was $900.

His wife put the money—in cash—in Johnny Meyer's pocket as he was seeing the two Army wives off, Meyers insisted.

Beaming amiably for news and movie cameramen, the chubby Meyer lumbered to the stand for a brief appearance.

Did Mrs. Meyers give him the money, he was asked.

"You recall asking me when I appeared here last August whether I ever received payment for an expenditure," Meyer said. "I swore under oath that I received no money fro manyone for any bill I ever paid. I swore under oath and that testimony still stands."

General Meyers then requested that his wife be called as a witness.

'Put it in His Pocket'

Mrs. Meyers, pretty, blonde former Hollywood actress who married the general in February, 1943, nervously tripped to the stand. Tears trembled in her eyes, but her costume reflected the "new look" in fashions.

She told the committee that her husband had ordered her to be sure to pay the bill to Hughes or to someone in his company before she left Hollywood.

She tried to hand Johnny Meyer the cash—$900—in an envelope, she said, but he still refused to take it.

"So I put it in his pocket and called it to his attention," she said.

Mrs. Meyers said that she hadn't bought any clothes in nearly a year so she had taken cash with her to buy a new wardrobe in Hollywood but she hadn't done so. That's why she gave Meyer the money in an envelope instead of giving him a check, she stated.

Violator Given Stiff Penalty in Idle Pay Fraud

Martino Vagnoni, 54, 633 I st. nw., who pleaded guilty last month to obtaining unemployment compensation while he had a job, was sentenced yesterday to a $280 fine or 280 days in jail.

Director C. A. Wharton of the District Unemployment Compensation Board said yesterday records showed Vagnoni had received $18 a week in compensation for 14 weeks while employed and earning money. He certified each week that he was not working, according to the UCB.

The sentence, imposed by Judge Walter J. Casey in Municipal Court, was described as one of the stiffest given recently for violation of the District Unemployment Compensation Act.

Wharton said the UCB would proceed to collect the $252 received by Vagnoni in unemployment funds, after he has satisfied his sentence.

Purse Snatching Suspect Shot by Officer in Chase

A suspected purse-snatcher was shot by a policeman last night during a chase which ended in the lobby of the La Salle apartments, 1028 Connecticut ave. nw.

Arrested for investigation was Raymond Gibson, 24, who gave his address as 1805 L st. nw. Pvt. M. H. Lytle of the Third Precinct said he fired five shots at Gibson after Gibson started running when approached by the officer in an areaway which has been the escape route for purse-snatchers in the vicinity recently. Gibson was taken to Emergency Hospital for treatment for bullet wound in the upper leg, and later was removed to Gallinger Hospital.

$2000 Bond Set For Bad Check Charge Defendant

Clarence A. Bailey, jr., 24, whose address was given as the Emery Hotel, 1812 G st. nw., was held in $2000 bond by the United States Commissioner last night following his arrest here by the FBI on bad check charges.

Bailey was charged specifically with cashing a $75 check in New York in August on a Washington bank at which he did not have an account.

He was arrested at a car rental agency near 16th and L sts. nw.

FBI said Bailey was a native of Lynchburg, Va., served in the Army from 1941 to 1945, and then worked as a clerk in the Postoffice Department here.

Strained Meat Urged For Baby's Diet

Lincoln, Nebr. (U.P.).—Strained meats added to the diet of 6-week-old babies protects the infants from anemia, according to Dr. Ruth M. Leverton, University of Nebraska nutritionist.

Dr. Leverton's report was based on a study by the university in co-operation with Lincoln and Omaha pediatricians. The survey, she said, showed that meat improved blood conditions as well as checked the disease.

Nurses caring for infants taking part in the study reported that babies receiving meat generally were "less fussy, and slept better at night," Dr. Leverton said.

Anna Pauker Joins Cabinet

Vasile Modoran, National Peasant Party, Finance, and Mihai Macadescu, Socialist, Cooperatives.

Several hundred thousand trades union members demonstrated today in Bucharest on the thirtieth anniversary of the Russian Bolshevik revolution. The demonstration ended with a mass meeting in Victory Square addressed by Premier Petru Groza.

Mme. Pauker, now 51, is one of the "big four" of women international Communist leaders, and one of the most important, if not the chief, director of Communist strategy in Romania since the Russians occupied it in 1944.

The other chief woman leaders in Europe are Dolores Ibarru, the "a Pasionaria" of Spanish civil war fame; Tsola Dragoicheva, of Bulgaria, who was in the United States in 1946 as a delegate to the third American Slav Congress, and Wanda Wassilewska (Mme. Alexander Korneichuk), who was president of the Union of Polish Patriots formed in Russia during the war, which later sponsored the Lublin government, nucleus of the present regime.

Helped End Comintern

Both Mme. Pauker and Mme. Korneichuk were among the 17 signers of the document which "dissolved" the Comintern in May, 1943, and Mme. Pauker attended the meeting of top Communist leaders in Poland a month ago when the new Communist international organization was formed.

Confidential Allied reports received in Greece have assigned an important role to Mme. Pauker in a super-administration of Communist policy in the Balkans, along with Communist Premier Georgi Dimitrov of Bulgaria and Premier Marshall Tito of Yugoslavia.

Mme. Pauker is a large, forceful and energetic woman. A Jewess, she has an olive complexion, plentiful iron-gray hair combed straight back in a long bob, and small, intense, blue eyes.

Married Wealth

Her life has been one of violent contrasts. Coming from the poor of Bucharest, her marriage allied her with the prominent Pauker family which has produced leaders in banking, newspaper ownership, painting, film distribution, acting and literature. Her wealthy in-laws are known to hate her vigorously.

Often jailed, she was once traded to Russia for a non-Communist Romanian then being held by the Soviets. She is reported to have spent 12 years in the USSR. There, according to an unconfirmed report, her militant communism passed the supreme test when her husband, a Romanian engineer, was shot as a Trotzkyist in the purge of the 1930s.

Mme. Pauker has taken over a town house and a lakeside villa formerly belonging to a wealthy Romanian. On the walls of her large conference room are pictures of Marx and Engels, Lenin and Stalin. There is no picture of young King Mihai.

When she goes about the city, she rides in one of several bullet-proof automobiles. She has no children.

UNESCO to Discuss Finances for 1948

Mexico City, Nov. 7 (AP).—The French delegation to the United Nations' Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization's second conference today won early consideration of budgetary matters and opened the way for discussion on how much UNESCO programs for 1948 will cost. UNESCO's budget has been set tentatively at $8,500,000 to cover expenditures in four major fields.

131 'War Criminals' Indicted in Romania

Prague, Czechoslovakia, Nov 7 (U.P.).—The Romanian court of appeals today issued indictments against 131 alleged war criminals, the Yugoslav news agency Tanjug reported from Bucharest.

Most of the persons indicted are military and police officials, including Gen. George Stavrescu, Gen. Emanoil Leoveanu, a large number of army officers of all ranks, and police commissioners and agents.

House Passes Lane Tax Bill

passed and commitments made against it. He asked that no restrictions be placed on these revenues at this time because any revenue losses from other sources can now be made up with excesses from the sales tax. He said that in the event of a depression the State's economy would be affected and it might be necessary to draw on the sales tax surplus.

"My county," he said in conclusion, "is not content to wreck the economy of Maryland."

Favors Return to People

Reeves, in urging support for his amendment, said any surplus should be returned to the people.

"If we are going to be saddled with this sales tax," he said, "then let's let the people who are paying it derive its benefits."

R. Duncan Clark (R., Montgomery County), of Chevy Chase, Md., who also spoke for the amendment, said: 'We are giving a cushion of $2,500,000. If you are going to take the money away from the people at least let them have their change back."

Bernard S. Melnicove (D., Baltimore City) said there could be no doubt that Lane would veto the bill if the amendment was added.

20% Tax on Lobbyists' 'Gross Take' Proposed

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 7 (AP).—Senator Hubert Barton (D., Baltimore 2d) proposed today that a 20 per cent tax on the "gross take of each lobbyist" in the General Assembly be collected by the State.

The measure would require "all lobbyists of whatever kind, before being permitted to register in accordance with law" to file a $1000 bond to insure the payment of the tax. The levy would be paid to the comptroller not later than five days after the close of each legislative session.

Barton's tongue-in-cheek bill was made a special order of business—for Christmas of 1949.

Communist Claim Refuted by Dunn And Relief Ship

Rome, Nov. 7.—The arrival of the 100th American relief ship for Italy in less than nine weeks was used today by United States Ambassador James C. Dunn as the occasion for another veiled appeal against communism.

As part of the new American campaign to obtain due credit for relief to Italy, Dunn traveled to Venice to welcome the 100th ship. He told Italians that it was "palpably and preposterously untrue" that the gift-bearing United States is a "sly and crafty colossus who wishes to enslave you." Italy's Communists have repeatedly charged this in their current all-aut anti-American campaign.

Dunn noted that most Italians have American relatives.

"Ask them if we are imperialists and if we wish to enslave any man," he suggested.

Bible Gaining Strength As Best Seller

New York (U.P.).—The Bible is being read today by more people than ever before, Howard Kiroack believes.

Kiorack, founder of National Bible Week, October 19 to 25, said the eighth year of the event drew support from influential persons as well as average men and women.

He cited a telegram of support from President Truman and promises from 28 Governors that they would issue proclamations. Mayors of 150 cities offered to make radio appeals urging people to read the Bible.

Dog Training College Sponsored by City

Somerville, Mass. (U.P.).—Somerville residents believe it has the Nation's first city-sponsored training school for dogs.

As part of the municipal recreation program, the city started a "canine college" and every week 30 to 40 dog owners attend. Under the direction of an instructor, they teach their pets to heel, sit, lie down, come when called, stop on signal, jump obstacles, retrieve and return.

The Gault Chamber Music Players, an amateur group of 30 members, directed by W. M. Gault, will give a benefit concert Sunday at 5:30 p. m. at the Mount Olivet Methodist Church, 16th st. and N. Glebe rd., Arlington, Va. The offering will be for the benefit of the church building fund.

Driver Permit Loss in October Sets a Record

Revocation and suspensions of driver's permits or privileges reached 1094 in October, setting a new all-time high for the second straight month.

Mary A. Silver, secretary of the Board of Revocation and Restoration of Operator's Permits, said the September total of 1003 had been the highest previously recorded.

The October number included 490 non-resident drivers, who lost the privilege of driving in the District.

Traffic officials said the increase was due to the mounting volume of traffic.

Monty's Famous Beret Gets a Successor

London (U.P.).—Field Marshal Lord Montgomery, chief of the imperial general staff, is to be given a new headgear rivalling the reputation of his famous black beret.

On October 29 Monty will be initiated into the "Incorporation of Bonnet Makers and Dyers of the City of Glasgow."

At a formal investiture, the incorporation's deacon will crown Monty with a royal blue Scots tam-o'-shanter with headband of brilliant Stewart tartan.

The bonnet must be worn during the ensuing 350th annual bonnet makers dinner at which Monty is guest of honor and principal speaker.

Iowa State to Analyze Rural Crime Problem

Ames, Iowa (U.P.).—Because of increasing interest in crime problems in rural areas, Iowa State College's curriculum includes a course in criminology for the first time this year.

Students registering for the new course will visit Iowa's correctional institutions. Training films on the treatment and care of offenders will be shown.

The course is directed by Dr. Walter A. Lunden, sociologist, who served as an Army prison officer in England, France and Germany during World War II.

Pitcher, 60, Maintains It Keeps You Young

Lakeview, Wis. (U.P.).—Charlie Beyer, who'll be 60 next February, has pitched baseball and softball for more than 40 years and is still going strong.

Beyer now pitches for the Lakeview softball team.

Armistice Rites Set Tomorrow In Churches

Greater Washington area churches will sponsor "Armistice Sunday" services tomorrow prior to Armistice Day.

The D. C. Organized Bible Association and the D. C. YMCA will hold their annual service at 4 p. m. at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, Arlington. Dr. E. Cordell Powers, executive secretary of the Baltimore Bible Society, will speak. A trio from Brightwood Methodist Church will sing. Dr. Page McK. Etchison will place a wreath for the YMCA, and Howard M. Stackhouse for the OBCA. Elton H. Brown, OBCA vice president, will preside.

The Prince Georges County Council of the Knights of Columbus will sponsor its sixth annual military field mass at 11 a. m. in Ritchie Coliseum, University of Maryland. The mass will honor the memory of Knights of Columbus of two wars. The Rev. George E. Gingras, assistant pastor of St. Frances de Sales Parish and former Army chaplain, will preach. The Very Rev. John diMatteo, superior of St. John deMaltha House of Studies, Catholic University, will celebrate the mass. The choir of the Order of the Holy Trinity will sing.

"Control Your Temper" Will Be Sermon Theme

The Rev. J. R. Hodhson, pastor of Grace Methodist Church, New Hampshire ave. and East-West hwy., Takoma Park, will speak tomorrow at 11 a. m. on "Control Your Temper," second in a series on basic virtues. Young folks are especially invited to hear the sermons.

Retired Engineer Tells Story Of Jesus in One Narrative

By Robert Tate Allan
Post Reporter

Russell Hubbard White is a Boston layman who has achieved Nation-wide prominence by telling the story of Jesus' life in one continuous narrative.

Dropping into this department yesterday, this retired construction engineer told how he undertook the task that has resulted in a book entitled "The Combined Gospels of Matthew, Mark, Luke and John."

"I found the story of Jesus the most absorbing and inspiring part of the Scriptures," said White, "but I was troubled because none of the four Gospels tells exactly the same story and because certain things are found in one or more of them but not in all.

"To get the complete story of Christ's nativity, childhood, ministry and final sacrifice upon the Cross one must either read one Gospel at a time or skip about from one to another to compare parts of the story. My idea was that the related passages could be fitted together to make a complete and continuous story with no breaks, omissions or duplications. I rejected the idea of trying to tell the story in my own words and stuck to the original text."

White retired from his profession in 1939 and went to work on his project. He bought two Bibles of the King James Version, scissors and loose-leaf notebooks. He clipped the verses and arranged them in notebooks, using stamp hinges so that the verses could easily be shifted about or removed. It required two years for him to finish the job. His book, which will be in local bookstores within a few days, has been published by the Colonial Press Inc., Clinton, Mass.

The book has been approved by eminent Catholic and Protestant clergy. The Right Rev. Henry Knox Sherrill, Episcopal Presiding Bishop, has turned a copy over to the church's educational division for study. Preachers report using it for facilitating sermon preparation because of its easy reference style.

BISHOP RUSSELL CITED

Maj. Gen. Luther D. Miller, Army Chief of Chaplains, has presented Bishop C. L. Russell, of the New England, North and South Carolina, Washington and Virginia Conferences of the Colored Methodist Episcopal Church, with a certificate of appreciation for services rendered in the procurement of chaplains. Bishop Russell lives at 1843 S st. nw.

WRONG NUMBER

The Rev. Herbert E. Eberhardt, Central Union Mission superintendent, inadvertently dialed National 4000 the other day instead of National 4200 and asked for this reporter. "We don't have anyone by that name here," a gruff voice replied, "this is police headquarters."

THIS AND THAT

A group from Mount Rainier Christian Church recently drove out to the Home for the Incurables to give a cake and other gifts to Miss Elizabeth Cox on her 91st birthday . . . She is the church's oldest member.

Eight young folks from New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, led by Lyle Merchon, spent last Saturday at the Church World Service Center at New Windsor, Md. They helped process clothing being sent abroad.

Cornerstone Laying Scheduled

Cornerstone-laying rites will be held tomorrow at 3 p. m. for the new $270,000 addition to the National Lutheran Home for the Aged at 18th and Douglas sts. nw. It will be known as the "Maryland Synod Building."

Dr. Leander M. Zimmerman, pastor-emeritus of Baltimore's Christ Lutheran Church, and guiding spirit behind the founding of the home over 50 years ago, will wield the trowel at the ceremonies. Dr. Robert L. Lang, home superintendent, will preside. The Weidley Memorial Residence also will be dedicated. It houses the home's staff.

Security And License

It is of the utmost importance for the future of Government employment that the present confusion between discharges for disloyalty and discharges for security reasons be dispelled. The State Department and other offices such as the Central Intelligence Agency have abetted this confusion. It is even apparent in Secretary Marshall's statement that the State Department made no public announcement of the recent discharge of 10 employes in an effort "to protect them against inaccurate assumptions." How can a man be protected against inaccurate assumptions when the whole tenor of security dismissals has been allowed to become nothing but a reflection on loyalty?

In any determination of future procedure it is basic, we think, to call things by their right names. It only makes meaningless the term "bad security risk" to use it as a euphemism to mask suspected disloyalty. If a person may be actually disloyal, he should be discharged on that ground rather than under a vague phrase which is also used in sensitive agencies to describe an employe who may be nothing more than a babbler or a drunk. The mandate to rid the Government of persons who would subvert it cannot be considered license to stigmatize employes whose offense is by no means in the same category. Furthermore, we fail to understand why, if it is not possible to present specific charges against a person to be discharged as a bad security risk, he cannot be permitted to resign without prejudice. And why, if a person talks too much, for instance, is it not possible to say just that and to release him for more suitable employment elsewhere?

We think these distinctions are something that sensitive agencies must take to heart if they are not to pervert the concept of the loyalty program itself. They might well consider the advice of Commissioner Flemming, who has shown commendable resistance to the hysteria that threatens to make paralyzed automatons out of Federal workers. In stating his unalterable opposition to the use of summary dismissal powers to discharge persons of allegedly weak character, he points out that the Lloyd-La Follette Act of 1912 provides adequate machinery for weeding out incompetents. Proof of this is the fact that in a recent 12-month period 46,875 persons were discharged under its provisions. To use the term "bad security risk" as a convenient method of getting rid of employes who could be discharged on specific grounds is a shortcut paved with dynamite. The ultimate effect of unbridled summary discharges and unwarranted impugning of loyalty could easily be the undermining of the whole structure of Government employment, and first of all in the agencies which sanction such abuses.

India Again

Prime Minister Nehru has surprised many statesmen and no doubt alarmed some of his countrymen by proposing a plebiscite to determine whether the rich and beautiful Vale of Kashmir, celebrated in so many songs and legends, shall belong to the new Dominion of India or to the new Dominion of Pakistan. In Kashmir the Moslems outnumber the Hindus by more than 4 to 1, and outnumber the entire non-Moslem population by more than 3 to 1. It is said that for both political and economic reasons a few of the more advanced Moslem leaders of Kashmir would prefer that the state should throw in its lot with India, but it is unlikely that they could command sufficient influence to effect the decision.

It seems not improbable that an attempt to hold a plebiscite in Kashmir might be attended by another outbreak of the violence and fanaticism which have made the recent history of India so terrible and tragic. A decision favoring annexation by Pakistan would almost certainly be followed by an exodus southward of the Hindu minority, which is said to be considerably more than three quarters of a million souls.

Some notion of what these migrations mean in human terms is to be gained from the remarkable and harrowing photographs by Miss Margaret Bourke-White reproduced in Life magazine. With one exception, these pictures are incidents in the passage of a Moslem caravan from the Eastern to the Western Punjab, but the conditions they expose so vividly are characteristic of all the refugee expeditions. No words could describe, as these pictures do, the terror and bewilderment of those who have been suddenly uprooted from their ancestral villages, the fatigue on the faces of the migrants after several days of the march, and the despair on the faces of those who, having failed to keep up with the caravan, have been abandoned to death by starvation or at the hands of religious fanatics.

It is true perhaps that life has always been cheap in the East, and that there religion and immemorial cruelties have bred an apathy to human misery. But even in the East there must be degrees of horror. It is possible that some of the Moslem and Hindu leaders, like the Bolshevist leaders in Russia, consider these titanic sufferings the necessary price of progress, and that the envisaged goal of a homogeneous and psychologically unified people is worth whatever means are necessary to achieve it. Anyway, the first-fruits of Indian nationalism have been unpleasant ones.

Herter Report

For many reasons it would have been desirable to deal with the long-range European relief program in conjunction with the emergency program at the special session of Congress. But time presses, and the Marshall Plan proposals are not yet in form for presentation to Congress. Hence the comprehensive approach is unfortunately impracticable. Political as well as economic problems of extreme delicacy and complexity arise in connection with any plan for administering aid. Congress not only needs a good deal of time to study and pass on such plans; the setting up of machinery for administering aid is also time-consuming.

Recognizing these obstacles to prompt action, the Herter Committee, whose preliminary report has just been released, recommends the immediate voting of funds to purchase supplies for France and Italy through the Export-Import Bank and the Commodity Credit Corporation. Here, at least, is a feasible means of meeting an emergency that would permit Congress to deal in more deliberate fashion with problems connected with the long-range-aid program.

Any emergency aid, as the report says, "presents the same general problems as does the general European aid program, and Congress should bear this in mind in setting up any emergency aid program." For, as the Herter Committee repeatedly points out, the existing emergency, though aggravated by crop failures, is not temporary, nor is it confined to western European countries participating in the Marshall Plan. Moreover, "the constructive side of European aid must," we are told, "also be attacked through the recovery of Germany on which the other countries of Europe largely depend."

The committee calls the findings of the Paris Conference on the Marshall Plan "little more than efforts to arrive at the order of the magnitude of the problem." Detailed studies of European requirements now being made will, it is hoped, lower the estimated costs of the long-range program. In any case, the report emphasizes the necessity of setting up an over-all agency to screen requests for aid and make such aid contingent upon a mobilization of their resources by countries seeking aid from the United States.

This preliminary report is in the nature of a statement of general principles and objectives, with one or two exceptions, but it is a useful guide to procedural action. Furthermore, it provides encouraging evidence that the members of the Herter Committee who unanimously indorsed the conclusions here outlined firmly believe that the United States as a matter of self-interest must help European nations to rebuild their economies and thus arrest the rapid political disintegration that constitutes a threat to individual liberties and to world peace.

Two-Way Fellowships

In no field is a program of educational exchange likely to prove more fruitful in terms of international understanding than in the field of law. For law, a crystallization of custom, affords peculiar insight into the institutions and the essential character of a people. Study of a nation's laws reveals much, at the same time, of the ways in which that nation may cooperate in international undertakings, of the steps necessary to translate popular good will into governmental action.

Precisely because it opens up an avenue to this sort of understanding of the United States, the Yale University Law School's two-way fellowship plan seems an especially useful one. Under the terms of the plan, properly qualified graduate students of foreign law schools are assisted in entering the Yale Law School for graduate study. According to the latest report of Dean Sturges, 23 such students are registered at Yale for the fall term now in session and some 12 to 15 Yale Law School undergraduates have expressed a desire to pursue graduate work in foreign countries when they have completed their work for an LL.B. degree at home.

This Yale program makes, we should suppose, an admirable contribution to the efforts of the State Department's Office of Information and Educational Exchange. And considering the failure of Congress thus far to provide official assistance for the migration of European students to this country, it is fortunate that private institutions such as Yale are doing what they can to fill the void. The Yale program, moreover, goes beyond simple student exchange. It foresees the need for an entirely new international jurisprudence. The dean of the law school speaks of a "preventive jurisprudence" aimed at "the 'friction points' and 'tension areas' from which may emerge substantial threats to world peace and security." This is just the sort of thing that UNESCO has challenged the educational institutions of the world to attempt.

Dewey's Indorsement

"In my judgment," said Gov. Thomas E. Dewey in his recent address in New York, "we have no choice today whether or not to act in this emergency. It is unthinkable that after a successful war at staggering cost in blood and resources we should now stop and surrender the fruits of victory. We will be doing just that if we permit the free nations to fall into economic chaos and then under Soviet control . . . We have only one choice, and that is wisely to aid those who stand with us in the world in the hope that they will rise again as bulwarks of the institution of human freedom."

This sound and lucid indorsement of the aid-to-Europe program ought to be reproduced because some of those who heard the New York Governor or read his address in the press may have lost interest before he came to the substance of what he had to say. He began his speech with a partisan attack upon the Administration's foreign policy, but soon dropped that line after saying that it is our duty "to reach sound decisions calmly and without partisanship." We think it is unfortunate that Governor Dewey did not follow the pattern of Senator Vandenberg and leave the partisan attitude entirely out of his comments on foreign policy.

One other point he made seems to us worth special emphasis. He sharply rejected the suggestion that the United States should not aid the recovery of any nation that is nationalizing some of its industries. "There are two worlds today," Governor Dewey said. "That is enough. In fact, it is one too many. We should not adopt a course which would create three worlds. In the free world, economic systems are not all alike." The very nature of the policy upon which we have embarked forbids the attachment of rigid and stultifying conditions to the aid we extend to our former allies. Of course, certain standards must be laid down. But Congress should never forget that the aim of the policy it is being asked to implement is to maintain freedom and independence in other lands by shoring up their economies and not to tie them to the American economic system.

Grain Buying

Government grain purchases obviously are the principal factor in $3 wheat, but they are not the only factor. Speculation also has contributed. Nor can the effect of increased use of wheat by distillers and brewers in the last frenzied month prior to the shutdown be discounted. Moreover, the exchanges themselves are not paragons of innocence, as was demonstrated by their reluctance to comply with Government requests for increased margins.

Nevertheless there is some justification, it seems to us, in the exchanges' criticism that Government purchasing has been sporadic and hence a more than necessarily disruptive influence on the market. More than anything else this reflects, we think, the lack of sufficient advance planning and the failure to settle on a definite goal. To be sure, a precise determination of the amount of American grain that will be needed is difficult to make, since it depends in large measure on the foreign crops that will be available. Nonetheless, obvious decisions too long deferred are characteristic of the Government's handling of the entire food crisis.

While it is easy to pick out the defects, it is not so easy to prescribe an effective cure. Some inflationary pressure on the market will remain as long as the necessity for Government buying exists. Price control has been suggested. If farmers were assured that grain prices would not rise further, the impetus for withholding would be lost. Any ceiling price for grain, of course, must be consistent with meat prices, which implies both price control and rationing of meat. These are matters which require congressional determination. Within the realm of grain purchases, however, the Administration could afford to pay some heed to the exchanges' complaints of irregularity. We know that the food emergency will be with us for some time to come. Why is it not possible to plan accordingly and to space Government grain buying so as to cause a minimum of disturbance?

Martin To The Rescue

Speaker Martin is to be congratulated for his efforts to clear the way for prompt consideration of the pressing problems that will confront the special session of Congress. His declaration in favor of postponing action on tax reduction legislation until the regular session allays fears that valuable time might be squandered debating the pros and cons of tax reduction. Although the final decision as to strategy rests with the Republican steering committee, it is taken for granted that the views of the influential Speaker of the House will prevail. In that event a formidable threat to prompt action on requests for emergency aid for Europe will be eliminated. The remainder of the time the special session can profitably be devoted to pressing problems of domestic inflation and introductory work on the long-range Marshall Plan.

Korean Elections

In his letter of October 25, Mr. Robert T. Oliver complains that I accused him of inaccuracies in his analysis of the Korean situation and is puzzled over my views concerning elections in my country.

On my recent visit to my native land, I spoke with many people who are acquainted with the activities and reputations of both Dr. Kimm Kiusic and the late Lyuh Woon Hyung. I did not receive by word or act the slightest indication that either of them was Communist or even pro-Communist. Yet, by implication, Mr. Oliver accuses both men on the basis of a single shred of evidence—a purported conversation.

The election of 1946, which showed an extreme rightist majority, was a farce. Besides the irregularities, only a fraction of the people had any effective influence in voting since the system used was based on a pyramiding of the electorate, and some of the district attorneys did not even know when the election was held.

Mr. Oliver adopts a shrewd approach to justify the insistence of the Dr. Syngman Ree faction on a voting age of 25, going into details about the difference in the Korean method of calculating age and the fear of Communists among the youth, and concluding with the statement that as of August 12, the voting age was revised to 21. The fact is that the voting age was not revised on August 12, despite the request of the Military Governor, because of the extremist opposition. The voting age now stands at 23.

I do not object to an election when there are some assurances that the Korean people may freely express themselves without threats and violence from the terroristic extremist minority. Mr. Oliver gives the American public an impression that the vast majority of the Korean people want an election at once, and that Syngman Rhee would have a crowning victory. On the contrary, a recent public opinion poll shows that only 22 per cent favor an immediate election.

Poultryless Days

I have read with interest your various news stories and editorials on the saving of bread, eggs, meat and poultry and agree with you that all good Americans are glad and willing to curtail our consumption of essential foods to enable our European friends to have a normal diet from day to day.

But this comes to my mind: we are asked on Thursdays to abstain from both poultry and eggs. So what happens? If the average family doesn't have eggs for breakfast, isn't it natural that they make their breakfast of cereal? So after all, what do we really save? We are just eating corn, wheat and oats in another form, are we not?

If we are really going on a national program to save grain for Europe, shouldn't we cut out cereals as well as eggs and meat?

To my mind, we are either really serious about this program or we are just trying to kid ourselves a bit and are putting on a token demonstration of saving a few dozen eggs, of which everyone knows our Government has a tremendous backlog in storage. Don't you think we should cut down a bit on the cereal boys?

"Red Fascism"

In reading Mr. Carroll Quigley's letter of November 1, in which he criticized Mary Spargo's use of the expression "Red fascism" as a substitute for communism, I was unable to determine whether Mr. Quigley considered the expression to be a defamation of communism, or whether it was fascism which he wished to decontaminate.

In any case, whatever differences of "theoretical ideology" may distinguish the one from the other in the mind of Mr. Quigley, they both look like twin halves of a split pea to me, in that:

(a) The relationship of the individual to "the state" is identical under both communism and fascism.

(b) The absolute preeminence of "the state" in all social, economic, and political affairs is identical under both communism and fascism.

(c) The absolute elimination of all competing political philosophies is identical under both communism and fascism.

(d) The inseparable identity of "party and state" is identical under both communism and fascism.

Broadly speaking, then, it seems most immaterial to me that there may be any number of differences in the "theoretical aspects" of communism and fascism, for, like Mary Spargo, I cannot discern any material differences in their practical "aspects of application."

"History Of A 'Bad Risk'"

You deserve the thanks of all friends of American democracy for publishing at length the "Case History of a 'Bad Risk'" on November 2 and following it up with a hard-hitting cartoon on November 4. They are good medicine for "security" jitters.

Judged by the "Case History," which I read with great care, our distinguished Secretary of State left behind him, unhappily, one of his many great qualities when he turned from war to statecraft—that of not worrying unduly (or letting his subordinates worry for him) about risks that have to be taken.

Here is a passage from General Patton's diary that ought to be written on the heart and mind of every American in public life: "When this move started, Eddy, of the XII Corps, asked me how much he should worry about his right flank. I said that depended on how nervous he was by nature. Of course, there was nothing to cover his right flank, but by advancing in depth—that is, one division following the other—this lack of defense was immaterial. If I had worried about flanks I could never have fought the war."

Uncle Sam is the deus ex machina of American democracy. The greatest weakness at this moment of the cause for which he stands is the amount of time and energy—that should be devoted to "advancing in depth"—that is worse than wasted by too many of the more responsible among his representatives in worrying about a sort of fool's paradise of "security" of democratic "flanks."

"John G. Winant"

I cannot let go unchallenged your editorial of November 5 on John G. Winant.

The Washington Post says he was not an administrator. We who elected him three times Governor of New Hampshire deny that. We never gave that honor to any man before him. He was perhaps not a procedural artist nor impressed with the need for administrative tidiness, but he got big things done. I doubt if Lincoln measured up to the implied standards of your editorial.

No quality of leadership? What are vision, loyalty to one's subordinates and colleagues, integrity, understanding—are they or are they not qualities of leadership? His political enemies used to cry about his "machine." His "machine was made up of the unorganized people who gladly followed his leadership.

He was inarticulate, you say. His shyness and his desire to say precisely the right thing made it difficult for him to speak, but his homely illustrations and his simple explanation of complex governmental problems had a powerful effect on political audiences.

And when he forgot himself, as he did once when I heard him give an hour-long talk to a critical audience of 700 prep school boys, his eloquence moved them to such a standing ovation as I never have heard given to any other public speaker.

You imply that he was frustrated over his career. A similar comment by the London Daily Star was properly characterized by another Washington paper today as "a tour de force of callous misinterpretation . . . A more shallow and brutal remark could hardly be made of a man who had greatness in him."

Mrs. Roosevelt said that when people tried to belittle John Winant her husband "would smile and hardly bother to refute the statements, for he knew so well that big men cannot be touched by little people."

May I add a postscript to Justice Frankfurter's November 6 letter about John Gilbert Winant?

Gil Winant's qualities of the heart were so manifest that those who did not know him well sometimes overlooked the quality of his thinking. Few of his contemporaries saw so clearly into the future—from peace into war and from war into peace. It did not take the shock of Pearl Harbor to make him organize his embassy for war. It was ready. His reports on price control, the allocation of supplies, the wise utilization of labor, all based on British experience, gathered dust in Washington for months before events compelled action. So did his recommendations on the future treatment of Germany, made when he was a member of the European Advisory Commission. He had the foresight and the grasp of the essential which are the marks of statesmanship.

He had qualities of leadership, too. The agencies which quarreled and intrigued against each other in Washington worked harmoniously and with a sense of purpose under his guidance in London. He exerted an uncanny magnetism. What other man, shunning publicity as he did, could have conveyed to the entire British nation the sure feeling that here was a friend?

A sentence from his book, taken out of context, has been the basis for an assertion that he suffered "disillusionment." No one who knew Gil Winant could believe that. In his last days he did suffer physical torment, and he knew the agony of enforced idleness, but his faith in the Nation he served and the people he loved remained undiminished.

In 1942, Mr. John G. Winant came to Barnstaple in Devon, to accept the freedom of the borough.

Before he read his formal speech, he spoke of the choir of school children who had greeted him. "Not even at the gates of Heaven," he said, "could there be a sweeter welcome than the children of your town have given me today."

He has gone to his welcome now; and many of us who heard him then must be thinking of his words.

Braving The Lions' Den

Women Risk Politics

WOMEN ARE taking a new flier in politics just as the campaigning is getting rougher. The way they ran for office throughout the country in recent county and city elections indicates a big feminine field next fall for Congress and State Legislatures. Yet seldom if ever was a time when political candidates were in such danger of being thrown to the name-callers and rumor-mongers.

Just how many women were elected last Tuesday as members of city councils and school boards, as town clerks, tax collectors, welfare supervisors, judges and mayors will not be known soon. But a record number ran for these offices. New York State, which often initiates trends for women in politics as well as fashions, had what it regarded as an astounding number of women on the Democratic ticket alone—about 450. New York also reports more women holding appointive positions in key offices than does any other State.

American women since getting the vote have not run for public office to any great extent. This has been attributed to their fear of the rough and tumble of campaigning. In 1946 they had more candidates than usual for Congress—but most of these were defeated. Campaigning was rocky enough then, as emotion over meat shortages and communism mounted. Several women candidates for Congress were victims of much bitter personal and political innuendo, gossip and name-calling.

IN RECENT local campaigns women followed the advice they had long been receiving—to begin at the bottom in politics, to run for small community offices. Probably the largest number of candidates was seeking places on school boards. Many of these women—who mostly ran from a sense of duty—found themselves receiving brickbats from both the political left and right.

Women candidates perhaps more than men are vulnerable to this sort of thing. Many of them are middle-of-the-roaders, or slightly left of center in their social thinking. Most of them belong to one or more civic or cultural organizations and are active in social welfare movements. Hence they are almost certain to be accused, in the loose and ignorant talk of the day, of associating either with "Communist-front" or "Fascist-minded" groups. And since women who run for public office are seldom archconservatives, they are likely to be branded "Communists" or "fellow travelers" by those who disagree with them on any issue, or who don't like the length they wear their skirts.

Women who plan to run for office in 1948 need not deceive themselves that it will be easy. The state of fear that runs through the Nation, the intense feeling about race and religious discrimination, the growing political swing from center to extreme right or left with its resultant tension—all these will make campaigning more personal, more emotional, more bitter.

ALSO, believe it or not, there is revived talk about public office being "no place for a woman." In conservative Maine, where Representative Margaret Chase Smith is campaigning for the 1948 Republican nomination for United States Senator, some of her rock-ribbed opponents resorted to this hoary catchword when they could find nothing else to say against the personally impeccable middle-of-the-road feminine candidate.

This caused the Portland Evening Express to answer in a ringing editorial entitled, "No Place for a Woman." It pointed out that Representative Smith's recent calm and cheerful heroism for a four-hour stretch in a crippled plane over the Atlantic had proved the falsity of this "bigoted phrase."

Paradoxically, another handicap to women's new political ambitions is the political apathy of the rank and file of their sex. Mrs. Olive Remington Goldman, unsuccessful Democratic candidate for Congress in 1946 from Illinois, writing in the current Journal of the American Association of University Women on "The Inexperienced Politician," says that what most impressed her in her campaign was the lack of interest in politics among most women. She warns: "No social order can function properly in which the largest single division of the population contributes, as women do in the United States today, less than 5 per cent to the highest legislative body."

Because many conscientious American women are aware of this danger, they are increasingly undertaking the expense, and braving the discomforts and even insults of campaigning. Let no one believe that name calling, gossip, personal attacks, "bigoted phrases," or even repeated defeats will frighten them back to their bridge luncheons and fashion shows.

Yugoslav Explanation

In the October 5 issue of The Washington Post there appeared an article by Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer under the subheading "Grateful Artist Shows Work." It related to the recent exhibition of works at Corcoran Gallery by the well-known Yugoslav sculptor, Ivan Mestrovic. As it contained an incorrect statement, namely, that Mestrovic was imprisoned by Tito's government for almost five months, after which time his release was finally effected by the Pope, I called Miss Thayer in order to draw her attention to this fact. I explained to her that Mr. Mestrovic left Yugoslavia during the occupation and did not spend one day in Yugoslavia after the liberation.

Dewey's Speech

By Mark Sullivan

Support For The Marshall Plan

THE SPEECH by Governor Dewey of New York this week is a contribution, extremely valuable for its concreteness, to the problem about which Congress and the country are just now coming to decisions. The problem has to do with policies and methods associated with our grants in Europe.

Sullivan

The contribution of Governor Dewey, besides the intrinsic value of its definiteness, has political importance in the best sense. Governor Dewey is a Republican on the highest level of leadership, a strong probability for the party's presidential nomination. And policy about grants to Europe is passing to the Republican Party. That party has control of Congress. And it is Congress that must make the decisions—must appropriate the funds, determine the policies and methods to accompany them, and carry these out over a number of years.

Decidedly Governor Dewey's speech will be read intently by leaders in European countries. As philosopher-humorist "Mr. Dooley" said years ago of the Supreme Court, that it "follows the election returns," so will European leaders, markedly under present conditions, follow American election returns, and election possibilities. It should be added that, on the basic problem whether grants to Europe should be made. Republican policy does not differ from that of the Democratic Administration. It is about methods and accompanying policies that there may be differences.

THE DECISIONS about to be made do not relate, at least not much, to the immediate grants, mainly for food and fuel to avert hardship during the winter. About this there are practically no questions, certainly no new ones, and Congress will make these grants with little debate. About these, Governor Dewey's suggestion is that we make them as gifts and call them by that name, not looking for much return, certainly not a stipulated return in dollars.

It is the long-range and big-amount grants for the reconstruction of European countries, our part in the Marshall Plan, that give rise to problems of policy and method.

The broad question, whether we should make these grants, hardly remains a question at all. Yet what Governor Dewey says has value because of its forthrightness and clear-sighted vision. Of the hundreds of persons who have uttered millions of words about making these grants, hardly anyone has equaled Governor Dewey's statement of the compelling reasons for them. Nowhere is there a more compact and convincing statement of the fundamental factors involved—Russia's determination to communize the world, our acceptance of leadership in resistance; and the principle we have adopted, that the best way to resist the Russian attempt is to use our resources for helping the nations of western Europe toward restoration of an economic health which will enable them to remain independent and free—in order, in Governor Dewey's phrase, to "create a strong and determined world of free nations."

There remain the questions of method and policy accompanying our aid; it is about these that Congress and the country must come to decisions. One of them is stated by Governor Dewey and answered with outright positiveness: "It has been suggested that we should not help any nation which has nationalized any industry. Such a policy would, I think, be very unwise."

FOR THIS, Governor Dewey gives reasons at once generous to the nations and far-sighted in our interest: "We do not share the Socialist ideas prevailing in some nations . . . I am sure in my own mind that if those nations would restore initiative and free enterprise their progress would be immediately accelerated. But we will not achieve that result by . . . withholding aid if they do not change their practices."

Governor Dewey's faith seems to be supported by the recent elections in England which showed a strong trend against the Socialist regime of the Labor Party now in power; and other elections in other European countries which showed a conservative trend.

About our grants to Europe, Governor Dewey holds a view that is likely to be the view of the Republicans in Congress. The grants "should be made for business purposes;" that is, for purposes of industrial reconstruction in European countries. Because that is the purpose, Governor Dewey says, administration of the grants should include businessmen. As another concrete suggestion Governor Dewey says he would "like to see the entire program closely supervised by a special authority created for that specific purpose . . . under the direction of a general bipartisan board."

Judge Enjoins Strike Due To Union's Refusal of Oath

Scranton, Pa., Nov. 7 (AP).—"A strike under the guidance of any union unwilling to declare its allegiance to the United States should be enjoined," County Judge Will Leach said today.

Assailing union officers refusing to take oath under the Taft-Hartley law that they have no Communist ties, the jurist continued two injunctions which:

1. Restrict picketing and propaganda activities by eight striking employes of Radio Station WBGI.
2. Ban picketing of the Globe Department Store by the radio workers on grounds it constitutes a second boycott in violation of the Taft-Hartley Act.

The strikers, affiliated with the CIO American Communications Association, are limited by one court order to two pickets at the radio station. Another injunction was obtained by the Globe store on claims it was being picketed because of failure to cancel its advertising contract with the radio station.

Judge Leach, president of Lackawanna County Courts, said in his opinion:

"The Soviet Union is an enemy of the United States and has organizations working herein to overthrow the Government. The officers of the union will not even take oath that its members are not adhering to the enemies of the United States, giving them aid and comfort, which is part of the definition of treason given by the Constitution of the United States.

"Unions whose officers are unwilling to take oath that they do not adhere to the enemy power should have no standing in any court whose judges have taken the oath to uphold the Constitution of the United States. The theory that millions of our soldiers should risk their lives to uphold our Government and that judges should help a power that bores from within to destroy it is ridiculous."

Counsel for the strikers, who walked out when the station management refused to discuss with them the dismissal of an employe, said Judge Leach's ruling would be appealed.

Chinese Reds Seen Nearer Ultimate Goal

Shanghai, Nov. 7 (AP).—As inconclusive skirmishes were reported today in Manchuria, an American observer newly returned from that wintry warfront expressed the opinion the Chinese Communists "have lost the campaign but have gained the victory."

The offensive of the past six weeks, the Communists' sixth since the Japanese surrender, apparently cost them more losses than government forces suffered, he explained, but further damaged the shaky economy, demoralized defending troops and brought a step nearer the ultimate goal of wiping out the government's Manchurian corridor.

This American, who spent 10 months in Mukden, Changchun and other Manchurian places, said government commanders believed the Communists wanted to capture the capital city, Changchun, and Kirin as winter bases. Kirin is a key to the electric power sources of much of Manchuria.

Dispatches indicated both sides might be getting set for winter.

Farther south Communists pressed their attacks on Yulin, in north Shensi Province.

Mrs. Churchill Is Guest At Soviet Celebration

London, Nov. 7 (AP).—Mrs. Winston Churchill, not accompanied by the former prime minister, attended a reception at the Soviet Embassy tonight celebrating the thirtieth anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution.

Deputy Prime Minister Herbert Morrison, Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin, Economics Minister Sir Stafford Cripps and Harold Wilson, Board of Trade president who led a trade mission to Russia last summer, also were among 800 guests at the party.

Aid to Pole In Flight Laid To Germans

Warsaw, Poland, Nov. 7 (U.P.).—A Foreign Ministry spokesman said today that a Berlin organization called "the Underground Train," which claims to have smuggled more than 700 persons from central and eastern Europe, was responsible for part of opposition leader Stanislaw Mikolajczyk's flight to England.

The spokesman said that Mikolajczyk's claim he was not aided in his escape was false and cited news stories in the foreign press to support his point.

He refused to amplify the charge made in a government communique that an embassy in Warsaw had aided Mikolajczyk in his escape.

"There will be more information on this in the near future," he said.

OPA Data Must Be Held 2 Years More

The Government yesterday ordered businessmen to preserve for another two years all records relating to goods and services decontrolled by the former Office of Price Administration.

The Department of Justice said the action was necessary to enable it to "proceed with the prosecution of suits transferred to it when OPA was discontinued."

The requirement for preserving records would have lapsed last night at midnight without the two-year extension, which was ordered with Justice Department approval by the three agencies liquidating the OPA.

The agencies are the Departments of Agriculture and Commerce and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Their order requires preservation until November 9, 1949, of the following:

"All records, documents, reports, books, accounts, invoices, sales lists, sales slips, orders, vouchers, contracts, receipts, bills of lading, correspondence, memoranda, and other papers, and drafts and copies thereof."

There was an exception with respect to rice, which was decontrolled June 30 this year. Records and documents regarding rice transactions are required to be preserved only until June 30, 1949.

Clark Heads Army Board Of Promotion

Gen. Mark Clark yesterday was named head of an Army board to select officers of the Regular Army for permanent promotion to the rank of colonel.

The seven-man group will consider for advancement eligible officers of the arms, administrative and technical services other than the Medical Department. A separate board, headed by Maj. Gen. Malcolm C. Grow, will pass on promotions for the Medical Department.

Both groups will meet at the Pentagon early in December. The Army did not reveal the number of officers to be considered or the number of promotions to be made.

The boards will consider for promotion all lieutenant colonels—other than chaplains and medical department personnel—who will complete 24 years service prior to Dec. 31, 1947. In addition, they will consider all officers who served as temporary general officers prior to VJ-Day, regardless of their permanent rank.

Eligible chaplains and medical personnel consist of all who were permanent lieutenant colonels on Aug. 31, 1947.

Members of the Clark board are: Lieut. Gen. Alvan C. Gillem and Maj. Gens. Ernest N. Harmon, Glen E. Edgerton, Edwin P. Parker, jr., Everett S. Hughes and Spencer B. Akin. Three Army chaplains—Maj. Gen. Luther D. Miller and Cols. Roy H. Parker and Gynther Storaasli—will replace the last three named when the board selects chaplains.

The Grow Medical Board has four members: Brig. Gens. John M. Willis, Omar H. Quade, Albert A. Kenner and Guy B. Denit.

The President's Calling List

By The Associated Press

President Truman yesterday had the following White House callers:

10 a. m.—Cabinet.

11:30 a. m.—E. L. Bartlett, Delegate from Alaska.

12 noon—Leslie Arries and Thomas Whelan, members of the Touchdown Club of Washington.

1:15 p. m.—J. Clahr Huddle, Ambassador to Burma.

12:30 p. m.—Winners of White House news photographer contest.

1 p. m.—Lunch.

3:15 p. m.—Secretary of the Navy Sullivan.

U. S. Aides Snubbed at Reds' Fete

Moscow, Nov. 7 (U.P.).—Russia today left United States military, naval and air attaches off its invitation list to the mammoth parade with which it celebrated the thirtieth anniversary of the 1917 revolution.

Presumably because of this snub, Ambassador Gen. Walter Bedell Smith did not make use of his own invitation, and the United States was represented only by Embassy Counselor Elbridge Durbrow.

It was believed unofficially that the Russians left out the attaches as a reprisal for the recent failure of United States military authorities to invite Russian Attaches to a demonstration at the Aberdeen, Md., proving grounds.

Other Attaches There

Attaches of other countries were present, in full dress uniforms, in the box of honor next to Lenin's tomb in Moscow's Red Square. Among them was British Military Attache Maj. Gen. Richard Hilton, who, it was alleged a few days ago, was caught while trying to photograph a war plant.

But Maj. Gen. Robert Macon, Rear Admiral Leslie Stevens and Brig. Gen. Warren Carter, the United States military, naval and air attaches, had to watch the parade from a balcony of the American Embassy which overlooks the broad boulevard approach to the square.

There was no explanation officially for the failure to invite the Americans.

Bulganin Lauds Army

Marshal Nikolai Bulganin, minister for the armed forces, who in an anniversary order of the day had said that "the Soviet army, armed with the most advanced Stalinist science and with the latest military technique is a first class army of today," reviewed the parade from the back of a cavalry charger.

In a steady rain, interspersed with spats of hail and snow, Russia paraded its military might. Tens of thousands of massed infantrymen, cavalrymen, parachutists and divisions of artillery and tanks swept past the reviewing stand.

Josef Stalin was believed to be still at the "Little Kremlin" resort of Sochi on the Black Sea. Instead of Stalin, Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov stood at the center of the little group of high officials on top of the rain-swept tomb of Nikolai Lenin.

Editor Is Expelled By German Communists

Frankfurt, Germany, Nov. 7 (AP). The Communist Party of the U. S. zone of Hesse announced today it had expelled Arno Rudert, the chief editor of the American-licensed newspaper Frankfurter Rundschau, from the party for what it called "personal cowardice." It said Rudert had "avoided presenting the points of view of the Communist Party on important questions."

$300,000 a Year to Live

Detroit, Nov. 7 (AP).—Mrs. Henry Ford, widow of the auto manufacturer, told a probate court today that it costs her $300,000 a year to live and maintain her estate. She was granted that amount by Probate Judge James H. Sexton, who signed a routine widow's petition on Mrs. Ford's behalf. Ford left an estate estimated at the time of his death as in the neighborhood of 500 million dollars.

German Plans 'Leak' Annoys The British

London, Nov. 7 (U.P.).—A Foreign Office spokesman, fearing that Russia might be further antagonized, complained today of news leaks concerning secret United States-British negotiations on the establishment of an independent German state in the western occupation zones.

The spokesman insisted that no "arrangments" had been made for the establishment of such a state in the event of the failure of the Big Four Foreign Ministers Conference on Germany which opens here November 25.

But an authoritative American source implicitly answered this by saying that there had been extensive discussions "at a working level" on the question of forming such a state if the conference broke down.

Russian Foreign Minister Viacheslav Molotov yesterday complained bitterly of the creation of a joint control for the western zones.

The British were afraid that any talk of the creation of a western state would make the situation worse. Apparently the calculated American view was that Molotov might as well realize that if he continued to block all attempts to write a German peace treaty, the United States, Britain and France were going to do something about it.

British opinion was also that Molotov's speech was a blow to the Big Four conference.

The Foreign Office spokesman called it "a rather unfortunate onslaught on Anglo-American policy."

The preliminary work of the Big Four deputies was suspended today for the celebration of the thirtieth anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution. Delegates were guests of Russian Deputy A. Smirnov at the Russian Embassy.

Steel Making Deal Reported For Japan

Tokyo, Nov. 7 (AP).—Japan's steel industry, hobbled since the surrender, soon may start production for export.

Allied headquarters, the Japanese government and Yaras & Co., a Los Angeles steel firm, are negotiating an agreement under which the Japanese steel industry would produce 40,000 tons in an estimated 11-million-dollar transaction. Yaras reportedly would supply the raw materials for steel which Japanese believe would be sold in Argentina.

The principals are reticent about details, but insist the proposed transaction in no way marks the revival of Japanese heavy industry or the export of steel which could be used in the Japanese economy.

Joseph Ready of Washington, D. C., chief of headquarters' industrial division, pointed out that production would be based entirely on imports of raw materials. Informed sources said production would be divided between galvanized and hot-rolled steel. Japan's peak steel production was about eight million tons yearly.

King Paul of Greece Stricken With Fever

Athens, Nov. 7 (AP).—King Paul I of Greece is suffering from paratyphoid fever, his court announced today. The disease resembles typhoid fever. King Paul, 45, succeeded to the throne of Greece on the death of his brother, King George II, last April 1.

The Gallup Poll

Truman, MacArthur and Ike Best Known of Prominent Men

By George Gallup

Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 7.—A Nationwide quiz test on political names has just been conducted by the Institute among voters from coast to coast.

A list of 16 men prominent in national politics or talked about as possible presidential candidates was handed to each voter and the test was to see how many of these men the voter could identify correctly.

Eight of the names proved fairly easy to people. A large percentage could identify President Truman, Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, Senator Robert A. Taft, Secretary of State George C. Marshall, Henry A. Wallace, and Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg.

A smaller majority could identify the next four—Former Secretary of State James F. Byrnes, Senator Claude Pepper of Florida, Secretary of National Defense James V. Forrestal, and Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky.

On the remaining four names, voters fell down badly. Only half or fewer could identify correctly the names of Harold E. Stassen, former Governor of Minnesota, and an announced candidate for President; Earl Warren, Governor of California; Joseph E. Martin, Speaker of the House of Representatives, and Harry F. Byrd, Senator from Virginia.

Here is the way the test was put:

"Will you please look over this list of names and tell me which of these people you have heard of? Will you tell me who each one is or what he does?"

In grading the answers each voter's reply was marked correct if he gave a general indication of knowing the name and identifying it even though the identification was not always specific. Some voters gave positively incorrect identifications; many others simply said they didn't know who the people were.

The results:

	Correct	Incorrect and don't know
Truman	98%	2%
MacArthur	97	3
Eisenhower	95	5
Dewey	91	9
Taft	82	18
Marshall	79	21
Wallace	75	25
Vandenberg	65	35
Byrnes	58	42
Pepper	58	42
Forrestal	53	47
Barkley	51	49
Stassen	50	50
Warren	41	59
Martin	33	67
Byrd, Harry	32	68

How Many Guns to Go Boom For Service Chiefs Settled

Service protocol officials have handed down an intricate decision on the touchy question of the proper honors to be paid ranking civilian chiefs of the armed forces under unification.

As finally ruled upon by the dictators of pomp and ceremony:

Secretary of Defense Forrestal rates a 19-gun salute when he arrives at an Army, Navy or Air Force post or ship. And the guns will boom out 19 times again when he leaves.

Army Secretary Royall, Navy Secretary Sullivan, and Air Force Secretary Symington, however, will be given a 19-gun salute only on arrival, and leave in silence on such visits, except when at one of their own installations.

Royall will get the same honors as Forrestal at Army posts. Battleship guns will sound 19 times when Sullivan comes aboard and leaves. Symington will get similar honors when he lands at an Air Force field.

Whew! That was a tough one!

Former Policeman Gets Two Years In Forgery Case

A former Hyattsville town policeman, who pleaded guilty last week to eight forgery indictments in Prince Georges Circuit Court, was sentenced yesterday to two years in the Maryland State Reformatory.

Paul J. Barbour, 22, of Mount Rainier, drew jail terms on two of the eight charges. Judge John B. Gray suspended sentence on the other indictments after receiving a report from County Probation Officer Roy Bright. The nature of the report was not disclosed.

Barbour was indicted for forging checks totaling $705 in the name of Frank Coplin, a fellow roomer at 4316 Farragut st., Hyattsville, last May. Arrested July 11, he was dismissed from the police force immediately.

Before sentencing, the court heard that Barbour had made full restitution to Coplin since his arrest.

Masaryk Isn't Going to 'Start Shooting' Reds

Lake Success, N. Y., Nov. 7 (AP). Czechoslovak Foreign Minister Jan Masaryk said in an interview today "I feel constitutional, democratic and parliamentary processes must be maintained" in Czechoslovakia, now in a governmental crisis.

"But that doesn't mean I'm going to start shooting at the Communists," he said.

Masaryk denied unconfirmed reports that he would refuse to return to Prague because Communist demands for more power in the government made him fear for his personal safety.

Masaryk heads the Czechoslovak delegation to the United Nations Assembly. He said he has booked passage on the Queen Mary for his return to Czechoslovakia late this month.

Board Named To Revamp U. S. Reserves

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

Secretary of Defense Forrestal has named a joint board to make plans for revamping the reserve branches of the armed services to prepare them for modern war.

Faced with dissatisfaction over unequal pay laws, bad feeling between the National Guard and Organized Reserve, and need for a basic review of the role of all reserve services, Forrestal threw the problems into the laps of a six-man board.

Officials declared the group undoubtedly would consider advanced proposals to merge the Guard and Army and Air Reserves. But Forrestal denied published reports that the group would consider taking away State control of the National Guard.

"The intent of the joint committee," he declared in a statement, "is not to study the possibility of removing the National Guard from control of the 48 Governors. It will have as its general object the development of a rounded and uniform reserve program."

Assistant Secretary of the Army Gordon Gray heads the board. Other members are Lieut. Gen. Raymond S. McLain, USA; Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Air John N. Brown; Vice Admiral William M. Fechteler, Assistant Air Force Secretary Cornelius V. Whitney, and Brig. Gen. J. P. McConnell, USAF.

There has been growing dissension between the Guard and Organized Reserves over questions of inactive duty pay, equipment and mobilization assignments. Many Army and Air Reservists protest that both Guardsmen and many Naval Reservists draw weekly drill pay, while they do not. They contend the Reserve is unable to maintain standards and strength as a result.

Maj. Gen. Harry Vaughan, President Truman's military aide and a reservist, recently aroused National Guard leaders by proposing a merger of the Guard and Reserve. The Guard contends it this would undermine the organization.

Many ranking Regular Army and Air Force officers, however, are deeply dissatisfied with the present status of their reserve components. They are convinced that the existence of two reserve forces—the guard and organized reserves—plus the dual Federal-State character of th eformer—hamstrings a really effective national defense.

What they would like to see is a national or home guard of older men trained for the important role of civil defense in an atomic war—under State control—and an M-day force of combat divisions under Federal jurisdiction.

National Guard leaders take violent exception to this. It is believed that this basic problem will be considered by the board, even though Forrestal's statement would seem to rule out "removing the National Guard from control of the 48 Governors."

Objections to Laws

There are also differing laws for the various Reserve components on disability retirement, promotion, insurance, and benefits granted ROTC students, which cause complaint.

Forrestal's announcement said the board would consider "probable developments in the character of warfare," mobilization needs, manpower available, and new problems before the States, "especially those raised by considerations of civil defense, universal training and questions of cost."

Other problems to be studied include the joint use of armories, equipment and training areas, joint recruiting, and joint training, 8he broad matter of the missions of the reserve branches will review, it was said, with particular attention to the distribution of forces between M-day combat units, and the expanded civil defense organization required in an atomic war.

Trial of Christoffel To Start January 7

Trial of Harold Christoffel, Milwaukee labor leader, on charges of perjury is slated for District Court January 7, it was announced yesterday.

The charges against Christoffel, an official of the United Auto Workers, originated in his denial of Communist affiliations when questioned at a hearing of the House Committee on Un-American Affairs last March 1.

Venezuela Editors Back Press Freedom

Caracas, Venezuela, Nov. 7 (U.P.). Application of collective sanctions on any American government violating or restricting freedom of the press was recommended today by the editors of Caracas' five leading newspapers.

They said the Pan American conference meeting at Bogota, Colombia, in January should adopt a continental statute guaranteeing press freedom.

Bandits Rob Consulate

Paris, Nov. 7 (AP).—Five men, believed to be Spaniards and armed with submachineguns, entered the Spanish Consulate General today, bound and gagged four members of the staff, cut the telephone lines, and escaped with 250,000 francs ($2000), the consulate reported to the police.

McLean Gardens Cafeteria Approved

Owners of McLean Gardens, Wisconsin ave. housing development, yesterday won their fight to retain cafeteria service for their tenants.

The District Zoning Commission granted their plea to extend present zoning 75 feet so that the entire cafeteria would be operating within the law.

At a public hearing October 14, tenants and representatives of the General Accounting Office, whose employes in nearby temporary buildings use the facilities at lunchtime, appeared on behalf of the cafeteria.

The commission also extended for nine months to October 1, 1948, a wartime amendment to zoning regulations, which permits temporary use of homes in restricted areas as boarding houses. This amendment would have expired December 31, 1947.

But the zoning body turned thumbs down on a request by Anacostia National Bank to set up a "drive-in" branch on S. Capitol st. near the intersection of Nichols ave. se.

Kelly Slayers Granted Stay Of Execution

A stay of execution until January 30, yesterday was granted three youths facing death for the slaying of a 55-year-old Government electrician during an attempted holdup last March.

The stay was granted by Associate Justice Alexander Holtzoff in District Court pending appeal of the sentence.

The condemned youths, Shirley Harris, 23, of 1440 W st. nw., Joseph A. Gray, 19, of 2106 8th st. nw., and Herbert H. Hall, 18, of 514 Hobart st. nw., originally had been sentenced to be electrocuted on November 21.

The trio had been convicted of the fatal shooting of Frank Kelly, 4004 New Hampshire ave. nw., as he waited for a trolley in the 2500 block of 11th st. nw.

At the trial, Gray and Hall both accused Harris of being the triggerman. The latter also confessed to police that he had done the actual shooting.

Ex-Judge Plunges To Death After Suit Summons

Atlanta, Nov. 7 (U.P.).—Charles S. Reid, former Chief Justice of the Georgia Supreme Court, plunged to his death from his 12th floor office today 12 hours after he had been served in a suit demanding that he account for $28,220 in orphans' home funds.

The suit was filed in behalf of the Georgia Baptist Children's Home, Inc., and charged that "upon information and belief" Reid, executor of a trust fund for the home "has withdrawn practically all of the funds * * * and converted same to his own use."

Reid, 50, was named Chief Justice in 1938 and served in that capacity until 1943.

He left the court position to accept a lieutenant colonel's commission in 1943 and in 1944 he went to England as chief of the property control division on Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's staff. After his discharge he was appointed to the Nuernberg War Crimes Tribunal. His wife survives him.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

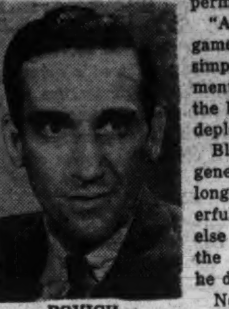
This Morning

—With Shirley Povich

THERE'S NEW HOPE today that the iron curtain may not be dropping on Army-Notre Dame football relations. The game at South Bend this afternoon was supposed to be the finale after 34 years, but Army Coach Earl Blaik now hints there is nothing permanent about the break.



POVICH

"Anybody who says the Army-Notre Dame game will never come back is crazy. He simply doesn't know," says Blaik, a statement which puts him in a better light with the hordes of fans of both institutions who deplored the break announced last year.

Blaik, as coach of the Army team, was generally blamed for the rupture of the long series. The coach always has a powerful voice in the schedule, and nobody else accepted the responsibility for ending the series with the Irish. Now Blaik says he didn't suggest termination of the series.

No matter who at West Point was responsible for the break, it left Army looking bad, and savored of a run-out at a time when the going threatened to get rough.

IT WAS A whopping coincidence, you remember, that West Point suddenly decided to cancel out the Notre Dame game after this year's contest, when the contract for the game expired. Army didn't know where it's good football players were coming from after the graduation of Blanchard, Davis and Tucker, and Army knew that Notre Dame had few worries about talent supply.

There was the statement that Army felt the series with Notre Dame was dangerously close to over-emphasis and was creating a ticket scalping situation in New York that was out of control of the two schools. The cure as Army saw it was to end the series. Notre Dame had a better idea. Play the game at West Point where Army could have strict control over the 16,000 seats of Michie Stadium.

Army's blast against over-emphasis had a hollow ring, anyway. Under the same coach and the same Academy superintendent last December, West Point prayed its heart out for the Rose Bowl bid it didn't get. As long as Army had Tucker, Davis and Blanchard, the big spectacles were wonderful, apparently. Without them, Army decided the game should be played just for fun, which doesn't include a rivalry with Notre Dame, at least until West Point comes up with successors to B. D. and T.

TODAY'S GAME that is even more intriguing than Army vs. Notre Dame is the one they're playing up at Franklin Field, Philadelphia, between Penn and Virginia. Those two unbeaten teams may be playing for the championship of the East, an idea that would have been ridiculed a year ago after Penn gave Virginia a 40-0 shellacking.

But this 1946 Virginia team that has been brought along by Rookie Coach Art Guepe may be the toughest thing that Penn has stacked up against all season. The gentlemen from Virginia slapped down Harvard 47-0, a few weeks ago, will be playing before a sell-out crowd that is now scenting an upset of Penn.

Guepe is taking to Philadelphia a team that is rated as having as many good backs as Penn, the first time the Quakers are meeting up with a club that, like itself, is loaded. Guepe the other day denied that he had all the good backs attributed to Virginia. "It's not true that I have four good backfields—I have only two," he said. Now, that's a downright pathetic spot for a coach to be in—only eight good backs.

NAVY PLAYS Georgia Tech today, and the Middies already have one undisputed distinction this season. They're playing perhaps the toughest schedule of any team in the United States. Every time Navy, except once, has taken the field this year it has been against an unbeaten team—California, Columbia, Duke, Penn and Notre Dame, and now comes Georgia Tech.

When Guepe, of Virginia, moans that he has only eight good backs, consider the plight of Navy Coach Tom Hamilton, who can sum up his backfield talent by pointing a finger at Fullback Bill Hawkins.

Navy has a special motive for beating Georgia Tech, incidentally. What happened last year at Atlanta was a sickening thing for the Middies. They had Tech beaten 20-14, when the most outlandish thing happened. Hawkins fumbled as Navy was driving to another touchdown with two minutes to play and a Tech man scooped up the ball to run the length of the field with it. A minute later, Tech scored again on an intercepted pass. Today, Navy would like to get even.

Navy Faces Sixth Unbeaten Team Today in Georgia Tech

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 7.—For the sixth time in seven weeks, Navy's victory-hungry footballers go up against an unbeaten, untied team when they face Georgia Tech at Baltimore's Municipl Stadium tomorrow afternoon.

California, Columbia, Duke, Penn and Notre Dame had unblemished marks when they squared off against the Midshipmen and all except Duke preserved their record against the Sailors. Duke got a 14-14 tie after leading most of the way.

The Engineers, the Nation's fifth-ranking team, will be shooting for their seventh straight success while the Middies, bumped by everyone this year except Cornell, hope to turn in their second triumph.

Bowen Tech Spearhead

Tech's tricky T-formation offense is powered by Fullback Dinky Bowen, who will also double as a passer since Lefthalfback George Matthews is sidelined with a broken ankle.

Matthews was the boy who engineered Tech's close victory over Navy in Atlanta last year, grabbing a fumble in midair and racing 99 yards for the last-minute touchdown.

The crowd of 45,000 may be treated to a passing show as Navy is not expected to do much business with the potent Tech line.

Only one touchdown has been scored against the Rambling Wreck this season—by Auburn—while Tennessee, Tulane, V. M. I., Duke and The Citadel were shut out.

Navy hasn't scored in two weeks against Penn and Notre Dame and Quarterback Reaves Baysinger, jr., can be counted on to fill the air with passes.

Tech arrived here at noon today and limbered up briefly at the Stadium. Navy's squad, plus the brigade of 2800 Midshipmen, will come up from Annapolis tomorrow morning.

Keeping a sharp eye on the Engineers will be a delegation from both the Sugar and Orange Bowls. Both are considering Yellow Jackets.

Coolidge Eliminates Western, 13-0

Coolidge's Colts knocked Western out of contention for a playoff berth in the Interhigh league and at the same time preserved their own playoff hopes as they spanked the Red Raders, 13-0, yesterday at Western.

By virtue of their victory, the Colts, who lost their first two Interhigh games, fought their way into a third place tie with the Anacostia Indians.

Coolidge	3	2	0	Wilson	1	5	0
Anacostia	3	2	1	Roosevelt	0	6	0

Coolidge scored the first touchdown in its fourth straight shutout in the second quarter, when its left halfback, Houston "Tex" Jones, circled the Western left end for 69 yards.

Jones shook loose after being trapped by three Raiders on the Colt 45. He faked them out of position, stumbled, regained his balance and then went all the way to pay dirt. Bobby Rohr passed to End Don Helfer for the conversion.

Later in the period when Chuckie Davis passed to Rohr for 33 yards and a tally. Tackle Frank Slye's attempted conversion from placement was blocked.

Anacostia Beats Eastern, 13 to 6

Outgained through the air and on the ground, Anacostia's Indians took advantage of two good breaks to defeat Eastern's Ramblers, 13-6, yesterday in an important interhigh league game at Eastern.

The defeat was Eastern's third in six games and dropped the Ramblers from third to fifth place and out of playoff consideration.

Anacostia, already out of the race, climbed from a fourth-place tie with Coolidge's Colts into a third-place deadlock with the Colts, each having three wins and two losses. However, Anacostia also has tied once.

Ramblers Out-Statistic Foe

More than 2500 fans saw the Ramblers gain a 9-6 advantage in the first down department, a 129 to 126-yard edge in ground gaining, and a 64 to 35-yard margin in passing.

Matias (Chow) Echaves scored the first Anacostia touchdown in the second period and Ralph (Monk) Fraser passed to Jim Faulkner on a 27-yard play for the second in the third quarter. But it was a 200-pound converted tackle, Bob Neal, moved to fullback three days ago, who picked up most of Anacostia's yardage by land.

The Indians were helped to their first score when Eastern's Johnny Brown, in punt formation on fourth down, fumbled a bad pass from Center Larry Colabucci, and Anacostia took over on the Rambler 7. Echaves dived over from the 1 for the score. Fraser's pass to Wally Newman was good for the extra point.

Ramblers Score On Pass

A 20-yard kick by Brown went out of bounds on the Eastern 28 to set up the second Anacostia touchdown, which covered 27-yards. Fraser's pass for extra point was incomplete.

The passing of Eastern's Quarterback Don Adriani enabled the Ramblers to net their lone touchdown in the fourth quarter.

The drive to the goal covered 66 yards with Adriani's tosses covering 45. His 5-yard pass to Brown scored. The Ramblers failed to convert when Colabucci again cut loose a wild pass from center.

Lions Drubbed Again, 6 to 2, By Buffalo

By Roger Wolbarst
Post Reporter

After a period and a half of lion-like play, Washington's hockey team performed more on the order of tabby cats as it went down to its fifth consecutive defeat, 6-2, at the hands of Buffalo last night at Uline Arena.

Although the Bisons knocked in a pair of third period goals against the tiring home team, the 2212 fans in attendance knew the game was lost before the final session opened.

Lions Fold Up

A three goal Bison surge late in the second period gave the visitors a substantial 4-1 margin after Washington had out-played Buffalo for most of the first two periods.

Leo Gravelle, Len Halldorson and Joe Bell all beat Lion Goalie Gordon Bell in less than three minutes time to add to the 1-0 margin the Bisons held at the end of the first period.

Washington Wingman Bob Walton finally stopped the Buffalo onslaught as he fired a beauty past Bison net-tender Paul Bibeault at 19:10 of the second period.

The Lions played furiously all throughout the first period, but to no avail as Bibeault made one miraculous stop after another.

Bisons Score Again

Then to add to the Lions' frustration, Defenseman Hal Jackson sifted through the Washington defense to put the Bisons ahead with a long shot which Goalie Bell never saw. His brother Joe stood in front of Bell until the disc arrived on the scene, then stepped aside to allow it to zip past into the cords.

Cadets 'Hot and High' for Irish

Expect Dry Field For Last Game, But Rain Mars Drills

By Jerry Liska

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 7 (AP).—Army tonight was hot, "high" and ready to slam into unbeaten Notre Dame tomorrow in the grand finale of the historic football rivalry which the fan-in-the-street made too big for its own good.

The keyed-up Cadets this afternoon slipped unobstrusively into a town beginning to sizzle and swell with the vanguard of some 59,000 fans who will pack Notre Dame Stadium tomorrow for the first meeting of the 34-year series ever held in South Bend.

Only a sprinkling of greeters were on hand as the 39 grey uniformed West Pointers hustled from their train to two busses which whisked them to Cartier Field for a brief limbering up under murky skies and a raw, biting wind.

Army Coach Earl Blaik told a swarm of reporters that "no coach ever knows when his team is really up for a game," but that the Cadets were in tip-top shape and ready to turn in their "best game of the season."

It was obvious, though, that Army was highly pitched for tomorrow's farewell struggle of the rivalry. They frisked and romped in sweat suits. They were rarin' to go at anything. The linemen even started a "volley ball" game, batting the ball over the cross bar of the goal posts.

Surprisingly, Blaik said Army—like pass-happy Notre Dame—hoped for a dry field tomorrow. "It's obvious that our best chance to win is also through the air and we otherwise need a dry field to do our best."

The weather forecast for tomorrow was for cold and partly

Cavaliers Confident

Virginia Thought Ripe to Ruin Mighty Penn's Record Today

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 7 (AP). The Universities of Pennsylvania and Virginia match unbeaten, untied football records tomorrow before a sellout crowd of more than 78,000 at Franklin Field with Penn both forewarned and forearmed against the "once-a-season" upset jinx that has plagued recent Quaker squads.

Denying any plans for surprise offensive moves, Coach George Munger looks to a line that averages 220 pounds and a fast, tough backfield to carry the Red and Blue to victory.

"The best secret weapon in football," he said, "is hard running, good blocking and sharp tackling. We hope our weapons work perfectly."

"They'd better work," he added grimly.

Virginia's mentor, Art Guepe, recalling that the Quakers routed the Cavaliers, 40-0, last fall warned:

"Virginia is bigger and far better in 1947 than last year. In one year our team has developed poise and savvy which will enable it to feel more at home on Franklin Field than it did last year. It is our intention to maintain and improve on our record against Penn."

The oddsmakers figure Penn is at least 14 points better.

The high-scoring Cavaliers have racked up at least five touchdowns in each of their six victories, tallying 222 points against 33 for the opposition. Penn has allowed only 21 points while chalking up 161 in five contests.

Penn, trying for its first all-victorious season since 1904—Army and Cornell follow Virginia to complete the schedule—is in no mood for a letdown-upset like the 17-14 loss to Princeton that stunned Quaker supporters in 1946.

Cocaptain Bill Luongo, whose fullbacking has been a standout factor, insists "if we lose to Virginia, our whole season will be ruined."

Virginia is ripe to do the ruining. The Cavaliers run well from a T-formation, and Virginia passing is as dangerous as it is tricky. The Cavaliers have completed 31 heaves for 651 yards.

Terps Rule Heavy Choice Over Dukes

By Bill Burnett
Post Reporter

Pittsburgh, Nov. 7.—Maryland University's gridmen, by Coach Jim Tatum's own admission, get a "breather" here tomorrow as they meet Duquesne for the first time in history at Forbes Field.

The odds-makers say the Terps will win by anywhere from 18 to 26 points, supporting Tatum's sentiment of a week ago that he wasn't worried about the Dukes.

But today Sunny Jim, a chronic looker-with-alarm, found reason to worry about the outcome. Even his plans for North Carolina's invasion of Washington next week were shelved as he found his club suffering a bit of overconfidence and one veteran was missing on the plane ride to the Smoke City.

Hubey Werner, senior left halfback, was at home with a damaged leg that failed to respond to treatment. The starting job will go to Johnny Idzik, 18-year-old Frosh from Philadelphia, with Verne Seibert in reserve.

Filling out the Terps' starting backfield as they go after their sixth triumph in seven games will be the fancy Lu Gambino, tied for top scoring honors nationally, at right half: Harry Bonk fullback, and Viv Turyn running the starters at quarter.

Duquesne, in its first year of football competition since the war, will be staging its homecoming tomorrow in at least two ways. Besides the annual celebration for alumni, the Dukes are returning from a four-game schedule away from home—all of them losses. Their only triumph so far came in the season openers against Geneva and Western Reserve.

Some shred of hope for the Dukes is contained in the fact their regular fullback, 190-pound Joe Gottleib, will be getting into his first game in some time. Ted Bukowski will run Coach Kass Kovalcheck's boys and at the halfbacks will be Al Tutsie and Charley Toman.

A forecast of rain, which might add to Duquesne hopes, was expected to cut down on acrowd of 20,000 originally foreseen.

Want Woes? Try Stealing Live Wildcat

By The Associated Press

UNTIL YOU HAVE tried to steal a wildcat, you don't know what trouble is.

The Hoyas ought to know.

That's the story of three Georgetown University students who ought to know.

They stole one.

Georgetown plays Villanova November 14 in football, and Villanova, whose teams are nicknamed the "Wildcats," has a sure enough wildcat for a mascot.

So Charley Bidwill, jr. (his late father owned the Chicago pro football Cardinals), Bill Blatty of Brooklyn and Richard Kelley of Scarsdale, N. Y., thought it would be just dandy to steal this kitty.

Wednesday night they crept into Philadelphia. They located the cage. They carried it off, no small feat, since the cage is larger than a desk and the peeved cat kept acting as if it would like to score on a line plunge.

Finally got cage to car. Oops! Either car was too small or cage was too large.

Inspiration! Is there a station wagon in Philly? Great scurrying around. Station wagon located. Cage won't go in S. W. either.

More scurrying around. Finally rent truck. Load cat on truck. Fetch him here.

So that's why there's a wildcat in a Georgetown basement this morning.

The students plan to keep him until game time, but they admit there's one catch:

How do you keep a wildcat entertained for a whole week?

Said Bidwill:

"It sure was a lot of work, but we know now that there's one thing worse than trying to steal a wildcat."

And that is?

Generals Put Record on Line

Lynchburg, Va., Nov. 7. (AP).—Washington and Lee's clean record against Southern Conference foes will be at stake here Saturday afternoon when the Generals face Virginia Tech's Gobblers.

The Generals will enter the contest smarting from last week's 65-13 beating by Army. Virginia Tech, on the other hand, found itself a week ago to batter George Washington, 42-6.

Washington and Lee has won three conference games and could jump into undisputed possession of the league leadership with a triumph over Virginia Tech. At present, the Generals are deadlocked with Duke for top spot.

In the past games in which Washington and Lee has played, Dick Working, the Generals' great passer, is expected to fill the air with forward pitches. Working is currently ranked the fourth best passer in the Nation.

Richmond Takes to Air

Richmond, Va., Nov. 7 (AP).—An aerial attack by both teams is in prospect here Saturday afternoon when the University of Richmond spiders and the Davidson Wildcats tangle in a Southern Conference football game.

Richmond will be making its first appearance of the season against a team using the single-wing offense.

So far, Davidson has yet to win a Southern Conference game. The best the Wildcats have been able to do to date is tie Virginia Military Institute, a team Richmond squeezed by, 21-20.

St. John's Rolls Over Central, 19-0

Jack George Tosses Three Touchdowns

By Herb Heft
Post Reporter

Lanky Jack George preserved the undefeated record of his St. John's Cadet teammates last night before more than 10,000 fans at Griffith Stadium as he tossed three touchdown passes to sink the favored Central Vikings, 19-0.

It was the seventh straight triumph for the Cadets, who lead the informal Catholic High League. The setback was the first against local opposition and the second this season in five games for the Vikings, who are tied for the inter high league lead.

Actually, the .667 passing percentage that George carried into last night's tiff took a beating. He completed seven of 15 passes for 98 yards.

Touchdown Tosses

His three payoff pitches ran his season's total to 15. The first and last touchdown passes were caught by his favorite receiver, 6-foot-2-inch Tom Fannon, who ran his scoring total to 60 points.

It took the Cadet star 22 minutes to get warmed up. During the first period and the first 10 minutes of the second, George threw five passes, all of which fell incmoplete.

Then, with two minutes left before half time, George intercepted a pass by Central's Jimmy Pantos on the Cadet 45.

His first completed pass came on the next play as End Dick Robey snagged the toss on the Central 40 and raced down the left sidelines to the 4. With 48 seconds left, George connected on a toss to Fannon in the right corner of the end zone. George's try for conversion was wide.

George Improves

George improved on his performance in the second half with five completions out of eight. Cadet Guard Joe Cardaci fell on a loose ball on the Central 24 to set up the second St. John's touchdown early in the last quarter. The scoring play covered 25 yards, with George tossing to Doonie Waldron.

George converted from placement.

A fumble by Central's Jim Johnson set up the final St. John's touchdown, when the whole Cadet line fell on the ball on the Viking 35. An 18-yard pass to Fannon did the trick. George's try for extra point was low.

Central threatened twice in the first half, driving once to the 22 and again to the 27. Early in the third quarter, when they trailed only, 6-0, the Vikings drove to the Cadet 36. But they lacked the extra punch to go the distance.

Dear Folks: At Pimlico

I suggest that if the tracks want to continue steeplechasing they conduct the races in the morning or after dark. A few hours after Jockey Jimmy McGovern died as the result of injuries sustained in a jumping event, a field of 10 was sent out on the course. The spectacle was horrible to behold. It was worse than a bull fight. Miraculously, the jockeys weren't injured. Speaking of these riders, I marvel at their nerve. Just before they went out to risk their lives they took up a collection for McGovern's family. Humphrey Finney reports that the auction scheduled for Monday here has been called off and the next sale of horses in training is booked for November 26. Happy Threatened With 'Boston Beer Party' by Union

Boston, Nov. 7 (U.P.).—A brewery workers' union requested Baseball Commissioner Chandler to resign today because of his "lack of fair play" in refusing to grant a New York beer company the rights to televise the 1947 World Series.

A letter written by Executive Secretary Gildea of the Massachusetts State Council of Brewery Workers to Chandler said that if Chandler acted on grounds that it would not be good public relations to have a World Series broadcast sponsored by a brewer then the council "requests your resignation as commissioner of baseball."

It added that if a Boston team were in the World Series next year and Chandler restricted a New England brewer from broadcasting rights on the same grounds he did in New York, "such an incident might be the cause of a 'Boston beer party' to supplement the 'Boston tea party' and would take place in the ball parks of Boston."

Caps Release Buddy O'Grady

Coach Ed Auerbach last night announced that Francis "Buddy" O'Grady, former Georgetown University basketball captain and a guard with the Washington Capitols, has been optioned to the St. Louis Bombers.

The Caps are expected to reduce their squad by one more before opening their 1947-48 Basketball Association of America season against the Baltimore Bullets at Uline Arena next Wednesday, 8:30 p. m.

3-Year-Old Choice Pays Even Money

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Pimlico, Md., Nov. 7.—Ridgewood Stable's Double Jay, a 3-year-old colt developed by Charles M. Feltner of Berryville, Va., drove to victory in the twenty-second running of the $25,000 added Riggs Handicap.

The son of Balladier and Bromshot finished 2½ lengths in advance of King Ranch's Flash Burn with Walter M. Jefford's Loyal Legion third in the field of five going the Preakness distance of a mile and three sixteenths.

It was in the interests of the favorite players in a crowd of 12,325 that Double Jay turned in his fifth victory in 15 starts this year and his backers collected at the rate of $4.40 for each $2 invested.

Double for Gilbert

Jockey Johnny Gilbert, riding his second winner of the day, booted Double Jay around the "good" oval in time of 2:01, the slowest Riggs since Nick Wall rode Challephen home in 1939 in time of 2:01 3/5. The race record is 1:57 2/5 and is held by Seabiscuit, the 1937 winner.

Gilbert and Double Jay gave their backers no anxious moments. He steadied Double Jay closest to the pace of Loyal Legion. When that one weakened, Gilbert went into a drive to take command. Flash Burn rallied but hung in the stretch run.

R. N. Ryan's Talon, second choice in the betting, proved a disappointment. He trailed as usual early but failed to respond when placed to a drive by Jockey Ruperto Donoso. The Argentine-bred 5-year-old did not appear to like the dull track.

Double Jay took down $20,250 today to bring his season's earnings to a healthy $84,700.

Only Three Finish

The infield was strewn with jockeys and horses during and after the day's alleged steeplechase. A field of 10 "nonwinners over brush" faced Starter Eddie Blind and only three managed to stagger home on even keel: Five horses fell and two lost riders.

The jockeys were more fortunate than others at the meeting for they escaped injury as did most of the horses.

As far as the bettors were concerned the big thud of the race came at the fifteenth and final jump when the favorite, Mrs. Corliss Sullivan's Drift, fell when some 40 lengths in front of his closest rival.

The winner, who won by default, was C. Mahlon Kline's New Puzzle, half of the Trainer Morris H. Dixon entry. Backers of this duo collected a $52 win mutuel. Twelve lengths behind the winner came Mrs. Mary E. Whitney's Stunt Man with Robert A. Chapman's Bail Me Out far back and third. The winner was clocked in 4:18 3/5 for the 2 miles.

Jacobs Turns Out Stymie for Year

New York, Nov. 7 (AP).—Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Stymie, world money-winning champion with earnings of $816,060, will race no more this year.

Stymie, claimed by Trainer Hirsch Jacobs as a 2-year-old for only $1500, has been bothered off and on with foot tenderness and during some of his more recent training had seemed sour.

Jacobs will send the 6-year-old rags-to-riches horse to Jack Skinner's farm in Middleburg, Va., early next week to winter there as he has in recent years.

Stymie has raced 115 times and won 31 times, with 29 seconds and 24 thirds. Warren Wright's Armed, also retired for the year, is closest to Stymie in earnings with $761,500.

Yanks Release Dutton

New York, Nov. 7 (AP).—Bill Dutton, reserve halfback with the New York Yankees, was released today to make room for Lowell Wagner, first-string wingback, who has recovered from the broken leg he suffered on September 21.

Double Feature

Pimlico Lists Futurity and Exterminator

Pimlico, Md., Nov. 7.—Twenty-fifth running of the historic Pimlico Futurity at a mile and a sixteenth and the eighth edition of the Exterminator Handicap at 2 miles and a sixteenth combine to give the Maryland Jockey Club a banner card tomorrow.

The Futurity, one of the Nation's outstanding fall tests for 2-year-olds, has often provided the favorites for the next season's early spring fixtures for 3-year-olds.

It has been won in recent years by such outstanding performers as Count Fleet, Challedon, Bimelech, and last year by Jet Pilot, who went on to win the Kentucky Derby.

Designed as one of a half dozen true distance tests at Pimlico each fall, the Exterminator was inaugurated in 1940, when it was taken by Shot Put.

Run then at 2 miles and 70 yards, the route now is 2 miles and a sixteenth. Mill River Stable's Miss Grillo won the 1946 Exterminator and is seeking to repeat.

Eight horses have been named for each stake and the fields promise to produce a keen brand of competition.

Heading the field in the Futurity is Calumet Farm's Citation, winner of seven of eight starts this season, including the Futurity at Belmont, the Futurity Trial and the Elementary Stakes. The son of Bull Lea has earned $119,005 to date.

Opponents of the Calumet Farm star will include Maine Chance Farm's Ace Admiral, 122, and Royal Blood, 119; Alfred Vanderbilt's Newsweekly, 119; C. V. Whitney's Vulcan's Forge, 122; H. L. Straus' Gallant Jake, 122; King Ranch's Better Self, 119, and Bomar Stable's Piet, 122.

Citation will carry 119 pounds.

Hampton Faces Howard

Howard University, top conference team in the Colored Inter-Collegiate Athletic Association, meets undefeated Hampton Institute in a home-coming conference clash at Brooks Stadium today at 2 p. m.

Tony Wallace, who starred for the locals last season, rejoins the squad today and will share passing chores with Quarterback Chuck Ross.

Hampton's strong ground attack will be sparked by Bill Bellamy, Ed Joyner and Jim Wallace.

A parade from Howard campus to the stadium will precede the game. Halftime ceremonies will include the crowning of Miss Zaida Coles as Gridiron Queen.

The lineups:

Howard		Hampton
A. Williams	L.E.	Stiles
Alexander	L.T.	Corbin
O. Jordan	L.G.	Watkins

Excursion Set To Redskin Game

A football excursion train for the Redskin-Steelers game in Pittsburgh will leave Union Station at 6 a. m. Sunday.

The train, sponsored by the Washington Junior Board of Commerce, will arrive in Pittsburgh at 1 p. m., one hour before kick-off time and will leave for Washington 45 minutes after the game.

Reservations for the trip, at 14.61, may be made at Junior Chamber of Commerce, Room 220, Star Building, or at the office of the Washington Redskins, 739 9th st. nw.

Singh, Gino Matched

A semiwindup between Nanjo Singh and Gino Garibaldi was arranged yesterday for next Wednesday night's wrestling show at Turner's Arena.

W &M, Still Eyeing Bowl, Meets VMI

Williamsburg, Va., Nov. 7.—Tomorrow is Homecoming Day for William and Mary's bowl-minded Indians and they are favored to celebrate by beating Virginia Military Institute's Keydets on the Cary Field gridiron before 19,000 spectators.

By winning, the Indians, who already boast a 4-1 Southern Conference record, can solidify their grip on third place. V. M. I. has a 1-1 conference record.

Pacing the Indians running attack will be Fullback Jack Cloud, Virginia's leading point-maker, and Buddy Lex, one of the conference's top ground gainers. Henry Blanc and Stan Magdziak will handle most of the Indians' passing.

The hosts boast one of the top lines in the East. Candidates for All-Southern Conference honors are Center Tommy Thompson, End Bill Steckworth, and Tackles Ralph Sazio and Knox Ramsey.

The Keydets, who don't generate much land power, are expected to bank on their two able aerial specialists, Quarterback Baby Thomason, last year's conference passing king, and his understudy, Joe Veltri.

V. M. I. holds victories over Catawba, George Washington and Davidson, and has lost to Georgia Tech, Richmond and Virginia. W. & M. defeated Davidson, The Citadel, Virginia Tech, Boston U., and Wake Forest, and lost to North Carolina.

West Virginia Meets Favored Kentucky

Morgantown, W. Va., Nov. 7 (AP).—West Virginia and Kentucky, bitter rivals, will clash here tomorrow before a crowd expected to reach record proportions even though the home team is rated the underdog.

University officials said today that the crowd was expected to reach 33,000, the largest ever to attend a single game at Mountaineer Field since the stadium was opened 23 years ago.

The Wildcats come to Morgantown the favorites despite a 13-0 setback they suffered at the hands of Alabama last week. Kentucky has a string of five victories and two defeats against West Virginia's four and two record this season.

Kickoff time is 2 p. m., and the field may be soggy from recent rains.

The probable starting lineup:

Kentucky		West Virginia
Sengel	L.E.	Reno
Serini	L.T.	Kulakowski
Preston	L.G.	Stuvek
Rhodemyre	Center	Benjamin
Yarutis	R.G.	Corum
Griffin	R.T.	Main
Bradshaw	R.E.	Spelock
Bianda	Q.B.	Combs
Phelps	L.H.	Walthall
Parris	R.H.	Bonfili
R. Genito	F.B.	Bumgardner

Local Colleges Conduct Regatta

George Washington University will be host to the sailing teams of Georgetown and Maryland tomorrow in the first triangular sailing regatta ever held for the three schools.

Races will start at 9 a. m. Sunday from the S. King Fulton docks near the Army War College. As host team, George Washington will provide the boats, new Tempest Class 1 design dinghies.

O'Donnell Bondsmen Forfeit $6000

Baltimore, Nov. 7 (AP).—Six thousand dollars bail was forfeited to the State today by bondsmen for James S. O'Donnell, who disappeared after being sentenced to two years in prison for his part in a "ringer" case at the Pimlico race track two years ago.

O'Donnell and R. B. Sanner were convicted of substituting a horse. Sanner is now serving an 18-month prison sentence.

Deputy State's Attorney William H. Maynard said police still are searching for O'Donnell.

After All These Years

Here's Upset Before Game—Catholic U. Made Favorite

Catholic University's gridmen will play the unfamiliar role of favorites today when they oppose Mount St. Mary's at 2 p. m. in the Brookland bowl.

It will be their tenth meeting in a series begun in 1911, with C. U. holding a 5-3 margin.

Between the halves Coach Dorsey Griffith's cross-country squad will try to outdistance the Quantico Marines and Gallaudet College in a 3¼-mile jaunt.

Coach Gene Augusterfer's men are aiming for a .500 record for the season and must win today as well as against Washington College next week to achieve the goal.

Bucky Ennis and L. F. Lilly, the Card's best running backs, will not see action but Augusterfer still thinks the Cards have enough power to overcome their guests.

He'll depend chiefly on the running and southpaw passing of Gus Gersin, the line-smashing of Bill Holl and the long-distance punting of Joe Mauiri.

Ralph (Whitey) Hubert will replace Ennis while Francis Marty will take over Pat Palmer's duties at right end.

Mount St. Mary's, coached by Steve Filipowicz, former New York Giant star, is reported to have the best fullback in the conference in 210-pound Francis Collins. Augusterfer figures the Cards will have to stop Collins to break up the Mount's offense. The visitors also have a line averaging approximately 180-pounds that is primed to stop C. U.'s ground game.

The lineups:

Catholic U.		Mount St. Mary's
(46) Samperton	L.E.	Harvell (76)
(81) Mulvey	L.T.	Grace (54)
(64) Scoppetulo	L.G.	Brown (71)

Jockey Dies Of Race Hurts

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 7.—Steeplechase Jockey James McGovern, 37, died early today in the Maryland General Hospital as the result of injuries suffered last Friday in a steeplechase race at Pimlico.

McGovern, who fell with the horse, Battle Cruiser, suffered internal injuries, including a punctured lung. He had received transfusions and yesterday was reported to be improving slightly but death came at 4 a. m. this morning.

A native of Brooklyn, N. Y., McGovern is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ois McGovern and three children. Funeral services will be held Monday in Tickner's funeral parlor here.

B.C. Rewards Myers With 4-Year Pact

Newton, Mass., Nov. 7 (AP).—Bolstered by a feeling of security for the first time in his 15-year coaching career, Denny Myers today redoubled his efforts to keep his Boston College Eagles in the running for one of the post-season bowl game football bids.

On the eve of the Eagles' crucial game with strong Wake Forest, Myers was thrilled to accept Boston College's offer of a new four-year head coaching contract that will extend through the 1951 season.

Tomorrow when Myer's current Eagles, beaten only by a single point by Louisiana State in their five 1947 starts, face off against Wake Forest at Braves Field in Boston, they will be under the critical observation of a committee representing the January 1 Orange Bowl game in Miami.

Lost In '43 Bowl Game

The Eagles drew one of the 1943 Orange Bowl game invitations and suffered a 37-21 setback by Alabama, a few days before Myers interrupted his coaching career to accept a Navy commission.

Myers now is coaching his third Boston College team since he succeeded Frank Leahy early in 1941. He has seen his Eagles go into action a total of 34 times, win 25 and lose nine, including the post-season Alabama game.

When the 32-year-old Myers, who hails from Algona, Iowa, and starred as a player at the University of Iowa from 1926-30, was first engaged by Boston College, his coaching career appeared ended.

Just before Leahy asked Boston College authorities to release him from a new contract so he could return to Notre Dame as head coach, Myers was out of a job and his prospects of getting one anywhere appeared hopelessly slim.

Coached at West Virginia

Denny had started his coaching career as line mentor at West Virginia in 1932. From there he moved on to Yale, as one of Ducky Pond's aides, and then to Brown under "Tuss" McLaughry.

When McLaughry agreed to succeed Army's Earl (Red) Blaik at Dartmouth, Myers was stranded. But then Leahy, unknowingly, came to his rescue by "going home" to Notre Dame.

While enjoying exceptional success with all three of his Boston College teams, Myers has been under the constant fire of an alumni minority because only one of them has beaten objective rival Holy Cross.

Myers' 1942 Eagles ranked as one of the nation's top teams until, after going undefeated through eight games, it was overwhelmed, 55-12, by an underrated Holy Cross team that wound up springing one of the most startling upsets of the 1942 sports year.

That setback cost the Eagles an invitation to return to the Sugar Bowl, where, under Leahy, they had beaten Tennessee, 19-13, on January 1, 1941.

Irish Now 18½ Point Favorites

New York, Nov. 7 (INS).—Several changes cropped up tonight in prevailing point odds quoted by New York pricemakers on tomorrow's football games.

In the week's big game, Notre Dame is up to 18½ points over Army, the biggest margin given the Irish all week.

Northwestern, primed for an upset, now is only a three-point underdog for its game with Ohio State. Earlier in the week, the Buckeyes were picked by six points.

Mississippi State's predicted margin over Auburn soared to 26½ points, against yesterday's quotation of 20½.

Mississippi also jumped to 9 points, instead of 7½, over Tennessee.

Holy Cross, which started the week with a 13-point margin over Colgate but subsequently declined in favor, now is up to 12½ again.

Late prevailing point odds on other top games follow:

Minnesota even against Purdue; Penn 14 over Virginia; Georgia Tech 7 over Navy; SMU 8 over Texas A & M; Boston College 7 over Wake Forest; California 14 over Washington; Columbia 14 over Dartmouth;

Duke 5½ over Missouri; Georgia 14 over Florida; Oklahoma 26 over Kansas State; Villanova 1½ over Marquette; Michigan 20 over Indiana; Kansas 14 over Nebraska; Oklahoma A. & M. 12 over Tulsa; UCLA 7 over Oregon State; Rice 13½ over Arkansas;

Penn State 26½ over Temple; Texas 15 over Baylor; Oregon 7 over Washington State; Kentucky 10 over West Virginia; Wisconsin 13½ over Iowa; Yale 14½ over Brown; Cornell 20 over Syracuse; Princeton 6 over Harvard; and USC 26½ over Stanford.

Metro League Prepares for Playoff of Tie

Ray Henderson, secretary of the Metropolitan Football League, announced last night that if Arrow Linen and Southeast A. C. finish the season tomorrow tied for first place in the 160-pound Eastern Division they will play for the title next Wednesday night at Alexandria Municipal Stadium.

Arrow Linen can capture the title by defeating Riverside Rollers at Hearst Playground in a 2 p. m. contest while a win for Riverside would throw the championship to Southeast.

If Arrow Linen and the Rollers play to a deadlock it will result in a first place tie between Arrow and Southeast.

The league season closes tomorrow with six games. Other 2 p. m. contests are:

Unlimited—Snug Harbor vs. Potomac Post No. 40, East Ellipse; Prince Georges Merchants vs. Car Credit, Edgewood Playground; Falls Church Garage vs. Mount Rainier, Mount Rainier High School, and Arlington Merchants vs. Anacostia Eagles, Alexandria Stadium.

160 pounds—Shamrocks vs. Anacostia Lions, Fairlawn No. 1.

Happy Ending?

Army, Irish Vague About The Future

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 7 (AP). For the record at least, the Notre Dame-Army rivalry will end on an amicable chord.

Reportedly there was considerable aloofness attendant to the break-off of the historic series, but Army's arrival today was accorded all the proper social touches.

Father John Murphy, Notre Dame vice president and chairman of the athletic board of control, and Herbert Jones, Irish business manager, formed the welcoming committee as the Cadets detrained this afternoon.

As Army romped thiugh a final limbering-up on Cartier Field, Frank Leahy emerged from last-minute startegems to shake hands and exchange pleasantries with his rival coach, Earl Blaik of Army.

Although both have denied it, Leahy and Blaik are said to be quite cool toward each other, a feeling which was assumed in many quarters to be responsibile for the rupture of the series. Both schools are vague over possible renewal of competition.

Father Murphy and Blaik said an overture toward this end would have to be initiated by officials of both schools, but neither would indicate which school would have to take the lead.

Leahy has gone on record as saying he would not be adverse to a home-and-home renewal which would leave out New York City, traditional host to the big game.

Blaik today reiterated his previous comments that there was nothing surprising about the break-off, pointing to ruptures of the Army-Navy and Princeton-Harvard rivalries which subsequently were renewed.

cloudy, but dry weather. The temperature was expected to slip to freezing tonight and climb to around 40 by game time—1:30 p. m. (CST) tomorrow.

It rained hard this morning, but the stadium field was covered with a new tarpaulin which extends five yards over the sidelines and over both end zones.

Coach Frank Leahy, who called off Notre Dame's final drill, said he hoped Army would not ask that the tarpaulin be removed for its practice which the Cadets were entitled to do, but which might cut up the damp turf.

Blaik said the tarpaulin could stay put and sent his lads practicing on nearby Cartier Field. The Cadets were to spend a quiet evening at Lake Wawasee, Ind., 40 miles distant, with a movie scheduled as the main diversion.

The Irish, striving for their 15th victory without defeat over two seasons, appeared before an early evening campus pep rally.

Notre Dame which has rolled up 141 points while yielding only 13 in brushing aside Pittsburgh, Purdue, Nebraska, Iowa and Navy had two serious replacement losses on the eve of the big game.

Halfback Bill Gay, one of Leahy's star shock troopers and a budding break-away threat, was sidelined with a fractured jaw from a scrimmage Wednesday. Also on the injured list was second string Tackle Ralph McGehee, a 210-pounder.

The pattern of battle was expected to be Notre Dame's customary passing bombardment by the Johnny Lujack-Frank Tripuka slinging duo, plus some new tricks with Lujack at left halfback, against Army's sound running by Elwyn Rowan, Bobby Stuart and Winfield Scott and perhaps a passing barrage.

Army hasn't been effective through the air to date, but the Cadets undoubtedly will let Arnie Galiffa, Augie Dielens and Charley Gabriel pitch their heads off in hopes of landing a haymaker.

Tomorrow's battle, besides marking only the second time Army has ventured West to meet the Irish (Notre Dame defeated Army, 7-6 in mud and rain before 120,000 at Chicago's Soldier Field in 1930), wraps up the stirring rivalry for an indefinite period.

Wilson Beats Roosevelt for First League Win

Maddox, Pace Score In 14-0 Win

Wilson's Green Tigers climbed out of the Interhigh cellar as they handed the hapless and scoreless Roosevelt Rough Riders a 14-0 defeat yesterday at Wilson Stadium.

The game was Wilson's first Interhigh win of the season in six starts, while for Roosevelt, it was consecutive defeat No. 6 in league play. It also marked the eighth straight game in which Roosevelt failed to score.

Pat O'Neill, Bill Voigt and Mole Jannigan were Wilson's sparkplugs, pacing a pair of second half drives to touchdowns after two scoreless periods.

Taking the ball on its own 47 early in the third quarter, the Green Tigers moved swiftly to a score. O'Neill passed twice to Jannigan and Bill Maddox to reach the Roosevelt 20 and Jannigan carried twice to the 10. Then Dick Pace skirted left end for the score. O'Neill passed to Voigt for the extra point.

Then in the fourth period, a Roosevelt fumble gave Wilson possession on the Roosevelt 45. Three running plays by O'Neill. Voigt and Jannigan carried to the 20, from where Jannigan passed to Maddox in the left flat and the Tiger end raced to a touchdown. O'Neill circled left end for the fourteenth point.

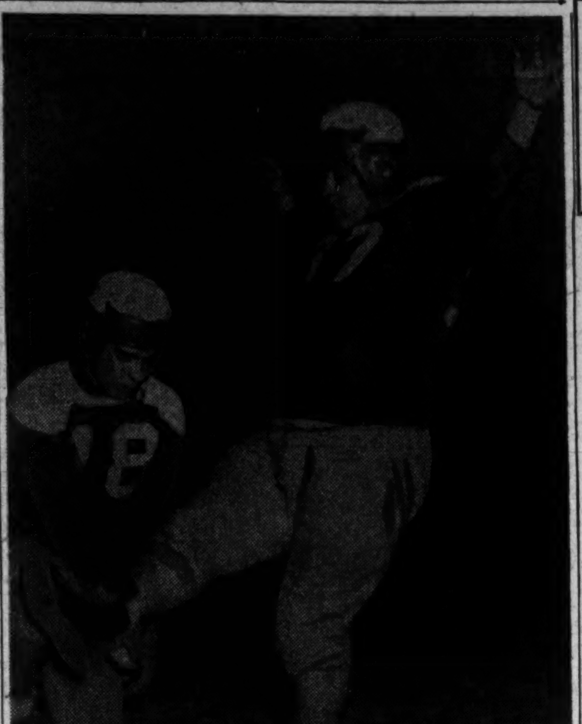
Irish Win Track Meet

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 7 (AP).—Notre Dame placed its five men all in the first 11 to win the Indiana intercollegiate cross-country championship in easy fashion today with 33 points. Indiana edged out Purdue for second place, 60 to 61.



SHADES OF WALTER HAIGHT—The rotund fellow who has just kicked the football is NOT our Walter Haight, although he just about fits the description of The Washington Post's stoutish race writer. He's Jim "Shifty" Saunders of Fort Belvoir, a 235-pound place-kicker. Haight outweighs Saunders by about 10 pounds, but that's to be expected as Saunders does more than just inhale for his exercise

Kicks Team to Victories

Belvoir's 34-Year-Old Fullback Has Booted 39 Points This Year

ONE BIG REASON for the success of the undefeated Fort Belvoir football Engineers this season is big Jim Saunders, place-kicking specialist from Lynchburg, Va.

In eight games to date the short, squat, 34-year-old soldier fullback has kicked 39 points—18 more than the total number of points scored by eight Belvoir opponents.

Fort Belvoir may need his services whe nit tackles the Bolling Field eleven at the latter's field this afternoon.

Saunder's booming brogans scored 10 points alone during Belvoir's 42-0 rout of Fort Munroe last Saturday. These included 7 points after touchdown and an angled 35-yard field goal kicked against the wind.

Jim, or "Shifty," carries 235 pounds on his 5-foot 7 -inch frame. He played a fair game at fullback for the Engineers last year, but he figures he's too old for "the beating you have to take in there."

At the start of this season, Saunders quietly began practicing place-kicking. He showed such talent that he's had no competition for the booting job since the season began. He's missed only 5 in 44 tries.

South Carolina Triumphs, 12-0

By The Associated Press

Orangeburg, S. C., Nov. 7 (AP).—The University of South Carolina Gamecocks posted a 12-0 victory in the mud over The Citadel Bulldogs in the thirty-eighth renewal of their traditional football rivalry at the Orangeburg County Fair here today before 10,000 fans.

Rain fell intermittently throughout.

The victory, eighteenth in a row for the Gamecocks over the Bulldogs, gave Carolina undisputed claim to the mythical State championship.

Heavily favored although badly crippled with injuries, the Gamecocks were held at bay by a stubborn Bulldog defense until late in the second period, when Harry Deloach broke over right tackle for 19 yards to climax a 47-yard scoring drive. Their second and last touchdown came in the final period on a 6-yard smash by Bobby Giles after a march from The Citadel 45.

Touchdowners Enroll Truman

President Harry S. Truman received a visit from Les Arries, president of the Touchdown Club, and Thomas J. Whelan, dinner chairman of the organization, yesterday at the White House.

Arries and Whelan presented the President with a gold honorary membership card and invited the Chief Executive to speak at the Touchdown Club's annual dinner in January.

SMU Bids For 7th in Row

College Station, Tex., Nov. 7 (AP). Southern Methodist University shoots for its seventh straight victory here tomorrow against Texas A. and M., an underdog team with a vicious bite.

The Aggies, a half-step away from obscurity and a backseat in the Southwest Conference race, have only one thing lacking in six other SMU opponents this season—they don't use the T formation.

Magnificent Doak Walker, the Methodists' one-man wonder, will call defensive shots against double wing and box formations.

Some 35,000 fans are expected to jam Kyle Field, giving the Aggies a home background to try and match their statistical edge into a scoreboard margin.

Southern Methodist — ranked only sixth in the conference on defense and offense—still remains the lone undefeated, untied team in the loop—a situation unlikely to change by a couple of touchdowns tomorrow.

To match Walker's high scoring — 61 points — and the passing threat of Gilbert Johnson and Dick McKissack's line plunging, Aggie Coach Homer Norton has Fullback Ed Dusek and Quarterback Stanley Hollmig.

Dusek, though failing to meet Walker's 608 yards gained on the ground, has picked up 329. Hollmig has completed 35 out of 83 passes for 388 yards, with Barney Welch, the second best pass receiver in the conference to date, snagging 13 aerials for 164 yards.

A. and M.'s record is three victories, three defeats and one tie.

Denny Myers Signs Four-Year Contract

Newton, Mass., Nov. 7 (AP).—Boston College Football Coach Denny Myers today signed a contract to coach the Eagles varsity for four years more, according to an announcement by Director John P. Curley of the B. C. Athletic Association. Terms were not disclosed.

Under Myer's coaching the Eagles have not gone scoreless in 33 games and have won 24, and lost only 9 games, including an Orange Bowl defeat at the hands of Alabama. B. C. also won an Eastern championship trophy in 1942 This year's Eagles have won four games and lost one—and that one by a single-point margin to Louisiana State.

Ferris Fain Recovers From Knee Operation

Philadelphia, Nov. 7 (AP).—Ferris Fain, Philadelphia Athletics first baseman, is recovering from a knee operation which he expects will let him play his best next year.

Fain underwent the operation for the removal of floating cartilage from his right knee at Graduate Hospital Tuesday. He said today he expected to be out within a few days and then will leave for home on the West Coast.

Tough One

Georgetown Defeated by Loyola High

Baltimore, Nov. 7 (AP).—Gaining revenge for a 19-0 defeat last year, the Loyola High School football team of Baltimore today downed Georgetown Prep, 14-13.

Walt McWilliams' two placekicks for extra points provided the margin of victory.

Loyola, moving 88 yards on a sustained drive, scored in the first period, Bernie Miller bucking over from the 2.

Georgetown came back in the second quarter when the Garret Parkers' long runs moved the ball to the 4, O'Donnell plunging ove for the touchdown.

Loyola retaliated when Bill Gaudreau went over from the 1-foot line after passing to Len Shadach.

Navy Jayvees Whip Penn, 13-9

Anapolis, Md., Nov. 7 (AP).—The Navy jayvees came from behind in the last two minutes of play to score a touchdown that beat the University of Pennsylvania jayvees, 13-9, today.

On fourth down, Navy tried for a field goal and Penn blocked the kick, the ball rolling to midfield, where Navy's kicker, Jim Willis, recovered.

Unable to run, Willis passed to Smol Dorris, who ran 50 yards for the score.

Montana Drops Idaho, 20 to 0

Moscow, Idaho, Nov. 7 (AP).—Roy Malcolm's 71-yard punt return in the first minute of play and two third period passes by Pierre Roberts gave Montana a 21-0 victory over the Idaho Vandals here today in a Coast Conference football game marred by constant fumbles in a steady rain.

Before the spectators had settled down in their seats, Malcolm took an Idaho punt on his own 29 and splashed straight down the field for a touchdown. Bill Prueninger kicked the extra point.

Bosox Sign Wright As Northwest Scout

Boston, Nov. 7 (AP).—The Boston Red Sox tonight announced the acquisition of Glenn Wright, erstwhile great Pittsburgh Pirates shortstop, as a scout, and the signing of southpaw pitcher Clem Dreisewerd.

Wright, who was a teammate of Sox General Manager Joe Cronin at Pittsburgh, will scout the Pacific Northwest.

3000 Hear Eisenhower Spark Rally for Chest Campaign

Early reports hinted yesterday that Greater Washington was digging in to oversubscribe the $3,900,000 goal of the 1949 Community Chest Federation campaign.

Under threatening skies, General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower sparked a Red Feather Day rally behind the Treasury Building by urging oversubscription of the quota. More than 3000 persons attended.

The Army Chief of Staff urged generosity in the campaign as one way "to see that the problems of today are solved."

"Do it voluntarily. Do it without compulsion of regimentation," he stated.

Scores of high Government, military and social leaders gathered on the Treasury's south steps to join the plea for oversubscription.

"Let's put our shoulders to the wheel," said District Commissioner Guy Mason.

Treasury Secretary John W. Snyder reported that his department already had raised more than 80 per cent of its quota.

Edward H. Foley, jr., campaign chairman and Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, was master of ceremonies. He called for oversubscription of the goal as a means of "removing misery, suffering and despair."

Other speakers were John A. Reilly, Washington Board of Trade president, and Daniel W. Bell, president of the federation.

Earlier, the special gifts unit—one of the drive's major groups—announced it had hit the 70 per cent mark.

The unit's heartening report came at a luncheon meeting at the Burlington Hotel. A total of $728,415 has been raised toward the group's goal of $1,052,400. This unit, known last year as the advance gifts unit, opened its solicitations early and handled contributions from large donors. Its collections will be divided among nine other major units in whose territory it operates.

Chairman E. Cortland Parker announced that the unit's Government section has gone over 100 per cent.

The first general report meeting of the drive will be held Wednesday at the United States Chamber of Commerce Building, 1615 H st. nw.

Yesterday's public rally highlighted the first day of full activity in the campaign to support 125 Red Feather agencies in the District, Alexandria, and in Arlington, Fairfax, Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties. It opened Thursday and will run through November 25.

In Fairfax County, volunteer Chest workers prepared to launch solicitations with a meeting and musical show at 3:30 p. m. tomorrow at Fort Belvoir Theater No. 2.

"The Band Red Feather," a half-hour music program, will be broadcast over station WEAM. Keith Merrill, who heads the county campaign, will address the meeting.

The county's share of the metropolitan area's $3,900,000 quota is $43,000. Thirteen Chest agencies operate in Fairfax.

Best D. C. Birds To Be Awarded Prizes Tomorrow

First annual show of the Cage Bird Society of Washington will end tomorrow with the awarding of 78 trophies to the "best birds" of as many classes.

The show, which opened yesterday at the Cantinental Hotel, North Capitol st., between D and E. sts., has received 440 entries, with more expected to arrive today and tomorrow.

According to Robert F. Rowe, the society's founder and president, the show is "one of the largest ever staged." The exhibit room at the hotel is filled with wild and tame cage birds of every description—canaries, parrots, parakeets, doves, finches and many other varieties.

Judging will be held tomorrow. Entries are not limited to the society's 87 members.

Hollander Appointed Branch Chief of BLS

Edward D. Hollander, former member of the Labor Advisory Commission to the Military Government in Japan, yesterday was appointed chief of the prices and cost of living branch of the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Hollander, who also has served as a labor economist for the President's Council of Economic Advisers, succeeds Lester S. Kellogg, who has resigned effective January 1 to accept a position in private industry.

Payment in Own Money Urged for Aided Nations

Baltimore, Nov. 7 (AP).—Senator Millard E. Tydings (D., Md.) suggested today that Europe itself could help foot the bill for European aid by repaying the United States in foreign currencies.

"We might explore the feasibility of accepting—at least in part—payment to us for our aid in the currency of the aided nation," Tydings said.

"I only suggest and do not advocate this policy," he said. "I do believe it worthy of exploration."

U. S. Asking Priority in Supported Leaf Sales

Government Wants Tobacco It Buys Marketed First; Some Dealers Balk

The Agriculture Department said yesterday there is a possibility that its flue-cured tobacco-buying program, as announced October 28, may not be carried out.

Officials made this disclosure yesterday after insisting earlier the program would stand.

Keith Himebaugh, chief of the department's office of information, told newsmen Thursday night after conferring with top officials, that the program would stand as it had been announced, and that there were no conditions yet to be filled.

Now Up to Dealers

Himebaugh said yesterday he had been informed that the program now hinges on action of tobacco dealers in accepting a departmental proposal that they take the tobacco off the Government's hands as soon as the dealers found a market for increased quantities of tobacco.

In other words, the department is insisting now that the tobacco which it would buy be given priority over other flue-cured tobacco in future sales by dealers. Officials said some dealers have not yet agreed to this proposal, but expressed belief all would eventually.

Purchase Program

On October 28, the department announced "an immediate purchase program for 1947-crop flue-cured tobacco . . . to protect growers against the unstable market conditions that have resulted from the recent British government announcement that Britain would purchase no more United States tobacco in 1947."

Although the formal announcement on October 28 made no mention of the fact, the purchase program at that time actually was dependent on British agreement to take the government tobacco as soon as that country reentered world tobacco markets. This fact was not generally known until yesterday.

In other words, the program was only a prospective program at the time the department announced it to be firm and actual.

Woman, Man Auto Victims

through her bathroom window, Miss Nettie Mae Darden, 21, of 1828 Irvin st. nw., suffered bruises of shoulders and neck. The car, owned by Louis M. Wolk, 63, of 1937 Hobart st. nw., had been parked in front of his home. It apparently slipped the brake, coasted backward down the Hobart st. hill, left the pavement and rammed the Darden home.

In a two-car-lamppost tangle at 4th and N sts. nw. Richard F. Stuart, 39, of Greenbelt, Md., suffered a possible dislocated vertebra when his car was struck by another and thrown into the lamppost.

The car which struck Stuart's was owned by Dr. Walter S. Savoy, of 1041 Irving st. ne., but the driver was unidentified. He fled after the car struck Coleman Johnson, 33, of 2129 15th st. nw. Dr. Savoy had loaned his car to a friend who had loaned it to someone else, police said.

Johnson was treated for cuts and bruises at Casualty Hospital.

Phillips Andover Alumni Here Join In Fund Drive

The opening of a three and a half million dollar Nation-wide fund-raising campaign among alumni of Phillips Andover Academy, Andover, Mass., was announced last night by Francis J. O'Hara at a dinner in the Willard Hotel.

Guests heard John P. Stevens, jr., national campaign chairman, announce by telephone from New York that almost two million dollars had been raised in advance gifts.

The money is to provide scholarships for one of every four boys enrolled at the academy, increased faculty salaries and pensions, and construction of a million-dollar gymnasium as a memorial to 141 Andover men killed in the war.

Simplified Clothing For Children Urged

Champaign, Ill. (U.P.).—The trimming on a child's clothes may affect the development of his character, says Edna Gray, clothing specialist of the University of Illinois agriculture college.

Fluffy ruffles, huge bows and sashes or floppy collars make it almost impossible for a youngster to learn to dress himself, Miss Gray said. Dressing himself is one of the first ways in which the child learns to be independent, she added.

She recommends simple trimmings, such as flat facing or parallel lines of stitching around necklines.

Trucker Held For Grand Jury In Va. Slaying

$10,000 Bond Set In Shooting After Dispute Over Coat

Willie Jerden, 37-year-old Fairfax County trucker, was held in $10,000 bond yesterday for a Fairfax Grand Jury in connection with the October 3 murder of Edmond C. Proctor.

Trial Justice Harry Carrico ordered Jerden held after hearing Detective Sergt. Cecil E. Brown relate what he called a confession given him by Jerden October 18.

According to Brown, Jerden admitted shooting the 27-year-old Gum Springs laborer after an argument over a coat, which Jerden had accused Proctor of stealing. Jerden claimed he shot in self defense, Brown said.

A searching party of nearby residents found Proctor's body October 18 in a shallow grave near Fort Hunt rd., Gum Springs. Jerden refused to take Proctor to a hospital and later concealed knowledge of the death for fear of police action against him, Brown said.

At the same court session, George H. Palmer, Bradenton, Fla., was fined $100 for reckless driving and acquitted of an involuntary manslaughter charge in the traffic death Tuesday of Loren C. Campbell.

Campbell, 18-year-old Fairfax youth, was killed on Route 1 near Penn Daw, when his motorcycle creashed into Palmer's car. Palmer told police his car had stopped when the motorcycle hit him from the rear.

Klingle Span Ceremony Set For Today

Ribbon-cutting exercises at 3:45 p. m. today will mark the official opening of the main span of the Klingle Road Bridge across Rock Creek Park.

The two separate steel bridges, with stone-faced concrete piers, abutments and approach wells, with an underpass feeding into Porter st. nw., were recently completed at a cost of slightly more than $500,000—$350,000 of which came from the District Highway Department's 1947 fiscal budget.

In troduction of visiting officials will begin at 3:45 p. m., followed by a brief address by Brig. Gen. Gordon R. Young, Engineer Commis-

Autos in Parade

Two automobile caravans, one composed of about 40 cars from four citizens associations on the west side, and the other of some 30 cars from three associations on the east side of the bridge, are scheduled to reach their respective ends of the bridge at 4 p. m.

Two girls representing the associations will then cut the satin ribbon crossing the four-lane bridge, with the simultaneous firing of a cannon.

The Metropolitan Police Department Band will follow with "some lively tunes," and then the two caravans will cross—the first traffic over the bridge except for construction trucks.

Highway Director H. C. Whitehurst said yesterday the second bridge will be open to traffic in several days and that the underpass would be available in about a month.

Citizens Groups Invited

Citizens' association representing the east side, are the Mount Pleasant Citizens' Association, the Mount Pleasant Businessmen's Association, and the Columbia Heights Businessmen's Association, all under the direction of George H. Markward, member of the Mount Pleasant Citizens' Association.

Representing the west side are the Connecticut Avenue Citizens' Association, the Cathedral Heights and Cleveland Park Citizens' Association, the Cleveland Park Businessmen's Association, and the Uptown Lions Club, all under the direction of Harry C. Grove, president of the Connecticut Avenue Citizens' Association.

Shovel Accident

Boom Hits Wires, Man Electrocuted

A workman who touched the base of a mechanical shovel at a Chevy Chase, Md., excavation project yesterday was electrocuted as the top end of the shovel's boom came into contact with over-head high tension wires.

The man, Malone Sibley Eddleman, 35, of 9505 Baltimore blvd., Berwyn, failed to respond to resuscitation efforts of the Bethesda-Chevy Chase rescue squad. A certificate of accidental death was issued by Dr. Frank J. Broschart, Montgomery County coroner.

Police said the victim was unmarried and lived with a brother, Wallace Ray Eddleman, in a trailer. He was employed by the Marcus J. Bles Construction Co. of McLean, Va.

The firm is constructing a storm sewer at Cedar pkwy. and Oliver st., scene of the accident, for the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission.

Rent Increase Sought for 6 Apartments

William F. Mansfield, secretary-docket clerk of the Rent Control Board, yesterday announced that owners and agents have filed for rent boosts on six apartments.

John M. Safer, agent, filed for three of the proposed increases. He is asking for a 15 per cent boost on 30 units at the Melrose, 1843 Clifton st. nw., 15 per cent on 12 units at 1735 Willard st. nw., and 18 per cent on 72 units in a building at 2500 K st. nw., and 950 25th st. nw.

William H. Simons is asking for a 20 perecent boost on 42 units at 1126 11th st. nw.

James and Dora Witt have filed for a 20 per cent increase on 81 units at the Randolph Terrace apartments, 3900 14th st. nw.

Bellvue Gardens, Inc., is asking for a flat $5 hike on apprxoimately 400 units in the vicinity of the 4700 block of Nochols ave. sw.

Meanwhile District Rent Control Examiner James G. Tyson yesterday heard residents of 1009 11th st. nw., protest a proposed rent boost. The owner, Karl F. Brodt, has asked for increases on 47 units.

Present range on the units is from $37.50 to $47.50. The proposed range would be $45 to $52.50. Tyson took the case under advisement.

Judge Reaffirms Decision Freeing Kathleen Durant

Charleston, W. Va., Nov. 7 (AP).—Federal Judge Ben Moore today overruled the Government's motion to reopen proceedings in which former Wac Capt. Kathleen Nash Durant was released from a reformatory sentence for complicity in the theft of the Hesse crown jewels from a castle in Germany.

Judge Moore released her from the Federal Reformatory for Women at Alderson, W. Va., on a writ of habeas corpus September 16 after she had served less than a year of a five-year sentence imposed by an Army court-martial in Europe.

Judge Moore ruled she had returned to civilian status when arrested in Chicago on June 3, 1946, and was not subject to court-martial.

Mrs. Durant is under $5000 bond. Her husband, former Col. Jack Durant, is serving a sentence in the theft.

Church Gets $30,000

Leesburg, Va., Nov. 7. — The congregation of Leesburg Presbyterian Church has voted unanimously to accept a legacy of between $30,000 and $40,000 left it by Mrs. Otie Hagin Drake. The present church building will not be affected by the legacy.

Police Seeking 'Ex-Chaplain' In Shooting

Fired in Retaliation For His Testimony, Complainant Says

An "Army chaplain"—who uses rather than passes the ammunition—was the object of a city-wide police search last night.

The suspect fired two wild shots from a .32 caliber revolver at Jesse James Crawford, 48, at the latter's home, 59 H st. ne.

Crawford, held by police for questioning, reportedly had returned fire with three blasts of a .12 gauge shotgun.

Discharged as Private

The suspect had represented himself to neighbors as a former Army chaplain, police said, although an examination of his discharge papers while in previous custody showed that he had been discharged as a private.

Police Pvts. R. J. McGuffin and W. A. Dize raced to the H st. address in scout car 12 when Crawford phoned police at about 9:30 a. m. that a man with a gun was "out to get me." They scoured the area but found no suspects.

About an hour later four police cars sped to the scene in the wake of neighbors' reports of a shooting rampage.

Door Bullet-Splattered

Crawford told police the assailant forced a rear door and fired two shots through a barricaded bedroom door. Crawford rolled off and under his bed where he stows his shotgun, and loosed three blasts, police were told.

The bullet-splattered door and walls mutely attested to Crawford's story, police said. The "chaplain" had threatened retaliation aginst Crwford whom he believed responsible for his arrest on a larceny charge in connection with the disappearance of some luggage at Union Station about week go. The charge was dropped.

Potato Growers Of Va. Offer To Cut Acreage

Norfolk, Va., Nov. 7 (AP).—Virginia potato growers, in a mass meeting today, voted their willingness to accept a 5 per cent reduction in their 1948 spring potato acreage quota, with the proviso that six competing States take a similar cut.

The gathering, held at the Virginia Truck Experiment Station at Diamond Springs, drew about 50 potato growers and handlers from the Norfolk-Princess Anne and Eastern Shore arear. Two hours of discussion, frequently heated, preceded passage of the resolution, which was offered in a motion by A. Preston Scott of Cape Charles, Va., vice president of the Virginia Association of Potato Growers.

Competing States—those whose potatoes enter the same markets at about the same time—include the two Carolinas, Maryland, New Jersey, New York and California.

Synagogue Desecration Causes Boy's Committal

Baltimore, Nov. 7 (AP).—A 13-year-old boy was committed to the Cheltenham Reformatory for the next four years for his part in the desecration of a Baltimore synagogue.

Another boy, 16, is being held under $2000 bond for grand jury action in the vandalism case.

The boys testified they entered the synagogue the night of October 27 as a "Halloween prank."

Md. Oyster Law Revised, Sent to Lane

Act Fixes Dates And Areas for Dredge Operators; Provides Penalties

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 7 (AP).—The House passed and sent to Governor Lane today an act plugging loopholes in State oyster-dredging regulations and license requirements.

Legislators from tidewater counties said the measure would strenghten provisions of the law which inadventently failed to penalize dredgers who operated in certain waters without a license.

Prepared by the attorney general's office at the request of the Department of Tidewater Fisheries, the act sets the dates of tonging and dredging seasons, describes areas in which dredging is allowed and clarifies prohibitions against dredging.

With local exceptions, the tonging season would continue as now from September 1 to April 15 and the dredging season from November 1 to March 15.

The measure requires a license for dredging in any waters, including those in Dorchester, Somerset and Talbot Counties. These are the only counties in which dredging is permitted in "public" areas.

Licenses would not allow dredgers to work in other than the specified county waters.

Under the regulations, illegal dredging could be penalized by a fine between $500 and $1000 and imprisonment up to one year.

Tonging seasons which differ from the general rule are:

Patuxent River, September 15 to March 31; Dorchester County except Choptank River, upper Potomac River above a line joining North and Cedar Points, Upper Nanticoke River above a line joining Sandy Island and Roaring Point, October 1 to April 15; Choptank River, September 1 to April 15; lower Potomac River below a line joining North River and Cedar Point, Somerset County, September 15 to April 15; tributaries of the Potomac, October 1 to April 1; Rhode and West Rivers, October 15 to April 15; Herring Bay, December to April 15; Wicomico County except upper Nanticoke River, September 15 to April 15, and Worcester County, January 1 to December 31.

U. S., State Police Seize 680-Gallon Still in Virginia

Lawrenceville, Va., Nov. 7 (AP).—One of the largest illicit whisky stills ever captured in Virginia was destroyed in a raid early today by State and Federal officers near Alberta. Two men were arrested at the scene.

The plant was described as a 680-gallon still, equipped with 300 feet of copper coil, 27 wooden fermenters each of 400 gallons capacity, and a 12 horsepower steam boiler. Taken with the still were 276 gallons of whisky in half-gallon fruit jars packed for shipment in paper cartons and 10,000 gallons of mash.

Both Federal and State officers said the still was about the most completely equipped ever taken in the State and estimated its production capacity at between 350 and 500 gallons of whisky a day.

29 Persons Fined On Benefit Frauds

Centreville, Md., Nov. 7 (AP).—Twenty-nine persons were sentenced to a month in jail and fined $50 today after they were convicted of defrauding the Unemployment Compensation Board.

Three others were acquitted when Kent County State's Attorney Edward Turner accepted their pleas of not guilty.

Circuit Court Judge William R. Horsey suspended the jail sentences on condition the defendants pay fine, court costs, and sums due the Unemployment Compensation Board by way of restitution. These total $642.

Turner opened a drive last June to purge jobless benefit lists of illegal claimants. The number of applicants declined from 200 at that time to none at present.

Early Potato Acreage Dropping in Virginia

Blacksburg, Va., Nov. 7 (AP).—A warning that Virginia may be pushed out of the early potato industry was voiced here by an Agricultural Extension Service official, who said State potato acreage has decreased at a rate of 2000 acres annually over the past 20 years.

Dr. Flood S. Andrews, associate horticulturist, pointed out that State potato acreage this year will hit an all time low, with only 63,000 acres devoted to the crop and 33,000 acres of this limited by production and marketing administration quotas.

Fire Chief Praised by Retired Men

Confidence Vote Sent D. C. Heads, Studying Charges Against Murphy

The Retired Firemen's Association of Washington yesterday gave Fire Chief Clement Murphy a unanimous vote of confidence.

The resolution of "confidence" commended Murphy "for the improvements in the Fire Department which to our minds he has brought about."

A corporation counsel's report on a five-month investigation of charges by Capt. Joseph Conroy that Murphy has "demoralized" the department is currently being studied by the Commissioners.

A copy of the association's resolution was delivered to Commissioner John Russell Young yesterday by J. M. Jamieson, president, and L. V. Cox, secretary of the association.

Jamieson said there was "no opposition whatever" to the resolution, adopted at a meeting Thursday. Forty-five of the organization's 356 members were present.

The resolution said Murphy was being attacked "on various indefinite and beclouded grounds."

"We know from experience that oftentimes charges against a superior officer are motivated by disgruntled and/or ambitious subordinates who feel they could personally profit by the removal and/or retirement of a superior officer, whose official position they covet," the resolution declared.

"As unbiased retirees of the District . . . Fire Department, (we) have always found Chief Engineer Clement Murphy to be kind and considerate of our problems, helpful in any matter on our behalf, and efficient in the administration of his office," the association said.

Inside Track Seen for Mason

Mason have been friends of mine for years, and I don't want any other man's job."

There are groups on the other side.

Woolsey W. Hall, president of the Federation of Civic Associations, is backed by strong Negro groups to be Mason's successor.

Hall said, "Oh, yes" he would like to have it, even though he favors having home rule and an elected city council for Washington. Of Mason, Hall said, "I don't think much of his administration as far as better principles are concerned."

Racial Basis for Criticism

He said his criticism was based on failure to let the Negro community be represented on the board of library trustees, and the ban on letting Negro doctors practice at Gallinger. Both libraries and municipal hospitals come within Mason's administrative domain.

The local CIO organization and other groups have urged the appointment of Charles H. Houston, prominent Negro lawyer, to the commissioner's job. Houston has been active in several organizations, including the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Women's groups are reported interested in seeing a woman appointed District Commissioner. Mrs. Leslie B. Wright, of the District Federation of Womens Clubs, said "I'd like to see Mr. Mason get it, and if he doesn't I'd like to see a woman get it." Mrs. Wright made clear she is not seeking the office. Her candidate is Mrs. Gertrude Parks, former president of the local Federation of Women's Clubs.

Mrs. Parks said she favored having a woman commissioner, and would not mind being a candidate if Mason were not one. She said she would not want the job as long as Mr. Mason wants it.

Reporter and Lawyer

Mason took over the District Commissioner's job after successful careers as a Washington newspaper reporter and as a lawyer.

His stormiest days as a Commissioner came when a Senate committee, after investigating charges of filth and brutality at Gallinger Hospital, called for the ouster of Mason and other city officials. The Gallinger episode gave Mason a close call when his name went to the Senate for his second term. He was confirmed by a party line vote of 39-20 in the Senate.

Bearing on his prospects for reappointment is Mason's role as top liaison man between the Democratic Party and the District government. He has been a Democrat since the days of President Wilson.

Born in Pierston, Ind., Mason came to the District in 1904, after serving several years with the Army in the Philippines. He came for a career that never developed—he tried out for second base and shortstop with the Nats, but found the pace too fast.

His first reporter's job was with The Washington Post. In World War I days he covered the White House and top Government agencies for papers in New York, London and St. Louis. Then he turned to a law career, and continued in active practice until the late President Roosevelt named him a Commissioner.

Commissioner and Mrs. Mason live at the Westchester.

Private Charged With Skipping Beat, Failure to Report

Police Pvt. Robert C. Redding, 45, was fined $115 by the Police Trial Board yesterday after admitting he failed to communicate with his Fifth Precinct Station by signal system on two occasions and failed to patrol his beat once.

The Board found Pvt. Charles L. Sullivan, 33, of the 4th Precinct not guilty of discourtesy, following a hearing in which he was accussed of using profane language to a motorist.

The case of Pvt. Donald G. Drager, who is free on $1000 bond and awaiting grand jury action on a housebreaking charge, was put over to November 24 at the request of his attorney, David G. Macdonald. The 13th Precinct private is charged before the Trial Board with conduct unbecoming an officer and conduct prejudicial to the reputation, good order and discipline of the police force.

Offers No Excuse

Redding, described by his superior, Lieut. Bagby King, as a "first-class policeman" with 24 years of service, said as he pleaded guilty that he had no excuses to make. He asked the board to consider his wife and three small children.

Lieutenant King said he had found Private Redding sitting on a stone wall, asleep, on October 23, after he had failed to turn in his box while on the beat. A similar failure occurred on October 25, the captain said. The board's penalties were $25 and $40 for failure to communicate, and $50 for failure to patrol his beat.

Sullivan

Drager

Roy S. Cloud, pipefitter, 609 G st. sw., testified that a policeman had ordered him to "get the —— out of here" when he (Cloud) was waiting to turn from Maine ave. sw. into 12th st. at about 5:25 p. m., on October 9. He went to the Thirteenth Precinct Station and learned that Sullivan was directing traffic at the intersection at that time, he said.

While Cloud's son, Roy S. jr., 17, and two other passengers in the Cloud car on October 9 said they had heard the strong phrase used, they were unable to identify Private Sullivan as the officer who used it, when they saw him at the hearing.

Denies Seeing Witnesses

Sullivan himself testified he had never seen the four witnesses before, to the best of his knowledge, and that he had not used any profane language at any time. He remembered a car making a left turn at about the time specified, he said, and recalled that he had told the driver to "get that jalopy out of this intersection" after the ldriver disobeyed his signal and drifted out into the traffic lane.

Inspector Floyd E. Kelly, who investigated the complaint, was a defense witness. He testified that Cloud became belligerent in refusing to amplify his first statement. Kelly also said Cloud had not mentioned part of the alleged profanity to him and he did not hear of it until he saw the affidavit for the complaint. Complaining witnesses refused to make separate statements, he said.

Two witnesses testified to the good reputation of Private Sullivan, who was represented by Myron G. Ehrlich.

Trial Board members were Ins. Clement C. Cox, Chairman, Capt. Walter S. Storm and Assistant Corporation Counsel Irving Bryan.

Young Backs Pension Plan By Barrett

New Monthly Rate Would Give Widows Substantial Increase

A proposal to more than double pensions for widows and orphans of District police and firemen killed in line of duty was approved yesterday by Commissioner John Russell Young.

The plan, recomended by Police Superintendent Robert J. Barrett, would also bring a 60 per cent increase to widows of men who die natural deaths.

New monthly rate for widows of men killed on duty would be $125, plus $25 each for children under 16 years old. Widows of officers whose death was due to natural causes would receive $100 per month.

Barrett asked that the Commissioners forward to Congress a bill providing for the increases. Young said he would report the matter favorably to the other two Commissioners Monday.

Widows now receive $60 per month and $10 each for children under 16 years old. This rate has been in effect since 1923. During the same period salaries of top grade privates increased 104 per cent, from $1660 to $3398 per year.

The rise in the cost of living, Barrett pointed out, makes it "necessary for widows to seek employment to supplement their pensions in order to live—in many instances being handicapped by ill health or age." Widows of the late Police Chiefs Kelly and Callahan are included in this group.

Barrett cited the cases of six officers who lost their lives in line of duty since May, 1943, and said "their families have been unprepared for a sudden readjustment to such a drastic reduction in income."

Missing Ceiling Board Causes Justice to Jest

Richmond, Va., Nov. 7 (AP).—A remark like this would probably land you in the cooler for contempt of court, but judges will jest.

Visiting Judge Fletcher's Law and Equity Court, where he presided recently, Justices Miller of the Supreme Court of Appeals noted two squares of sound-proof ceiling board had disappeared.

So Justice Miller asked his successor if the latter had hit the ceiling twice already.

Va. U. Dean Heads Faculty Fund Group

Charlottesville, Va., Nov. 7 (AP). F. D. G. Ribble, dean of the University of Virginia's department of law, was elected chairman of the faculty advisory committee at the initial meeting of this latest University of Virginia development fund group to be organized.

Dean Ribble also will serve as a member of the $7,800,000 development fund's governing board, the executive committee.

Two More Sentenced In Sugar Black Market

Huntington, W. Va., Nov. 7 (AP).—Two more defendants were sentenced today by Federal Judge Harry E. Watkins for their participation in a million-dollar black market in sugar which involved 16 men in five States.

Lloyd D. Hutchinson of Landrum, S. C., was fined $1000 and placed on two years' probation and Jack P. Conley of Culloden, W. Va., was assessed a similar amount and put on three years' probation.

Va. Hunters Told To Shoot Only Bearded Turkeys

Richmond, Va., Nov. 7 (AP).—The State Game Commission had a new admonition today for Virginia hunters.

"Don't shoot till you see the black of his beard."

The warning will apply in Cumberland State Forest, December 3, 4 and 5, established today as a special hunting season for turkeys this year. The Cumberland forest was closed to all hunting last year.

Because the State forest is used as the breeding ground for the game commission's turkey-stocking program, the commission ruled that no hen turkeys may be killed—only gobblers.

Conceding that it may be a little difficult to tell the hen from the gobbler in the shadows of a wood, Quinn said the commission will tell all hunters entering the area to look for the turkey's beard.

Potatoes Called Clew In Va. Tomato Blight

Blacksburg, Va., Nov. 7 (AP).—A final report was issued here today on late blight of tomatoes in western Virginia, which caused an estimated 15 to 20 per cent reduction in overall yield this season.

A report by Samuel A. Wingard and S. B. Fenne, plant pathologists, respectively, for Virginia Agricultural Experiment Station and the Extension Service, said in all cases where late blight was found the crop was being grown adjacent to potatoes.

Area News in Brief

D. C. Asked to Remove Isolated Stop Signs

The advisory board of the Keystone Automobile Club yesterday urged the Commissioners to take immediate action to remove "undesirable or unnecessary" stop signs at isolated intersections in the District.

Board Secretary Ernest R. Brett, in a letter to Commissioner John Russell Young, said although a public hearing on the matter was held June 16 and Traffic Director George E. Keneipp had recommended sign removal, no action had been taken.

The letter was referred to Engineer Commissioner Gordon R. Young, under whom the Department of Vehicles and Traffic is administered. General Young denied that Keneipp had recommended removal. "He has pointed out certain complications in the situation which both he and I feel call for further study before a decision is made," he explained.

Keneipp said: "There is no recommendation from me either to remove or not remove the signs." He said his department was making further studies of stop signs at isolated intersections.

SEC to Move January 5

The Securities and Exchange Commission announced yesterday in Philadelphia it has definite assurance from the Public Buildings Administration that it will begin its move back to Washington January 5. The move, the SEC said, is expected to take about three weeks.

School Press to Meet

The second annual Maryland Scholastic Press Association tournament will be held at the University of Maryland today. Teams from 34 schools in Washington and Maryland will compete for the Cumberland Times-News trophy for excellence in various types of news writing.

Group Elects Lillywhite

B. Alden Lillywhite of 519 N. Oakland st., Arlington, has been elected chairman of the Citizens Committee for School Improvement. The committee was one of the groups backing the slate of five successful Arlington School Board candidates in last Tuesday's election.

Lillywhite, a program consultant in the bureau of community facilities of the Federal Works Agency, succeeds Oscar R. Lebeau, who declined renomination. Also elected at the group's business meeting Thursday night were: Mrs. John W. Woodworth, vice chairman; Mrs. Marvin Hanchette, secretary; Mrs. Ronald Ross, assistant secretary; Joseph C. Wheeler, treasurer, and Mrs. Paul R. Hutchings, historian.

Leg Needs Metalsmith

It's going to take a metalsmith to dress the bullet wound in Joe Gartrell's foot.

Gartrell, 44, of 1218 R st. nw., was sitting in a friend's kitchen about 5 a. m. yesterday when a taxi driver to whom he had just loaned a dollar walked in, threatened him and then shot.

The bullet shattered some of the joints in Gartrell's aluminum leg. The police incidentally noted tersely that "no medical attention was required."

Two Bus Routes to Stop

Two weekday experimental bus routes, Q-1 and Q-3, between Riverdale, Md., and downtown Washington, will be discontinued after November 21, the Capital Transit Co. notified the Public Service Commission of Maryland yesterday.

The lines had been started six weeks ago as extra-fare express routes during the rush hours, in the hope they would attract automobile commuters.

However, the company stated, the daily patronage of the 14 morning and 14 evening trips averaged 159 passengers, or less than 6 persons per trip, during the six weeks.

205 Permits Issued

Permits for 205 buildings worth an estimated $1,336,033 were issued by Arlington County during October, Building Inspector Andrew Jensen reported yesterday. An all-time high of $4,503,414 for 264 permits was recorded for September.

Five Routed by Fire

Five persons, including a mother and her three small children, were routed from their beds yesterday morning by a fire which swept a rooming house at 63 New York ave. ne.

Mrs. Marjorie Stewart said she smelled smoke in her basement apartment, awakened her infant child and two older ones and took them from the house. Only two of the nine rooms were occupied, firemen said, because of redecorating going on in the house.

Held in Housebreaking

Charles Earl Ward, 22, 255 16th st. se. was yesterday held by Municipal Court Judge Armond Scott on two charges of housebreaking for action of the grand jury.

Ward was arrested Thursday night by police as he was trying to sell an overcoat on 7th st. nw. Police charged that the coat and the clothes that Ward was wearing were stolen when a window was smashed at a cleaning store at 435 R st. nw. on November 2 and 5.

Envoy Sues Over House

Maj. Astor Costa, member of the Brazilian Embassy aeronautical commission, yesterday filed a $3000 suit over a house he says he rented but was never able to move into.

His attorney, Elmer E. Cummins filed the action naming Suzanne Lauret of 2930 McKinley st. nw., as defendant.

Costa charges he gave her $500 in advance payment for rental of the house covering October and November and that she would neither vacate the house nor return his money.

He asks $306 more for fraud and misrepresentation and charges she violated the District Emergency Rent Control Act by charging him over-ceiling rent.

Accused in Lottery

Charles Williams, 37, of 1513 9th st. nw., was arrested by the vice squad yesterday on charges of operating a lottery and possession of lottery slips.

Released under $1500 bond, he is slated for arraignment before United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage today. He was arrested in a raid on a house in the 600 block of Newton pl. nw., Lieut. Roy Blick said.

False Report Costs $25

William Wright, 26, of 410 K st. nw., forfeited $25 at police headquarters yesterday on a charge of making a false robbery report.

Wright had complained to police he was assaulted and robbed of more than $500 while climbing the stairs of his residence late Thursday.

He later confessed the report was false, designed to explain to his bride of a week why he couldn't afford promised luxuries, police said.

Public Nurse Assigned

Assignment of Mrs. Westlynn E. Cankersley as public health nurse for the Takoma Park, Md., area was announced yesterday by the Montgomery County Health Department. The area has been without such a nurse since the resignation some time ago of Miss Beatrice Donovan.

Six Paroles Granted

Six paroles were granted yesterday by the District of Columbia Board of Parole.

Twenty-two persons had their cases heard by the board, including one parole violator and four good-time release violators.

In addition to the six granted, 10 paroles were denied, one case continued and three good-time releases revoked.

Forgery Artist at Large

Police yesterday warned of a forgery artist armed with some 500 blank checks, a typewriter and a check-perforating machine—all stolen.

Three businessmen have already been duped to the extent of more than $100, Detective Sergts. L. M. Snyder and J. Apostolides reported.

The suspect, who has used the name of Francis H. Blodgett, stole the tools of his trade by breaking a window at the Norfolk and Washington (D. C.) Steamboat Co., 685 Maine ave. sw., Saturday night, police said.

The man was described as about 30, thin faced, about 5 feet 10 inches tall, weighing 150 pounds, and usually wearing an Army battle jacket.

Lots Set for Tree Sale

The Commissioners yesterday announced preparations to "spruce up" the city for the coming holidays by prmitting sale of Christmas trees on five unimproved District-owned lots for two weeks beginning December 13.

Bids for renting these plots will be opened at 2 p. m. Monday in the District Building. The property may be used only for "the sale of Christmas trees, wreaths, floral and similar holiday trimmings and decorations," they declared.

Locations of the potential "Santa centers"—Good Hope rd. and 17th st. se.; Benning rd. and Minnesota ave. ne.; 18th st. and Rhode Island ave. ne.; Macomb st. and Connecticut ave. nw.; Missouri ave. and 9th st. nw.

Sentence Stands

Municipal Court Judge Armond Scott yesterday sentenced Gilbert J. Foster, 36, 2424 17th st. nw., to 240 days in jail on two charges of burglary.

Defense Attorney Wesley Williams pleaded leniency for his client. Judge Scott said, "You can see by this man's record that he is an old hand at the game. For all you know he might be working on your house one of these days. Sentence stands."

$100 Saxophone Stolen

Clinton L. Brown, 33, 331 13th st. se., yesterday reported the theft of a $100 saxophone from his unlocked car parked on a lot at 911 H st. nw., Thursday.

Plan to Close School Fought By Parents

Thirty-two parents of children attending the Corcoran Elementary School drew up a petition yesterday protesting the proposed closing of the school.

They met in one of the unused classrooms of the building at 28th and M sts. nw., and agreed to take the petition out into the neighborhood to secure the signatures of all parents. They also voted to go in a body to a special meeting of the Board of Education at 1 p. m. Wednesday.

The closing of Corcoran is one of 10 changes proposed by Superintendent of Schools Hobart M. Corning which will be discussed by the board at a special meeting. Organizations have been invited to attend and present their views.

Corcoran would be closed for school purposes at the end of the present semester and used for storage. The 136 pupils would be transferred to Hyde, Jackson, Adams and Fillmore Schools.

Objections Listed

Objections listed by the parents are:

After 10 years of agitation by the P-TA the school was painted and repaired last spring. New window frames were installed and worn stone steps turned.

The school has "big, roomy, airy, sunny rooms" and overlooks Potomac pkwy.

The playground, one of the largest in the downtown area, includes a baseball diamond, game courts and a school garden.

If transferred, the children will travel long distances and in many cases cross Wisconsin ave.

Economy Claimed

Corning explained at the board meeting Wednesday that he proposed closing the Corcoran School as an economy measure.

Four schools in the area are operated under capacity. In addition to Corcoran they are Grant, Hyde and Jackson. Corcoran was chosen to be closed because it is in the center of the group.

"It is possible to provide schoolhouse accommodations for Corcoran School pupils without overcrowding any of the neighboring schools and without compelling children to travel unreasonable distances," Corning said.

Greenbelt Church To Observe Its First Anniversary

The Mowatt Memorial Methodist Church in Greenbelt, Md., tomorrow will mark its first birthday.

At 11 a. m. Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Mowatt will present the congregation with a picture of their son, Lieut. Frank G. Mowatt, and a memorial plaque. The Rev. Raymond Ward Cooke, pastor, will speak on "Our Task."

The Greenbelt Post, No. 133, American Legion, and their families will be honored guests tomorrow at 8 p. m. Mr. Cooke, past department legion chaplain, will preach on "For God and Country."

Home Resident Injured

James R. Brunson, 40, who lives at the Sailors and Soldiers Home, 11th st. and Massachusetts ave. nw., was reportedly kicked in the head during a fight in a tavern at 935 9th st. nw. yesterday. He was transferred to Mount Alto Hospital for observation after treatment at Providence. His assailant was not identified.

Yule Appeal Made

An appeal for gifts of cash, clothing, food, and toys which will serve as Christmas presents for the needy in Montgomery County, was issued yesterday by Mrs. B. Peyton Whalen, chairman of the Holliday Exchange. Interested persons should communicate with Mrs. Theodore Ricketts, secretary of the social service exchange at her office in the Rockville Court House, or call Rockville 2121.

Dry Cleaner Loses $82

Thurlie Cooke, owner of the Economy Cleaners, 1201 H st. ne., told police that laundry and garments left for dry cleaning valued at $82 were stolen from his store between 9 p. m. Thursday and 7 a. m. yesterday. Entry was gained by breaking the lock on the front door.

Suicide at St. Elizabeth's

A 68-year-old St. Elizabeth's Hospital patient committed suicide early yesterday by slashing his throat.

The patient, Eliphalt Hopkins, was pronounced dead at 7 a. m., shortly after his body was found in bed. The slashes apparently had been made by a razor, police said. Hopkins had been an inmate since Jan. 19, 1940. A certificate of suicide was issued last night by Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald.

Agi Jambor Pleases in Bach Recital

By Paul Hume

The Friday Morning Music Club opened its 62d season yesterday with a piano recital by Agi Jambor.

Though a recent newcomer to Washington's musical scene Jambor has already, through her radio series over Station WINX, and her lecture-recitals at American University, become one of its most influential artists.

Her profound knowledge of the works of Bach was evidenced at the outset of her program, in an unfamiliar but unusually moving series of variations in the Italian style. Based on harmonic devices common in Italy during Bach's time, the variations explore a highly poetic vein. They were played with the finest possible feeling for light and shade, and in a dynamic range which never overstepped proper bounds.

This was true, too, of the D Major Toccato by the same composer, in which Miss Jambor did the finest playing we have heard from her. She has scaled down somewhat the breadth of sonority which she formerly demanded of the piano, and her work has gained immensely by the adjustment. Little piano playing of recent weeks has equaled her work in these measures.

The C Minor variations of Beethoven require something more in technical virtuosity than seemed easy for the artist yesterday, but the gentler moments were models to be followed by others. Of three genre pieces by her fellow Hungarian, Zoltan Kodaly, the Meditation on a Theme by Debussy was most attractive, sounding at times strikingly similar to its inspirer. A piano reduction of portions of Kodaly's humerous orchestral suite, "Hary Janos," did not lend itself happily to the new medium.

Two contrasting movements of a modern sonata by another Hungarian, Franz Szabo, revealed a natural flair for piano style.

Though not as revolutionary as the composer's pronouncements on the nature of composition would lead one to suspect, the music was rhythmically interesting all of the time, with a quick-change element of arresting moment. In this, as in her Bach, Jambor did some of the most assured, artistic playing of the season. An overflow audience greeted every item with obvious pleasure.

Foundry Methodist Has 'Christian Living' Series

The "University of Christian Living," a young adults' program, will continue sessions beginning with a social hour tomorrow at 5:30 p. m. at Foundry Methodist Church, 16th and P sts. nw. Slated to meet at 7 p. m. are classes in Principles of the Protestant Faith, Dynamic Christianity, Practical Citizenship and Religion in Art.

Bullion Cache Data Is Given To Gov. Tuck

Richmond, Va., Nov. 7 (AP).—F. L. Weathers of South Carolina came to Richmond today to talk to the Governor about buried treasure—but he didn't have much to say to anyone else.

"I didn't want any publicity," he told reporters bent on getting some hint of the location of some 10 million dollars in gold or silver bullion Weathers says his grandfather told him was buried in Virginia.

Weathers wouldn't consent to a photograph and his son, who accompanied him from Greenville, S. C., wouldn't even give his full name.

About all the weather-tanned carpenter would say was to describe himself as "one of the poorest men in South Carolina." He displayed a bandaged finger in telling that he'd "always worked hard for a living" and declared of the treasure: "I'm not looking for anything for myself."

Weathers wrote the Governor last week telling of his grandfather's part in placing the bullion—a loan to the Confederacy shortly before the end of the War Between the States—in a "strong iron box" and burying it.

When he received the letter, Governor Tuck, who's been busy trying to whittle down budget requests of over 600 million dollars said he'd "be glad to help anyone who thinks he can dig up another 10 million dollars in Virginia."

H. J. Eckenrode, director of history and archeology for the State Conservation Commission, termed the tale of the buried loan "poppycock" after hearing of Weathers' tale.

Bible Class Set Monday

A Bible class will be held Monday from 7:30 p. m. to 8:15 p. m. at the Central YMCA, 1736 G st. nw. The instructor will be Dr. William B. Adams, pastor of Rockville Baptist Church and former Army chaplain.

Bishop Flint Due At Consecration

Bishop Charles Wesley Flint of the Washington Methodist area, will consecrate the new Marvin Memorial Methodist Church, Four Corners, Md., tomorrow at 3 p. m., and will preach.

Assisting in the service will be Dr. Fred C. Reynolds, superintendent of the Washington East District, and the Rev. Marion S. Michael, pastor, Isam Mason, president of the congregation's board of trustees, will present the building keys to Pastor Michael. Dr. Reynolds will preach at 11 a. m. Church gifts will be dedicated.

2 Morning Services At Calvary Baptist

Calvary Baptist Church, 8th and H sts. nw., tomorrow will inaugurate two morning services—at 9 a. m. and 11:15 a. m., with the Sunday school meeting at 10 a. m. The sermons will be identical. The Junior and Washington Boys Choirs will sing at the first service, when there will be a children's sermonette in addition to the regular sermon. Dr. Clarence W. Cranford will preach at both services. Families are requested to bring their children to the early service.

Michigan Ex-Governor Gives Park to Georgia

Atlanta, Ga. (UP).—Former Gov. Chase S. Osborn of Michigan has deeded his 15-acre winter estate in Worth County to Georgia for use as a State park.

The property, known as Possum Poke in Possum Lane, was offered to Gov. M. E. Thompson with two strings attached:

1. Osborn reserve a life right to the estate, where he has been spending his winters for many years, for himself and his daughter, Stella Brunt Osborn.
2. He said he wanted "to extend to two Afro-Americans, Ethel Lee Rhymes and Lula Mae Tolbert," the right to live in their present quarters there as long as they wished.

Citation to Be Given To United Brethren

Col. Roy H. Parker, Army chaplain, at 11 a. m. tomorrow will present a citation to the Evangelical United Brethren denomination for providing chaplains in the war. Dr. George E. Schnabel, pastor of Albright Memorial Church, 4th and Rittenhouse sts. nw., will officially receive the citation on behalf of the entire denomination at the services, in which war veterans will participate.

Susie Q.

"Frankly, I think it's more interesting spending coins!"

All Souls' Guest Speaker

Guest speaker tomorrow at 11 a. m. at All Souls' Unitarian Church, 16th and Harvard sts. nw., will be the Rev. Donald Harrington, associate minister of New York's Community Church, of which the famous Dr. John Haynes Holmes has been pastor many years.

'Inflation' Charge Barred In Rowe Trial

Baltimore, Nov. 7 (AP).—A Federal Court jury which Thursday returned a $2500 verdict against Attorney Walter L. Green of Hyattsville, former trial magistrate, was instructed not to consider a charge that he committed a woman to a mental institution in 1943 because he was "infatuated" with her daughter.

The verdict was returned in favor of Mrs. Melissa Rowe, 56, of Brentwood, Md. She had complained she was deprived of her civil rights and "railroaded" into Spring Grove State Hospital.

Before the case went to the jury, Mrs. Rowe's counsel conceded there was no evidence to substantiate the infatuation allegation against Green made by Mrs. Rowe in her complaint and referred to in her testimony.

Green said on the stand he barely knew the daughter, Mrs. Florence Pearson. He filed a motion for a new trial immediately after the verdict.

Dr. W. H. Hume

Culpeper, Va., Nov. 7.—Funeral services for Dr. William Waller Hume, 82, were held here today. Burial was in the Masonic cemetery here.

Dr. Hume died Wednesday in Beckley, W. Va. A native of Culpeper County, he was a graduate of the Medical College of the University of Virginia. For over 50 years he had practiced medicine in Beckley.

His wife, the former Gazelle Garnett Hundley of Essex County, died in 1946. He is survived by a son, Beverley Hoskins Hume, of Beckley, and a brother, B. Royal Hume, of Culpeper.

Adm. Clark, Veteran of 2 Wars, Dies

Rear Admiral Frank Hodges Clark, 75, U. S. N. (ret.), veteran of two wars, died Thursday in Bethesda Naval Hospital.

Admiral Clark, who was retired in 1936, was awarded the Navy Cross for services while commander of the battleship Vermont in World War I. During the Spanish-American War he was with Admiral Schley's flying squadron and participated in the battle of Santiago.

He was born in Boston, Mass., and received his appointment to the Naval Academy in 1895. He was graduated and commissioned an ensign July 1, 1899.

In 1911 he was assistant chief of the Bureau of Ordnance and was attached to the Office of Naval Operations from 1920 to 1923.

He was appointed Aide to Navy Yards in 1925 and was made commander of the light cruiser division in 1930. Two years later he assumed command of the scouting force.

In 1933 Admiral Clark was named a member of the General Board and one year later was made chairman. He held this post until his retirement in 1936.

Since his retirement he had made his home in the Dresden Apartments, Connecticut ave. and Kalorama rd. nw.

Admiral Clark is survived by his wife, Mrs. Nina Swalm Clark.

Funeral services will be held at Fort Myer Chapel, Monday at 2 p. m., with interment in Arlington Cemetery.

DOWN from New York to celebrate the anniversary of Russia's Great October Revolution yesterday, Andrei Vishinsky (left) received guests with Semen Tsarapkin (center), Charge d'Affaires of the Soviet Union, and Mme. Tsarapkin. Here they are greeting K. T. Jutila, Minister of Finland

Celebrating the Revolution

Vishinsky Is Star Guest At Soviet Embassy Party

By Marie McNair

RUSSIA'S "man of the hour," Andrei Vishinsky, was star guest at the Soviet Embassy reception yesterday afternoon given to celebrate the anniversary of the great October revolution.

The chief of the Soviet Union's delegation to United Nations, shelved his duties at the Assembly and came down from New York to celebrate the day. He stood for more than an hour with Semen Tsarapkin, Charge d'Affairs of the Soviet Union, and Mme, Tsarapkin, hosts at the reception, to greet scores of guests as they came up the winding marble stairway.

Somehow, the party yesterday seemed to lack esprit. If the usual pattern of celebrations had been followed there were far fewer guests than in previous years, even fewer big names. And from snatches o' over-the-shoulder conversations picked up from the moving throng, "who's here and who isn t" seemed to be the main theme.

"I see the Joe Davies," someone remarked. "And you couldn't miss handsome Mrs. Davies in a mauve satin suit with the new long hemline standing stiffly out about her slim ankles; platina foxes about her shoulders and a black ostrich hat high on her beautifully coiffed silver hair.

"Is Acting Secretary of State Lovett here?" cameramen were asking. The answer was "no" as far as anybody knew, but Mrs. Lovett was, looking ever so smart in brown faille with a matching toque glistening with a pink sequin ornament.

"Ah, there's the British Ambassador." Lord Inverchapel came in to receive a pat on the back from Mr. Vishinsky, and with him was tiny blonde Lady Inverchapel wrapped in a long stole of silver blue mink. The French Ambassador, Henri Bonnet, and Mme. Bonnet, arrived just under the line; Norway sent its Counselor of Embassy, Knut Lykke; and others from the Diplomatic Corps were the Italian Ambassador and Signora Tarchiani, the Yugoslav Ambassador, Sava Kosanovic and his cousin, Dr. Mica Trbojevic; Mrs. Norman Makin, wife of the Australian Ambassador; the Polish Ambassador and Mme. Winiewicz and the Indian Ambassador, suave Asaf Ali.

I DIDN'T see a single Cabinet member, or Senator, nor a Justice of the Supreme Court anywhere.

Among very first arrivals were the Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Air, John Nicholas Brown, and Mrs. Brown and while foreign uniforms of military and air attaches dotted the scene, the khaki and navy blue of the USA were strangely scarce.

Admiral Joseph Farley, Commandant of the Coast Guard, and Mrs. Farley rolled up in a limousine with the Coast Guard seal on the door; and there were Capt. Floyd Ferris, chief of protocol of the Navy; Capt. S. H. K. Spurgeon, Naval Attache of the Australian Embassy; Air Commodore J. L. Findlay, Air Attache of the New Zealand Legation and Mrs. Findlay, and Commodore Frits Kjoelsen, Naval Attache of the Danish Embassy.

From the State Department were the Assistant Secretary, Norman Armour, and Mrs. Armour in a mink brimmed hat, and Stanley Woodward, chief of protocol. The Finnish Minister and Mme. Jutila were accompanied by their daughter, Miss Vappu Jutila; Mrs. Nelson Johnson, wife of our one-time Minister to China, came in on her way to dinner; the Austrian Minister, Dr. Ludwig Kleinwaechter, was alone, and Paul Marik, counselor of the Hungarian Legation, was accompanied by Mme. Marik.

Still others were Mme. Thors, wife of the Icelandic Minister; the Swiss Minister, Charles Bruggmann; the Siamese Ambassador, Prince Wan Waithayakon; Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Graves; Mme. Rybar, the Counselor of the Pakistan Embassy and Mme. Baig, and the Minister of Luxembourg, Hughes LeGallais.

AND where were the Latin Americans usually to be found at every diplomatic reception?

Well, the dean of the corps, Carlos Martins, was understandably absent as Brazil no longer enjoys diplomatic relations with the Soviets. The Chilean Ambassador, Felix Nieto del Rio, was not included among the guests for the same reason. I did spot Dr. Jose Baron, Cuban Minister, and the Minister of Uruguay, Dr. Jose Mora, with Senora de Mora, in sleek black satin with a veiled hat of white satin boasting two handsome paradise birds.

The buffets—there were two of them—were covered with platters of lobster, aspics, cold salmon, salads, ice cream with strawberry sauce and hundreds of little cakes. In the dining room the clock tower of the Kremlin rose high above the birthday cake, which was more than three feet long.

Geo. Abells Entertain Friends At Pre-Remodeling House Party

Mr. and Mrs. George Abell will never say "You should have seen this house before we remodeled it!" For yesterday they invited all their friends in for cocktails and a quick look around. In its pre-remodeling stage, the house was minus furniture, hangings, carpets and all. Only a few faded roses grew on the wallpaper.

Little signs tacked on the wall told guests which was to be the library, the parlor and so forth. In the garden was a sign marked "swimming pool." "For guppies," added one of the guests.

That everyone came was very apparent. From 6 o'clock on the empty house was filled, and cars were still driving up long after 7. Frankie Tam played his guitar bravely, but hardly a note was heard above the chatter. Mrs. James H. Foskett, wife of the Admiral, admitted she couldn't decide whether she was going forward or going backward, as she was swept along in the crowd.

Receive in Drawing Room

Mrs. Abell and her husband stood at the door of the future drawing room to greet their many guests. The pretty hostess wore a long dress with rust color metallic top and black lace hoop skirt. Just about every group in Washington was represented at the party. There were diplomats, officials, cave-dwellers and out-of-towners.

Mrs. Eulah Morgan was there with Harley Prim of New York, and Clarence Hewes with Bradley Campbell. Mrs. Nancy Mann talked with Brig. Gen. and attractive Mrs. Clayton Adams, and Mrs. Randolph Huntington Miner with Mrs. Randall Hagner. Johnny Meyer, Howard Hughes' press agent, appeared at the party early and stayed late.

Making their way around the buffet were the Ambassador of Honduras and Senora de Caceres, the Ambassador of India, Asaf Ali, and the Charge d'Affaires of Pakistan and Mrs. Baig. Others seen in the room included Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Schenck, Mrs. B. Lauriston Hardin, jr., Ted Straeter, and Mrs. Persons Rust.

In Bare Rooms

Assembled in the library were Mrs. Eldridge Jordan, Mrs. Emil Hurja, Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Conger Pratt, Mr. and Mrs. Beverley Robinson, Mrs. Loy Henderson, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Henderson, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar L. G. Prochnik, the Carleton Holdredges, Marshall Exnicios, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Maine Treglown, Col. and Mrs. M. Robert Guggenheim, the Clark Woodwards and Mr. and Mrs. Morris Cafritz.

The four-story Victorian house was ablaze with lights from stem to stern, and the 3400 block of N st., where the house stands, was lined with cars.

Guests were helped from their cars by a workman in day-laborer clothes.

Eisenhowers Feted At Dinner Party

LIEUT. GEN. Sir William Morgan and his daughter, Miss Pauline Morgan, entertained last evening at a dinner in honor of the Chief of Staff, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, and Mrs. Eisenhower. The party was given at 8 o'clock at the Morgan residence.

Your Questions On Homemaking

Can you tell me how I can clean my iron without scratching the surface? I pressed a nylon garment with too hot an iron and some of the material "melted" on the iron. A. P. M.

If soaking the spot on the iron by placing a damp cloth over it—when cold, of course—doesn't remove the melted rayon, use suds or a fine mild scouring powder or paste on the cloth. Afterward, wipe it with a clean, damp cloth and dry thoroughly before using.

There are some very bad stains on the tile floor of our bathroom. They were there when we moved into our apartment, so I don't know what they are. I have tried everything I can think of to remove them, including oxalic acid, but to no avail. Is there anything else I can use for removing these stains? H. A.

You might try covering the stains with a cloth saturated in chlorine bleach and leaving it for several hours. Then scrub with steel wool or scouring powder and rinse off. The use of acid on glazed tiles isn't advisable. However, if these are unglazed, the following poultice treatment may be helpful: Dissolve 1 part sodium citrate crystals (purchased at drug store) in 6 parts water. Measure and add an equal volume of glycerine. Mix well. Work in enough whiting to make a thick paste. Apply ⅛ inch thick covering of this paste. Let dry. Remove. Repeat until stain disappears.

PETUNIA!

Hooray for my manicure
Polish! I have a
New system for measuring
Water for java!

Nice going, Petunia! It saves a lot of time measuring if you just put a dot of red nail-polish at the 2, 3, or 4-cup level . . . whichever you use most.

Bishop-Bracken

I have two wool suits that were given to me. They have an underarm odor. Can you tell me how to remove it.? M. B.

Sponging cloth with warm water to which a few drops of vinegar have been added, sprinkling powdered pepsin over it, working it in well, and letting it stand will usually remove perspiration odor. Keep the spot moist while the pepsin is on it. Leave for one to two hours, then let dry and brush out. Rinse by sponging with clear water. This procedure is fine on light-colored materials, but if your suits are dark it may be hard to get all the pepsin out. It would be better to take the garment to a dry cleaner and ask him to steam-spot them under the arms to remove the perspiration.

How can I remove fingernail polish that has just been spilled on a rayon quilted housecoat? Also, what can I use to remove an ink stain that has been in the coat for some time? I. E. J.

First, wet the nail polish stain well with carbon tetrachloride or a gasoline cleaning fluid. Then apply a drop of banana oil to the stain. Brush lightly with a soft cloth, using an upward motion to pick up dissolved polish. Since this is a quilted robe, the color may go into the padding, which will necessitate repeating the treatment several times.

As to the ink stain, if the robe is washable and colorfast you may be able to take the spots out by soaking a day or two in milk. Rinse out in clear water afterward, then wash in soapsuds. One of the commercial ink removers on the market should also take it out, but try these on an unexposed part of the fabric first to be sure they won't affect the color.

Sunday Dinner's Peace Plate

The conservation recipe of Citizens Food Committee for Sunday dinner is Pineapple Upside Down Ham Loaf, designed to use leftover ham and a cheaper cut of pork.

Hot tomato juice
Pineapple Upside Down Ham Loaf
Candied Sweet Potatoes Buttered Peas
Celery Tart Gelatin

A lemon or lime gelatin whip is suggested or a fluff of snow pudding for dessert.

PINEAPPLE UPSIDE DOWN HAM LOAF

2 cups ground cooked ham (or 1 can pork-and-ham loaf, ground)
1½ cups ground pork shoulder
2 eggs
1 cup milk
1 cup finely crushed cracker crumbs
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
¼ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
1 teaspoon dry mustard
2 tablespoons vinegar
3 slices canned pineapple

Combine first seven ingredients. Combine sugar, mustard and vinegar; pour into loaf pan 10 by 5 by 3 inches. Arrange pineapple on top of sugar mixture in a nice design, cutting slices as needed to fit. Pack meat on top of pineapple. Bake in moderately hot oven of 375 degrees Fahrenheit for 1½ hours. Unmold. Serve hot or cold. Serves 6 to 8.

Market Memo

By Lucia Brown

HIGHER prices on chickens and lower prices on eggs are greeting the week-end shopper. Almost all grades of chicken have jumped 2 or 3 cents in price . . . while eggs have dropped 2 or 3 cents on the dozen.

Just about the same are prices on meat and on other poultry besides chicken. Fish prices are "steady," too . . . with frozen halibut, shipped here from New England, one of the thriftiest buys. Southern lobster (also called crayfish) can be found on the waterfront market . . . about 25 cents a pound cheaper than Northern lobster. Oysters are a little more plentiful than a few weeks ago . . . and fair supplies of crabmeat and shrimp are coming from the Gulf.

Altrusan Sees Aid to Students As Means of Fostering Peace

By Harry Goodwin—The Washington Post

Threshing out last-minute details for the concluding sessions of Second District Altrusa Clubs eighteenth annual conference, which ends tonight with a gala banquet in the Mayflower Hotel are (left to right), Miss Corinne V. Loomis of Boston, International president of Altrusa Clubs; Miss Augusta H. Clawson, head of local Altrusa, and Mrs. Mary Lou Rothrock of High Point, N. C., governor of the Second District of Altrusa Clubs. Established in 1917, Altrusa was the first business and professional women's organization in the United States

By Genevieve Reynolds

Extension and intensification of international projects was urged yesterday by Miss Corinne Loomis of Boston, new president of the International Association of Altrusa Clubs.

"The more international clubs we can establish, the more financial aid we can offer students from other countries," she told the 250 delegates attending the eighteenth annual conference of the Second District Altrusa Clubs now in session here at the Mayflower Hotel.

She pointed out that another reason for increasing the number of international clubs and student aid was to obtain greater power in order to help build a new world based on peace and understanding.

Reporting at the luncheon session, Mrs. Martha Fitzgerald of Columbia, S. C., chairman of Altrusa's Good Neighbor Policy and Practice Committee, said that since the organization inaugurated the study grants in July 1945, $11,250 had been used as scholarships for Latin Americans to study in the United States.

During the luncheon program, Washington Altrusa Club, organized about 10 years ago, was presented its official international charter.

Highlight of events, which included a tour of the FBI Building and personal greetings from J. Edgar Hoover, was a gala reception last night at the Pan American Union given by the Washington Altrusans for the 200 out-of-town conference delegates, and the Capital's radio and press women.

Tea with the First Lady at the White House will be the principal social event on today's program, that will include business sessions, and a memorial service conducted by Blanche Deal of Roanoke, Va.

Altrusans will conclude their three-day conference with a banquet tonight when Mrs. Pearl A. Wannamaker, past president of the National Education Association and Altrusa achievement award winner, will be principal speaker.

YWCA Plans Fellowship Week Events

The Young Women's Christian Association of Washington will observe World Fellowship Week with a series of events beginning with a vesper service tomorrow, 4 p. m. at the Washington Cathedral.

"During this week women in YWCA's of 65 countries will join in services and prayers for the betterment of the world," said Mrs. Nelson Johnson, chairman of the local World Fellowship Vespers Service," and then they will roll up their sleeves and go out and work for world peace."

Under the auspices of the National Board of the YWCA's of the United States, Mrs. J. Parker Van Zandt, as a contribution to the observance of the Week of Prayer and World Fellowship, will make a speaking tour in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York. Her topic will be "YWCA World Fellowship in the Air Age."

Lydia Van Zandt has been on the board of directors of the YWCA in Manila, P. I., and here in Washington where she was world fellowship chairman for two years. She has traveled by air to many countries where she has visited their YWCA's before and since the war.

Negro Women's National Group Convenes Here

The National Council of Negro Women will open its twelfth annual convention here tomorrow with committee meetings and registration of delegates in the council house, 1318 Vermont ave. nw.

Several national and international personalities will be featured speakers during the seven-day conclave. Seceratry of Labor Lewis B. Schwellenbach will speak at the Tuesday morning session which will be held in the Department of Labor auditorium.

Highlight of the convention will be an international program Thursday, 8 p. m., when Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, chairman, U. N. Commission on Human Rights, and Mme. Vijaya Lakshimi Pandit, Indian Ambassador to the Soviet Union, will be speakers. Other featured speakers will include Mrs. Ellen Mills Scarborough, United Nations Representative for Liberia, and Mrs. Oswald B. Lord, president of United States War Interest Board.

Convention delegates and their guests will attend a White House reception 6 to 8 p. m. Thursday, preceding the international night program. Reports on international conclaves will be given at the dinner. Mrs. Eunice Hunton Carter, chairman of the council's board of trustees, who attended the International Assembly of Women held in Paris, will lead the discussion at a dinner meeting.

Round 6—Mr. and Mrs. Reducing Bout

Cocktails K. O. Slimming Diet

Ida Jean Kain

This is solely in the interest of weight. But all calories must be accounted for and no series would be complete without some mention of alcohol, for it provides calories the same as food—only faster. And as one overweight announced in no uncertain terms, "Take away all my drinks and I'll shoot you!" I believe he meant it, too.

The only thing to do in that predicament is to let the cocktail replace the dessert. When the grand total of calories—food plus alcohol—is over the top of one's requirements, the surplus is stored. This will be the food calories, by the way, for alcohol cannot be stored. But as anyone can readily figure out—while the alcohol calories are being used for energy, the food calories, not being needed, go to waist. For proof, see the scales.

Another well-known fact is that alcohol whets the appetite. Indeed, one chap's reducing diet was driving him to drink . . . he claimed. He always had three beers before lunch so he would enjoy the reducing diet. Even if he stayed with his low-calorie diet he would gain. It's a mistake to think alcohol adds weight only because it stimulates appetite. It boosts the total calories.

Just to keep the record straight, one 12-ounce can or bottle of beer furnishes 140 calories; a 10-ounce glass, 115, and an 8-ounce glass, 95.

Cocktails pack a calorie punch. One manhattan contains from 135 to 160 calories, depending on the amount of liquor used. One ounce of rye or bourbon furnishes 85 calories and one ounce of Italian vermouth 50 calories. One ounce of French vermouth counts 35 calories, a martini counts 100 to 135 depending on gin content. An ounce of Scotch or gin each contains 75 calories. Your "cheapest" calorie drink is a Scotch and soda.

Nessell—Munn

The wedding of Miss Beverly Munn and Dr. William Edward Nessell took place October 25 in the First Congregational Church of Wellesley Hills, Mass. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. Judson Munn of Wellesley and her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred E. Nessell of Washington. The Rev. Robert J. Blakesley officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an off-the-shoulder full-skirted gown of white satin with bertha of Chantilly lace. Her finger-tip veil was caught to a wreath of stephanotis and she carried a cascade bouquet of stephanotis and white orchids.

Miss Esther M. Grout, maid of honor, was costumed in blue velvet and carried yellow and bronze asters and chrysanthemums to match her headband. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Keith Farr, Mrs. Donald Gateley, Mrs. Louis Falconi and Miss Gloria Keppler. All were in rose velvet with cascade bouquets of pink asters and roses and matching floral headbands.

Dr. Robert R. Montgomery acted as best man and ushers were Dr. Keith Farr and Dr. John Normyle.

After a honeymoon in Virgina, Dr. and Mrs. Nessell will reside in Washington. The bride is a graduate of Mary Washington College of the University of Virginia and also studied at Harvard Medical School. Dr. Nessell was graduated from George Washington University School of Medicine and is a member of Nu Sigma Nu.

Muller—Strauch

Mount Vernon Methodist Church was the scene on October 11 of the wedding of Miss Alma Strauch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Strauch of Grindstone, Pa., and George Stanley Muller, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Muller of New York. The Rev. John W. Rustin officiated.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white brocaded satin with full skirt, bustle and train. Her veil was attached to a beaded tiara and she carried calla lilies.

Attending her sister as matron of honor, Mrs. Eugene Fuller was gowned in aqua marquisette and carried a colonial bouquet. Her two daughters, Peggy and Nancy Fuller, dressed in white formals, were trainbearers.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. James Wilson and Mrs. Lovett Gregory. Both were costumed in pink chiffon and carried old-fashioned bouquets. Frank W. Strauch was his brother's best man and ushering were Corpl. James Wilson and Lovett Gregory.

After a New York honeymoon, the newlyweds are making their home in Washington. The bride has been with the Government for the past five years and at present is in the United States Office of Education, Federal Security Agency. Mr. Muller served five years in the Army.

Kicker—Jonelis

Miss Ardelle Jonelis, daughter of Anton Jonelis of Washington and the late Mrs. Jonelis, was married on October 25 to Lieut. Comdr. Harold J. Kicker, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Kicker of Tuscaloosa, Ala. The Rev. Edward Hughes Pruden performed the ceremony in First Baptist Church.

Escorted by Col. Walter S. Welsh, the bride wore a gown of white mousseline de soie with illusion veil attached to a beaded juliet cap and carried gardenias and white roses. Her only attendant, Miss Isabel Ellis, wore aqua net with fuchsia accessories and her bouquet was of yellow roses. Capt. E. B. McKinney served as best man. A reception followed at the Officers' Mess, Anacostia Naval Air Station.

Lieut. Comdr. and Mrs. Kicker will make their home in Honolulu. The bridegroom attended the University of Alabama before entering the Naval Flying School.

Ferrin—Lyddane

Mr. and Mrs. William O. Lyddane of Washington announce the marriage of their sister, Miss Mary Elizabeth Lyddane, to Junius F. Ferrin, jr., son of Mrs. Mary B. Wallis of Huntington Park, Calif. The ceremony was performed in Grace Reformed Church by the Rev. Calvin H. Wingert.

The bride wore a cinnamon colored suit with brown accessories and corsage of orchids. She was attended by Mrs. James P. Kroger, wearing a Kelly green suit with brown accessories and corsage of talisman roses. After the wedding an informal dinner was held at the Olney Inn.

Following a wedding trip to New York, Mr. and Mrs. Ferrin proceeded to Salt Lake City, Utah, where they will make their home.

Lusk—Fitzsimmons

In a ceremony solemnized at the Naval Chapel on October 25, Miss Miriam Purcell Fitzsimmons, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Fitzsimmons of Old Forge, Pa., became the bride of Lieut. Hugh F. Lusk, USCG, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lusk of Quincy, Mass. The Rev. Joseph McGroarity of St. Dominic's Church officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of ivory satin fashinoed with net yoke, fitted bodice and bow bustle. Her fingertip veil fell from a cap of Belgian lace and she carried a white prayerbook with orchid marker.

Miss Anne Rose Fitzsimmons, maid of honor for her sister, was costumed in harvest green taffeta with matching pokebonnet and carried a nosegay of Better Times roses. Richard Lusk served his brother as best man and ushers were Lieut. Marcus M. McGarity, USCG, and Lieut. Walter A. Wright, USCG.

After a reception at the Roger Smith Hotel, the newlyweds left for a Southern honeymoon. They will reside in Washington.

Mrs. Lusk was employed in the office of the Judge Advocate General here. The bridegroom attended the University of Maine and is a graduate of the United States Coast Guard Academy in New London, Conn.

Scannell—Deolin

Miss Ruth Deolin of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., and Val E. Scannell of Washington were married October 25 in the Church of Holy Comforter. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Ruth Deolin of Wilkes-Barre, and the bridegroom is the son of Col. H. G. Beswick of Boston, Mass.

After a honeymoon in Miami, Fla., Mr. and Mrs. Scannell will live in Washington.

Moody—Carlson

Miss Jeanne Marie Carlson, Miss Washington of 1946 and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Carlson, became the bride on October 31 of William Norman Moody, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Moody. The wedding took place in St. Rita's Church, Alexandria.

Escorted by her father, the bride was gowned in white satin and her fingertip veil fell from a coronet of orange blossoms. Her bouquet was of white roses and lilies of the valley with orchid center.

Her attendants were Miss Cecelia Moody, wearing misty green and carrying talisman roses, and the Misses Betty Carlson and Margie Hunt, bridesmaids, costumed in pink with bouquets of orchid chrysanthemums. Darleen Reed acted as flower girl.

John Joseph Moody was his brother's best man and ushers were Sergt. Raymond Hubbard, Richard Sanders and Johnny Greenwell. The ceremony was followed by a breakfast at the home of the bridegroom's parents and a reception at the home of the bride's parents. Both families live in Alexandria.

Comer—Bare

Mr. and Mrs. Mason R. Comer, jr., who were married October 25 in Francis Asbury Methodist Church, have returned from their honeymoon and are making their home at 1939 Calvert st. nw. The bride is the former Miss Edith May Bare, niece of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Henry of Silver Spring, Md., and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mason Comer of Lowell, W. Va. The Rev. O. B. Langrall officiated.

The bride was gowned in white satin with fingertip veil and carried a bouquet of white roses centered with an orchid. The matron of honor, Mrs. Cordiene King, wore a teal blue dress and carried American beauty roses. The bridesmaids, Miss Margie Kidd and Miss Frances Burton, were costumed in blue and pink with bouquets of talisman roses.

Roger Wonson acted as best man and ushers were Richard Simpson and Don Snyder. A reception followed at Hotel 2400. The bridegroom, who served six years in the Army, was awarded the Purple Heart and Bronze Star.

Dan Blum Annual Is Up to Minute

By Richard L. Coe

THE CHILDREN'S FILM LIBRARY Saturday morning programs resume a week from today with a new series. Nine Warner houses will offer these movies, chosen for juvenile interest, each Saturday at 10 a.m. with a 25-cent admission charge for both children and adults. Next week's bills: "The Canterville Ghost" at the Calvert; "Penrod and Sam" at the Tivoli; "The Son of Davy Crockett" at the Penn; "Henry Aldrich, Boy Scout" at the Uptown; "Mother Carey's Chickens" at the Avalon; "Stablemates" at the Silver; "Poor Little Rich Girl" at the Kennedy; "Dog of Flanders" at the Sheridan and "The Daring Young Man" at the Beverly.

"THEATER WORLD," the heavily illustrated, immensely handy record of the previous theatrical season is just out . . . Daniel Blum is editor of this increasingly valuable annual; Norman MacDonald, associate editor . . . It comes in handy when people ask drama editors, "Who Is Richard Hart?", as someone did recently . . . The usual movie tomes as yet haven't a scrap on Hart, who plays opposite Greer Garson in "Desire Me" and Lana Turner in the Palace's Thanksgiving attraction, "Green Dolphin Street" . . . The name was familiar, but also new to the screen is the reasonably similar one of Richard Basehart . . . "Could they be the same person?" someone asked . . . Nope . . . Basehart was the chap in "Repeat Performance." Hart appeared in Washington at the Natonal in "Dark of the Moon." . . . After the New York run of that one, he went right to Hollywood and seems to have been doing fine with Metro since . . . So Blum's annual has already served us well . . . He includes casts, dates and biographical material of the year's plays and players . . . But the clincher of his book is illustrations, several of each play, finely reproduced . . . Those pictures alone are worth the reasonable price of $1.50 for the paper covered edition . . . Cloth is $3.

"THE WINSLOW BOY" has had a solid New York reception, only one of the daily crix being downright agin it . . . (why, we can't imagine!) . . . Everyone seems agreed that, as Richard Watts said: "It is decidedly worth seeing." . . . We'll bet this one gets a run on the "word of mouth" appeal, for we're still hearing reports from National patrons who enjoyed it.

ST. JOHN IRVINE (and that's pronounced sinjin) crops up in two connections . . . The London drama critic (who once alternated jobs with Alexander Woollcott on the old New York World years ago) is the author of the Theater Guild's first televised play, "John Ferguson." . . . You can pick this up tomorrow night on WNBW-NBC at 8:30, with Thomas Mitchell in the title role . . . Irvine's "The First Mrs. Fraser," with Jane Cowl in the role created by Grace George, was revived this week in New York.

BARBARA COLE, that young Washington dancer formerly with the Ballet Theater, won't be appearing with the group this weekend at Constitution Hall . . . Barbara's now got a solo spot of her own in the Tschaikowsky musical on Broadway, "Music in My Heart."

MUTUAL'S WOL begins the first in a series of tentatively scheduled theater pickups tonight at the Howard, with Thelma Carpenter and Herbie Fields' Orchestra at 8:30 . . . Willie Bryant's emceeing the Howard's stage show this week.

GUTHRIE McCLINTIC takes time from his wife's (Katharine Cornell) touring "Anthony and Cleopatra" to lecture Tuesday night at Pierce Hall . . . This talk is sponsored by the King-Smith Productions, Inc. . . . The director's subject will be "The Modern American Theater" . . . The King-Smith "No Exit," by the way, is adding a matinee today and tomorrow, with the final performance of the Sartre play tomorrow night.

SPEAKING OF Miss Cornell's revival of the Shakespearean tragedy, do you remember John Mason Brown's review of 10 years ago when Tallulah Bankhead attacked the same role? . . . As nearly as we can recall, it went something like this: "Tallulah Bankhead stepped onto Cleopatra's barge Saturday night. And sank."

LONDON and the rest of the world has been following the Hollywood hearings on Capitol Hill with great interest, especially assertions that the movie colony is in the grip of the Commies . . . The London Times of last Tuesday printed this letter from a reader whose shrewdness is as sharp as his humor: "If a committee constituted by authority of Congress can seriously hold that Hollywood is riddled with communism, how can we be sure that our continued showing of even a limited number of films from such a tainted source will not jeopardize our eligibility for American aid under the Marshall Plan?" . . . Very neat, wot? . . . While we're on the subject of movies that have been dubbed Commy, "Margie" is the bill tonight at the Airport drive-in . . . You might take a look at that nostalgic bit of Americana and see what Commy influence you can find.

TOMORROW: More about the results of the Thomas committee's Hollywood investigation by Richard L. Coe.

Friendship Train Starts Trip East With Cargo for Europe

Hollywood, Nov. 7 (AP).—In a spectacular gesture of American good-will to less fortunate lands beyond the sea, the Friendship Train was scheduled to leave here amid traditional Hollywood ceremony late tonight on a cross-country journey to collect food for starving Europe.

The train is expected to comprise eight food-laden boxcars and 15 flatcars bearing gay floats, and Film Producer Harry M. Warner, chairman of the Friendship Train Committee, said early response indicates the plan may eventually include 200 or more carloads of food for shipment abroad.

Among those participating in the send-off will be Gov. Ingram Stainback of Hawaii and Charles Luckman, chairman of the President's Citizens Food Committee. Stainback announced that Hawaii residents would contribute two carloads of sugar.

The train is a vital part of the Nation's emergency food program which Luckman said yesterday must succeed or fail by January 1. It will tour California, then head east, arriving in New York November 18. From time to time, as it grows longer, cars will be hooked to other trains and taken to New York.

Year's Probation Given in Spanking

A father was given a year's probation yesterday for flailing his young son with a belt and fly swatter as punishment for sharing in stolen money.

Found guilty October 17 of an assault charge growing out of the spanking, Lawrence Lee Cox, 30, of 1909 Nichols ave. se., was put on probation by Municipal Court Judge Walter J. Casey.

Testimony during the trial showed the boy, Lawrence, jr., 8, was severely spanked after he confessed to his father that he had helped spend money a neighbor boy had taken from his parents. The children confessed using the money to buy toy pistols and holsters.

The charge was brought by the spanked boy's uncle.

Lane Gets Funk Portrait

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 7 (AP).—J. Frank Bauer, former State Senator, presented to Governor Lane today a portrait of John B. Funk, chief engineer, and former Secretary of State. The portrait will be hung in the Secretary of State's office.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Food Now Foreign Policy Instrument

By Drew Pearson

Aboard The Friendship Train—Southern California—This train of freight cars which pulled out of Los Angeles last night en route to New York and Europe represents something basic and important in the American system. It's a symbol of the participation of the average American in the foreign policy of his country.

Now, however, for the first time in history the average American sees a chance to do something to influence the foreign policy of his country.

Food and Foreign Policy

For food quite definitely has become an instrument of foreign policy. It is just as much an instrument of foreign policy as tanks or battleships, possibly more so. Food means the difference between a chaotic Europe and a gradually reconstructed Europe. In the end it may mean the difference between peace and war.

These boxcars of food, of course, are only a token, and thousands more boxcars of food must be sent later. Furthermore, this food doesn't come from nowhere. It comes from meatless days and breadless meals, past and future, and by countless economies at the American dinner table which may continue many months into the future.

Nevertheless, it is an important token of American generosity, American saving and American friendship—a token which can be dramatized and which Europe can understand.

In the past, drama has been something completely lacking in American food distribution.

Russian Drama

The Russians landed a scant 16 tons of wheat in Italy last year—which is just one boxcar. But the parades they staged as a result of that one boxcar made thousands of Italians think Moscow was their sole benefactor.

In France, when one meager ship unloaded Russian wheat at Marseilles, the Communists declared a holiday, bedecked the city with flags, and cleverly convinced a good many Frenchmen that they would live off Russian wheat the rest of the winter.

Meanwhile, shipload after shipload of American wheat was poured into both France and Italy. But since it was turned over to the French and Italian flour millers, it reached the people merely as flour. There was no way to distinguish it from any other flour. Few people knew it was American.

In contrast, the food now being loaded aboard the Friendship Train will be distributed through the two joint American Relief Committees in France and Italy. These committees are composed of the various American relief groups functioning in Europe—American Baptist Relief, National Catholic Welfare Council, American Friends Service Committee, Lutherans, Mennonites, Brethren, Congregationalist Service Committee, Unitarian Service Committee, and most of the American church groups which conduct relief work abroad.

Their skilled personnel will undertake to make sure that the French and Italian people who receive this food will know that a great many American people took a lot of trouble to gather it from their fields—as the Friendship label reads—"Bringing it to your doorsteps in the hope that it will tide you over until your own fields are again rich and abundant with crops."

Heroes Without Headlines

Response from local communities to the Frendship Train has been terrific. Little towns off the mainline have insisted on attaching cars. Tiny Colton, Redlands, Beaumont, Ontario, near Los Angeles, have lined up with bigger towns—San Diego, San Bernardino, Santa Barbara, Ventura . . . In Los Angeles the Teamsters Union, under Ray Leheney, arranged for picking up food; also the teamsters bought one carload of wheat at their own expense . . . The Pacific Electric Railroad did a great job of helping collect . . . On Halloween the school children of Sacramento collected money for food instead of soaping windows . . . The American Legion in Los Angeles collected hundred-pound sacks of flour . . . P. W. Litchfield, chairman of Goodyear Tire & Rubber, has patriotically volunteered the services of Goodyear men in towns along the route of the Friendship Train to help waterproof packages for export. Local Goodyear men are supplying pliofilm for wrapping . . . In Bakersfield, everyone—from the small children of Greenfield Union School who gave up ice cream money to big Kern County ranchers—pitched in to buy one carload of wheat, carefully bagged and packed for export.

D. C. Gas Firm Files Plan for Stock Offering

By S. Oliver Goodman

Sperry

An offering of 85,000 shares of Washington Gas Light Co. common stock has been filed for registration with the Securities and Exchange Commission, President Marcy L. Sperry announced yesterday.

Expected proceeds of more than $1,800,000 will be used by the company and subsidiaries for construction outlays to meet requirements for gas service "resulting from the growth of residential building in the metropolitan area."

Subject to SEC approval and also subject to Public Utilities Commission authorization, the new stock will be offered to present stockholders for subscription in the ratio of one share of new stock for each five shares now held. "Rights" will be given to stockholders of record December 3 and will expire on December 19 if not exercised.

The subscription price of the new stock has not yet been announced. Yesterday's quotation for Washington Gas Light Co. common stock on the local exchange was 22 bid and 23 asked.

Any stock unsubscribed by present shareholders, it was understood, will be offered to the public by a local underwriting group.

At present Washington Gas has 425,000 shares outstanding of an authorized 900,000 shares of common stock.

Stocks Again Edge Lower In Dull Deals

New York, Nov. 7 (AP).—Timid demand for special oils and industrials helped balance the stock market to a certain extent today, although light selling was sufficient to turn the general trend slightly downward.

Dividends and earnings aided assorted favorites but still were ignored by others concerned. Accounts were trimmed here and there by those who thought that scant hopes for tax relief remained.

Dealings stalled after a fairly active opening. Offerings were a bit more persistent in the final hour, but real pressure was lacking. Declines of fractions to a point or so predominated at the close. Volume of 760,000 shares compared with 850,000 the day before and equalled that of Monday, which was the smallest for five hours since September 29.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was off .3 of a point at 65, a low since October 8.

Touching highs for 1947, on pleasing disbursements or earnings prospects, were American Smelting, which ended up 1 at 69; Gulf Oil, 1¼ at 74⅛; Lion Oil, 1 at 32; Phelps Dodge, ¾ at 45½, and Gaylord Container, ⅞ at 22¼. Dividends lifted Seaboard Oil 1 at 34 and Pittsburgh Plate Glass ⅞ at 39⅞. An extra by American Chicle left this issue down ½ at 49¼.

'Boom-Bust' Theory Hit by Hudson Chief

Barit

An optimistic note on the Nation's business outlook was struck here yesterday by A. E. Barit, president and general manager of the Hudson Motor Car Co., before more than 800 Southeastern Hudson dealers and distributors.

He decried the validity of "boom and bust" theories—instead, he called for continued public confidence in market conditions to maintain a high demand for manufactured goods.

Against a backdrop of nine new Hudsons at a private preview at the Statler Hotel, Barit declared that the great demand for automobiles would continue for an indefinite time if confidence among buyers remained high.

The new model, claimed the lowest car in history, and with the lowest center of gravity, was termed by Barit "a fundamental change in auto design."

The new cars, which will go on sale early in December, are the product of a 33-day, 16-million-dollar retooling operation at Hudson's Detroit plant. Their prices has not been announced.

Chrysler Reports $47,873,089 Net

Detroit, Nov. 7 (AP).—Chrysler Corporation reported today a net profit today of $47,873,089 for the first nine months of 1947, compared to $10,292,645 for the corresponding period last year.

The net profit was carried to earned surplus, Chrysler said.

For the first nine months of 1941 the corporation reported a net of $29,460,847 and for 1940 a net of $30,706,094.

President K. T. Keller, reviewing the operations of the automobile industry as a whole in the United States for the nine-month period, said the annual production rate had increased 15½ per cent over the average for the five prewar years 1937-41.

"It can reasonably be stated," Keller said, "that automotive production, while below capacity and immediate demand, is well on the way back to a normal peacetime basis."

Ford Motor Coach Distributor Named

Detroit, Nov. 7 (AP).—The Ford Motor Co. today designated a new firm, Metropolitan Motor Coaches, Inc., as exclusive national distributor of Ford motor coaches and parts.

At the same time, the company announced the resignation of James W. Irwin, since last March director of public relations for Ford. Irwin has formed a corporation appointed by Metropolitan to sell Ford coaches in the Cleveland-Buffalo-Pittsburgh territory.

Ford will build chasses, and bodies for the coaches will be manufactured by the Wayne Works of Richmond, Ind.

Besides the dealership taken over by Irwin, others will be located in Washington and elsewhere.

Ohio Utility to Use Competitive Bidding

Cleveland, Nov. 7 (AP).—Application will be filed with the Ohio Public Utilities Commission by Cleveland Illuminating Co. for authority to sell 20 million dollars of first mortgage bonds at competitive bidding, the company announced today.

Proceeds will be used to pay part of the cost of a 93-million-dollar construction program.

President Elmer L. Lindseth said the proposed bond issue and a stock refunding were "wholly different operations, and not comparable," adding that the offering of the bonds at competitive bidding should not be construed as a new policy.

Capital Store Sales Up 12% During Week

Washington department store sales in the week ended November 1 spurted 12 per cent over the same week last week, the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond reported yesterday. Early holiday shopping and cooler weather were factors, but some merchants believe that sharply climbing prices were the major influence.

Thus retailers, while reporting new highs in dollar sales, actually sold fewer units of merchandise and have had a lower over-all profit ratio than in 1946. The drop in unit sales probably averaged from 5 to 10 per cent, depending upon types of goods.

The latest gain in local store sales is moderately more than the average in the Fifth Federal Reserve District where dollar volume in the latest week averaged 9 per cent higher.

For the four weeks ended November 1, local store sales were reported 5 per cent higher while the Fifth District showed a 3 per cent gain in the same period.

Informed sources agree that rising prices, particularly during the last five months, are the chief factor in the climb of dollar volume to new peaks. A possible 15 to 20 per cent rise in retail prices compared with last year exceeds the estimated dollar percentage gain, it was pointed out.

Chicago Grain

Chicago, Nov. 7 (AP).—Wheat led an upturn in grains on the Board of Trade today as pessimism over new-crop prospects deepened and the Weather Bureau came up with a discouraging five-day forecast.

July and September wheat, representing the 1947 crop, had the widest gains, but the old-crop months also were strong. Corn and oats firmed. Soybeans jumped as much as 8 cents, the daily limit, at one time. Part of the gain was lost.

Wheat closed 3 to 4¾ higher, December 2.96¼@2.96½. Corn was 2 to 3⅛ higher, December 2.33¼@2.33½, and oats were 1⅝ to 2⅜ higher, December 1.15⅜@1.15¼. Final soybean prices were up 4 to 4½ cents, November 3.62.

Prices opened higher on information that only scattered snow had fallen overnight in Kansas and Nebraska. Analysts discounted the effect of the previous day's snow, pointing out that 1 inch of rain is equivalent to about 10 inches of snow when it comes to providing moisture.

Woman Sings After Silence Of 10 Years

Baltimore, Nov. 7 (AP).—Dortors related today how a middle-aged woman who hadn't spoken in 10 years suddenly joined in singing "Rock-aBye-Baby" her second day in a dancing class at the Spring Grove State Mental Hospital.

Her illness had been diagnosed as catotonic schizophrenia, long regarded as incurable in its chronic stages. The victim suffers a disintegration of personality marked by inhoherence and long periods of stupor.

Dr. John J. Francis, specialist in the rehabilitation of chronically ill women, said the patient had been a "sitter" in a dancing class where the simple melodies and rhythms of nursery tunes are being used to kindle interest in mental patients.

"This woman," Dr. Francis said, "was only one of many who have come out of their 'regression' under stimuli usually associated with early childhood.

"I have seen patients in two months stirred to the extent they have wanted to make rugs for their bedsides, go to the movies, and attend our regular dances.

"Many patients need to be taken step-by-step to a place in adult society through the same stages offered to normal young children."

Dr. Francis explained that Spring Grove's technique of songs and dances emphasizes the ling between the desire to participate in social events and the desire to be useful. Patients may work on anything which catches their fancy.

SCC to Study Bus Service on Arnold Lines

The Virginia State Corporation Commission has agreed to hold hearings at an unspecified date on the quality of Arnold Bus Lines service, The Washington Post learned yesterday.

Request for the investigation came two weeks ago from the Arlington County Board, which directed its Public Utilities Commission to petition both the SCC and the Interstate Commerce Commission for hearings.

The SCC was said to be willing to hold its own hearing on intrastate Arnold Bus Service, or to hold a joint hearing with the ICC if the Federal commission showed a desire to investigate.

The Arnold Line was granted a five-cent fare increase on most of its routes last September by the ICC, which admitted in an accompanying report that bus service provided by the line was deficient.

In its petition to both the SCC and ICC, the Arlington PUC complained that Arnold Bus service in the county had been further aggravated by routing and schedule changes on September 1. The County Board was told that many complaints on Arnold service had been received.

Symons Stresses Good Practice In Timber Cutting

Dr. T. B. Symons, dean of the College of Agriculture and director of the extension service at the University of Maryland, told associates from all over the country yesterday one of their most important tasks is educating the owners of timberland in proper cutting practices.

About 4 million owners hold title to three-quarters of the nation's timberland, he pointed out to the land grant college association's organization and policy committee at the Willard Hotel.

The association opens its annual meeting Monday.

"Woodland experts have classed as poor the cutting done on much of the privately owned timber in this country," he declared.

"Better practices will increase the returns and give the owners a more regular income over the years."

House of Lords Asked to Annul 10-Year Marriage

London, Nov. 7 (UP).—The House of Lords, Britain's highest tribunal, was asked today to annul a marriage because the wife made the husband use contraceptives. It took the case under advisement.

Frederick Charles Baxter of Hanwell, Middlesex, appealed to the Lords after the court of appeals refused his plea for a decree nisi of nullity. He argued that his wife's insistence on contraceptives amounted to wullful refusal to consummate their 10-year marriage.

Gilbert Beyfus, counsel for Baxter, said Mrs. Baxter had what might be called a hereditary objection to normal intercourse because her father and mother encouraged her in her refusal to have children.

Russian Princess, 85, Takes Life in Rome

Rome, Nov. 7 (AP).—An 85-year-old Russian princess, Leonille Balianske, chose the thirtieth anniversary of the Soviet revolution for a fatal leap from the fifth floor of her Rome boarding house. Police said it was a case of suicide. A naturalizd Swiss, the princess had lived in Italy and Switzerland since 1918, when she fled Russia.

Teachers' Workshop Hears Ideas

Fairfax County high school teachers yesterday concluded a two-day workshop at Fairfax High School by hearing reports on their ideas to increase the school's benefit to the community.

Twelve reports, the results of small group discussion during the meeting, gave answers to such questions as: What is the high school's responsibility to the community? How do students learn best?

Recommendations for teachers and supervisors included: (1) closer coordination between schools and other community groups, (2) greater participation of students in planing of work, (3) an end to the practice of having teachers in courses with which they are not entirely familiar.

The workshop is an annual meeting to bring teachers together from the four high schools to discuss mutual problems and ideas for improved techniques. Similar meetings have been held during the week for teachers of elementary grades.

Wife Slayer Convicted of Manslaughter

A verdict of manslaughter against a 44-year-old Bowie (Md.) auto mechanic, charged with the fatal shooting of his wife, was returned in Prince Georges County Circuit Court at Upper Marlboro last night.

The defendant, Lloyd Milton, was indicted for murder in the shooting which occurred May 3 after an argument over another man.

The jury of nine men and three women, deliberated three hours before arriving at its verdict.

According to testimony of his two stepdaughters, Mrs. Dorothy Lee Williams, 19, and Miss May Katherine Morris, 18, Milton fired two blasts from a shotgun, 10 minutes apart, at his wife, Ethel, 35, as she lay in a bed at their home. The second shot was fired after the two women had attempted to aid the wounded wife, they said.

A defense plea of temporary insanity, submitted by Attorney John S. White, was ruled out. Dr. George Preston, of the Maryland State Mental Hospital at Spring Grove, Md., had testified that Milton appeared completely sane while under observation at the Crownsville Hospital several months ago.

Milton, who fled after the shooting, was arrested in Washington the day after the slaying.

Gorgas Medal Goes to Hawley For Work With VA

Maj. Gen. Paul R. Hawley, medical director of the Veterans Administration, has been awarded the 1947 Gorgas Medal for his work with VA, it was announced here yesterday.

Hawley

The Association of Military Surgeons of the United States announced that the medal, awarded annually by Wyeth, Inc., Philadelphia pharmaceutical house, will be presented at a meeting in Boston next Friday.

General Hawley, wartime chief surgeon of the European theater of operations, was appointed head of the VA medical division in 1945. Under his direction the number of doctors employed by VA has increased from 1900 to 7000 and the number of patients admitted monthly to hospitals from 17,000 to 45,000.

Police Impersonator, Wielder of Shotgun Also Sentenced

Rudolph Valentino Vidi, 21-year-old scissors grinder, yesterday was sentenced to serve three to nine years for raping a 17-year-old girl after slapping her into submission while parked with her in an auto last July 21. Sentence was imposed by Associate Justice Richmond B. Keech in District Court.

In another case, Robert Green, 40, received a two to eight year sentence for the shotgun slaying of his common law wife, Eyelyn Bryant, 24, of 344 McLean ave., and John Byrd, 27, of 319½ M pl. sw., in April 1946.

Green, who pleaded guilty of a manslaughter charge, had found the Bryant woman and Byrd in bed together. In June, 1946, Green was found of unsound mind, but later pronounced sane.

A man accused of impersonating a policeman was sentenced to 3-12 months in jail.

He is Henry Taylor, 32, of 4503 Benning rd. ne. Taylor was arrested by a Park policewoman and a policeman after they had been accosted by Taylor in Anacostia Park. The officers had been sent to the park in response to complaints that a man posing as a policeman had been molesting couples in the park.

Two 17-year-old youths were sentenced to one to five years each on five charges of unauthorized use of automobiles and two charges of housebreaking. The youths are Donald E. Anderson, 17, of 3626 16th st. nw., and Gerald G. Clements, 17, of 6305 7th st. nw.

Ernest L. Tucker, 22, of 332 K st. nw., was sentenced to three to nine years on charges of breaking into the Weistock Paper Co., 511 New Jersey ave. nw., last June and stealing $409.87.

John H. Jones, 36, of 127 47th st. ne., was sentenced to serve 6 to 18 months on charges of promoting a lottery.

Raymond R. Slaughter's apparent dislike for walking netted him a two-to-three-year sentence.

Slaughter, who lies at 506 L st. sw., was convicted of stealing a bicycle last August and of stealing a car a month later. He was sentenced to one year on the bicycle theft and one to three years on the car theft.

Jack O. Anderson, 20, of Balleys Cross Roads, Va., was sentenced to one year on a charge of negligent homicide growing out of the traffic death of Atlee A. Austin, 29, last July.

Austin died after being struck by a truck driven by Anderson at 35th and N sts. nw.

Baptists Back Outlawing Of Liquor Ads

Roanoke, Va., Nov. 7 (AP).—Legislation that would prevent the advertising of liquor and beer in newspapers and magazines and the sale of alcoholic beverages in grocery stores was indorsed by the Baptist General Association in resolutions adopted by the closing session of the group's 124th annual meeting here today.

The association voted to hold its 1948 meeting at Freemason Street Baptist Church, Norfolk, November 3-5 and chose the Rev. H. R. Carlton of Galax, to preach the annual sermon next year, with the Rev. H. W. Connelly of Roanoke, as alternate.

In another resolution, the association stated it "views with increasing alarm the international trend towards another govern interntional as well as individual relationships, and that they should be the basis upon which the structure of peace in the world should be built."

The resolution urged that "forward looking forces in every country be supported ahead of the reactionary groups, with the interest of the common man and his right to happiness and security being put above selfish and political interests.

"An effort should be made to strengthen United Nation agencies that are being used to administer certain disputed strategic natural resources in the world for the good of all concerned," the resolution continued.

Wehr Blooms Judged Best In Takoma 'Mum Exhibition

Forty-eight growers displayed blooms in the twentieth annual chrysanthemum show of the Takoma Horticultural Club, which closed last night at the Takoma Branch of the Washington Public Library.

First and second honors in the show were won by Everett E. Wehr, 1510 Noyes dr., Silver Spring, with his pink "Evening Star" and yellow "Sun Glow."

A "Red Rover" displayed by John Davidson, 1326 Allison st. ne., took third prize. Dr. Roy Magruder, principal horticulturalist of the Department of Agriculture, judged the exhibits, and Mrs. P. G. Nutting of the Chevy Chase-D. C. Garden Club was judge of the arrangement classes.

Rep. Doughton At 84 Still Is Wheelhorse

By The Associated Press

The oldest man in Congress was 84 yesterday—and he's still setting the youngsters a dizzy pace.

This 200-pound 6-foot-2 giant of a man, was born during the War Between the States, and got his name from the Confederate general his father followed in battle.

Doughton

He is Robert Lee Doughton of North Carolina.

As former chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, he was a Democratic field marshal in the House during the days of Franklin D. Roosevelt, and until the Republicans took control of Congress last January. He still is a wheelhorse in his party.

"Not tired, not sleepy, not hungry, and not mad. Nobody ever hears me complain."

That is the way he summed things up on his birthday anniversary. He had something to say, too, about the world today:

"I'm no pessimist or spreader of gloom. But the world is in a state of complexity and confusion."

He Keeps Long Hours

Notwithstanding, he believes there still are ample opportunities in America for "young people who are willing to accept responsibility and work."

"We all have got to think straight and work hard," he said.

When it come to work, Doughton usually is the first member of Congress to arrive on the Hill—around 6:30 a. m.—and among the last to leave at night.

And Doughton still has a powerful voice where the Nation's tax policies are concerned.

It's generally conceded on Capitol Hill that so long as a Democrat is in the White House, the Republicans cannot press through legislation objectionable to the President, unless they bring out something that pleases Doughton.

His opposition can muster enough votes to uphold a veto.

Right now he is taking a solid stand against any "quickie" tax slashing bill at the special session that convenes November 17. "I want to know first what we will spend at home and for foreign aid," he says.

No birthday celebration was planned for the day.

"I'll just work as usual," he said.

Britain Balks at U. S. Demand For Wider German Authority

By R. H. Shackford
United Press Reporter

The Anglo-American conference on financing the combined occupation zone of Germany has bogged down temporarily because of Great Britain's unwillingness to grant the United States a larger voice in the direction of "Bizonia's" economic affairs, it was revealed authoritatively yesterday.

The United States has agreed in principle to take over virtually all Britain's dollar expenditures in the combined zones. This will amount to about 250 million dollars, in addition to some 400 million dollars—the American share under the previous 50-50 arrangements.

British Reservations

Great Britain has agreed in principle—in return for United States assuming the bulk of the dollar expenditures—that the United States should have a larger voice over the control of economic affairs. But reliable informants said the British insistence on certain reservations would, in effect, prevent the United States from actually obtaining increased authority commensurate with its greater share of costs.

This is the most serious deadlock, because the United States insists upon more authority to direct expenditure of the money it will put into Germany. State and War Department officials are aware that great difficulties would confront them in Congress if greater control of larger expenditures is not forthcoming.

The Anglo-American talks have been going on here for some weeks. They started after the British served notice that they would not be able to meet any more of the dollar expenditures in the combined zone after December 31. The original agreement called for a 50-50 split.

After several weeks of negotiation, the conferees struck several snags, and the British had to refer them back to their government. The answers have arrived, but in general these "compromises" are no more acceptable to the United States than the previous offers.

Agreement on this and other issues is now urgent. The special session of Congress convenes in a week to consider among other things a request for an estimated 400 million dollars additional for occupied areas. Part of this would help foot the bill the United States will take over from Britain in Germany.

May Cost United States Billion

Some American officials—worried about the spiralling price level here—estimate that, with all factors combined, the United States may have to sink nearly one billion dollars into Germany during the next fiscal year compared with what is now estimated to be about 700 million dollars for the 1947 fiscal year.

The great hope of these officials is, however, that the Marshall Plan will so rejuvenate European economy that it will be possible at an early date for the United States to start cutting down its appropriations for Germany.

Sanity Hearing Is Continued As Neighbors Accuse Woman

A sanity hearing before a Municipal Court jury yesterday involving a 47-year-old housewife charged with assault on the daughter of Radio Commentator Fulton Lewis, jr., was continued until Monday.

Mrs. Agnes C. Pearson, 4408 Volta pl. nw., was arrested on September 30 on the complaint of Miss Alice Elizabeth Lewis, 15, 4402 Volta pl. nw. At a hearing on October 1, Mrs. Pearson was committed to Gallinger Hospital for a 30-day period for mental examination.

Dr. Joseph L. Gilbert, chief psychiatrist at Gallinger, testified yesterday that Mrs. Pearson was suffering from dementia praecox of a paranoia type. Neighbors including Fulton Lewis, jr., testified as to Mrs. Pearson's habits.

Witnesses testified that Mrs. Pearson had an aversion to children and dogs. Miss Lewis said the defendant had thrown a stick and a rock at her as she walked her Chesapeake Bay retriever, "Tippee," near her home.

Mrs. Pearson, testifying for more than two hours, told the jury that she thought in some instances the neighbors deliberately attempted to antagonize her. She said in one instance she found a paper skeleton hanging on her porch and in another instance someone rapped at her window.

Ellen, some moron practical joker tied a rope across that shortcut from the lumber yard! And—
The path is over the border of the Pixie country: I kept telling Pop. Mr. O'Malley, my Fairy Godfather, closed it up—
Your trousers!
Barnaby, that imaginary Fairy Godfather of yours never did this. Some bad older boys—
John! This is OUR clothesline!

What Better Name for a Girls' Club Than 'Bims'?

Nancy M. Kenaston of 4710 S. 30th st., Arlington, Va., is a British war bride who considers herself "lucky to be over here."

But she can't forget the plight of the folks she left behind, so she's been trying to send food parcels whenever possible.

Mrs. Kenaston

Nancy thinks there are probably a good many other British girls here, who would like to form a club to "share a spot of tea, and try to raise some cash to send more food parcels overseas."

Anybody interested in forming such a club is invited to call Mrs. Kenaston at Temple 8657. And before the girls go much further with their idea, let me get in an oar.

I think they need a name that can be shortened to its initials, in typical Washington fashion.

Something like "Britain's Immigrant Maidens."

STREET SCENE

Alberta L. Vehue of 4720 Hudson ave., Suitland Manor, Md., is our reporter for this one:

"I wish all the Lizzy Stoners could have seen the very dressed-up gal I followed down F st. a few days ago.

"She was wearing a peg skirt which extended to within about four inches of her ankles—and very tight around the bottom.

"As we crossed 13th st., she tried to step up onto the island in the middle of the street, but couldn't quite negotiate that great height—and sprawled across it.

"And her skirt was so tight that she couldn't get up without help.

"A passing male finally took pity on her, and pulled her to her feet. He was grinning broadly, as were all the passersby who had stopped to watch this little drama.

"But you can bet she wasn't grinning—not one little bit."

PERSONAL NOTES

Giler D. Cowen: Your honesty in wishing to find the rightful owner of this property is commendable, but I can't run the item. There are literally hundreds of things lost and found in Washington each day—and if I run one, I'd have to run them all in order to be fair. I'm sure you'll understand.

INCLUDING WEEBEE?

The Cage Bird Society of Washington is holding a bird show at the Continental Hotel, North Capitol and D sts. nw., today and tomorrow.

Secretary for the show is Margaret K. Hines of 4905 Edmonston ave., Hyattsville, Md. She writes:

"Admission is free, and everybody is invited to drop around and see all the strange birds."

QUESTION & ANSWER

Mrs. Edward R. Seal of 3368 18th st. nw. writes:

"I seem to recall that you once announced that if a contributor's item resulted in a Groves cartoon, the original drawing would be given to the contributor. If that's correct, do I get the one which ran November 4?"

Yep—but you've got to ask for it, otherwise we don't know you want it.

CORRECTION

The other day we ran an "Add Names" item in which our correspondent said that the Navy has ". . . no Olds, but one Older."

Today's mail brings a letter of protest which reads:

"Somebody is wrong, and I don't think it's me. I'm in the Navy and my name is Roy T. Olds. And I have a twin brother, who is also in the Navy."

Okay—we stand corrected. But if your brother's first name is Hydramatic, I ain't gonna believe it.

ADD NAMES

If you ever refer to the National Gallery of Art as the "Mellon Gallery," you're ignoring the wishes of the donor.

Andrew Mellon specifically asked that it should NOT be called by that name.

COLLECTOR'S ITEM

The other day we ran an item about "clean dirt," and I made a crack about columnists being paid by the yard and not by the ton.

Bill Plampin of 4108 Tunlaw ter. nw. reminds me that dirt is also sold by the yard—the cubic yard.

I didn't know that, because I've never bought any. I just accumulate mine.

NEW YORK.—Fashion Note: Vicki Cummings went to Hattie Carnegie's to select the gowns she wears in the new play, "For Love or Money." For her third act gown Miss Cummings finally selected one which was still in the Paris box of the designer, M. Gres. A young lady modeled it and Miss Cummings asked her to check the price. When the model returned, she apologized to the actress and confessed that she had worn the gown backward. "That's all right," Miss Cummings reassured her. "That's the way I'll wear it in the play. I'll have the most daringly low-cut-back dress in creation."

FINANCE DEPARTMENT: In Dublin, now that it's sweepstakes time, the story is told of a frugal busboy who in a moment of weakness bought a sweepstakes ticket and won a fortune. The day after the news of his winnings appeared in the newspapers, the frugal youngster was seen still working at his busboy's job. "Aren't you going to quit?" he was asked . . . "Oh, no. I'll not give up my job," replied the busboy, "but—I'm going to be awfully impertinent."

BUSINESS DEPT.: Harold Matson, the literary agent, is the man who signed Calvin Coolidge to write a daily syndicated column. The publicity about the $1 per word Coolidge was to receive caused speculation on whether the silent President would open up to a typewriter under the spell of money . . . Coolidge fulfilled the contract, but after the first three months Matson had to hire a newspaperman assistant for him, because Coolidge confessed: "I'm all written out."

SCHOOL DEPARTMENT: Robert Capa, the photographer and author of "Slightly Out of Focus," addressed the New York Herald Tribune Forum about his recent trip to Russia with John Steinbeck. Capa's school teacher in his native Budapest would have been proud of the new eminence of his former pupil, but the teacher refused to hear of it. During his recent trip Capa stopped at Budapest and searched for his former classmates. Half of them had been killed during the war; most of the others now were beggars . . . Capa then went to his old high school, found his teacher and introduced himself. "Just a moment," said the teacher, who believed that only the good can succeed. He sent for the records, and then said: "According to this, you were a bad student. So, goodby."

FOREIGN DISPATCH: Alexander Ince reports that when Emanuel Shinwell was removed as Minister of Fuel and became Minister of War, his friends rejoiced and said: "Peace at last is assured us. Because when Shinwell was Minister of Fuel, we had no fuel. And now he's Minister of War, so we'll have no war.

THE HECHT CO. SILVER SPRING OPEN TODAY 10 A. M. TILL 9 P. M.

There's A Great New Glow in the Silver Spring Skyline

THE whole town's talking about it!—The Hecht Co.'s new Silver Spring store. To erect a multi-million dollar store on what was yesterday farmland is news! But the biggest surprise of all is the immense expanse of the store. For here is no "branch" operation . . . here is no junior size model. This is the real thing! This is a store of over one-hundred individual shops carrying thousands of nationally famous brands. This is a store complete from cellar to roof . . . ready to serve every member of your family with the necessities and the good things of life! This is the store of tomorrow . . . here today!

Every convenience science can devise is yours at The Hecht Co. Silver Spring. Escalators top to bottom . . . elevators, too! As you enter the store you'll be struck by the magnitude of the building. You'll be thrilled with the wide-easy-to-shop aisles . . . the wonderful lighting effects. Stroll thru the women's shoe shop . . . the men's store . . . cast your eyes on the line-up of famous clothing names . . . they're all here! Now take the escalator for a store-wide tour . . . on three-quarters of a mile of velvet carpeting! You'll find the spacious second floor devoted entirely to clothes for women and children. A teen shop . . . a tot's shop . . . a special boys dept. Visit the beauty salon . . . so modern it boasts a private phone . . . just for you . . . in every booth! The third floor is for homefurnishings . . . everything from tables to television . . . and what a selection! There's a lower level too, devoted to housewares, luggage, toys and hardware . . . and Santa Claus is here, in person, to greet the youngsters!

There's a great new Glow in the Silver Spring Skyline . . . a warm Glow . . . that says "welcome to The Hecht Co. Silver Spring" . . . America's most complete suburban Store!
